Nixon Credits Labor With Helping Peace

Warns That Government Can't Lower Food Prices

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon told the nation's most powerful labor leaders today that their support of the national defense program was "indispensable in achieving peace with honor in Vietnam." But he warned them that high food prices could not be solved by government controls or rationing.

Nixon, meeting with the 35 member AFL-CIO executive council for about 40 minutes, also explained his proposed foreign trade legislation is intended to give him flexible authority to set import tariffs. He did not mention Burke-Hartke bill backed by labor to permit import quotas, union leaders said after the meeting.

One union president not on the council, Edward Carlough of the Sheet Metal Workers, said the President thanked the council for their strong support of his Vietnam and defense policies.

Nixon was accorded an extremely warm welcome by AFL-CIO President George Meany, in a sharp contrast to a confrontation between the President and the labor leaders in November, 1971, when they clashed over controls on wage hikes and prices.

Meany was all smiles when he met the President upon his arrival at the Americana Hotel. Meany and Nixon met privately for five minutes with Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan before going into the opening session of the council's midwinter meeting.

Also sitting in were 35 other union presidents who are not members of the council.

The President was given a standing ovation when he entered the room and when he departed.

Meany, at the outset, thanked the President for achieving the release of American prisoners of war.

Carlough said it was an amiable meeting with none of the rancor that marred Nixon's appearance before the federation's convention 15 months ago. But Carlough said Nixon did all the talking and there was no opportunity for the labor leaders to ask any questions or make their own points.

"No new ground was broken," Carlough said. "The president presented nothing new."

In brief remarks as he was leaving, Nixon told reporters that they "talked about economic matters."

"I covered a number of subjects," he said.

He gave no details to newsmen.

Meany and Brennan escorted him to his waiting limousine which was to take Nixon to a helicopter. The President was to fly next to a golf course where he was to make a publicity appearance at the Jackie Gleason Golf Tournament.

It was drizzling when Nixon emerged from the hotel and his blue suit got wet but he shrugged it off.

Nixon was observed by a crowd of spectators at the hotel as he walked slowly to the conference room with Meany and Brennan.

There were shouts of "God bless you, Mr. President" and "Thank you for bringing the boys home" from the crowd.

Meany and other labor leaders hooted Nixon off the stage when he appeared before the AFL-CIO convention in November, 1971, and bluntly told delegates he would press ahead on his wage-price controls.

The confrontation which came to be known as the "Battle of Bal Harbour" was all but forgotten when Meany steered the traditionally prodemocratic AFL-CIO to an unprecedented neutral stand in the last election.

Body Stolen From Grave Of Petain

LA ROCHE SUR YON, France (UPI) — The body of Philippe Petain, marshal of France and head of the wartime Vichy regime, has been stolen from its grave, police said today.

Police said the coffin containing the corpse of Petain, who was a hero of the 1914-1918 war but died in exile as a pro-Nazi collaborator, was removed from its grave on Ile d Yeu, a wind-sept island off the western coast of France.

A spokesman for the Prefecture of Vendee department said in a telephone interview, "We are searching urgently for the coffin.

"The slab over the grave was pried loose and the coffin was stolen. This seems to be a highly political affair."

Police officials in Veendee department said, "We are watching all ships coming to continental ports from Ile d'Yeu."

Jacques Isorni, who was a lawyer of the former French leader, said in a statement, "I was tipped off some time ago that a raid was being prepared to bring the remnants of the marshall to the Douaumont Fort."

The Douaumont Fort is the central fortress in the World War I Verdun defense area, where French forces under Marshal Petain held off attacking German troops in 1916 and 1918 in what were the bloodiest battles of the time.

The Gaullist Government of France has blocked all attempts to move Petain's body to the Douaumont military fortress, where he asked to be buried.

Supporters of the former Vichy regime demanded the transfer be made as a gesture

Five Die As Small Plane Crashes In Suburb Street

BROOKFIELD, Wis. (UPI) — A twin-engine private plane, its engines apparently dead, crashed alongside a suburban street filled with traffic today, killing four persons in the plane and one in a car on the highway.

The Cessna 421, carrying three businessmen and a pilot, burst into flames when it slammed down between two utility poles alongside the street.

The victims were identified as Robert Bergmann and Robert Hansen, the pilot, employes of the Flak Corp., Milwaukee; and Chet Barch and Steve Peluso, employes of the Sunstrand Tool Corp., also of Milwaukee. All were said to be in their 50s.

The fifth victim, who was in the auto, was not immediately identified.

The plane went into a spin over the highway, then came down next to the road and there was "a helluva explosion," according to Norman Klahn, operator of a service station a block east of the crash site.

Robert Weaver, head of industrial and public relations for the Flak Corp., announced the identities of those aboard the plane. He said the four were en route to Circleville, Ohio, on a business trip and had just left Timmerman Field on Milwaukee's northwest side.

Weaver said the plane apparently developed engine trouble and was returning to the airfield.

Brookfield Police Chief William Wolcott said the plane narrowly missed a subdivision about 900 feet south of the site and just cleared high tension wires, although there were no houses within the immediate crash area.

Police said the car was struck by a wing from the aircraft which lodged under the auto. The car was charred from the fire.

Witnesses told police the driver of the car staggered from the vehicle and collapsed in a field. Residents in the area put out flames on his clothing and covered him with blankets and coats, authorities said.

Falk and Sunstrand are subsidiaries of the Sunstrand Corp., Rockford, Ill.

"We were outside when we saw the plane overhead," said Klahn. "We didn't hear any noise from its engines and the plane was just twirling around. It was all out of control. Theere's no way the pilot could have landed the thing.

Kissinger In Tokyo For Talks

TOKYO (UPI) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger arrived today in Tokyo on the last step of an Asian tour that took him to Hanoi and Peking to discuss the post-Vietnam war era.

His major engagement during a one-day Japanese visit was a meeting with Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

Earlier, a White House spokesman said in Key Biscayne, Fla., where President Nixon is staying, that Kissinger and Chinese Premier Chou En-lai met for five hours on his last day in Peking.

White House spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler did not comment on what the two men discussed but said their talks were "frank and wide-ranging" and took place "in an unrestrained atmosphere."

During his four-day visit, Kissinger also met Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung, who sources said asked Kissinger to convey his regards to Nixon. The President saw Mao when he went to China last spring.

The White House said Kissinger spent a total of 17½ hours in talks with Chou during his visit.

Japanese newspapers said the fact that Mao received Kissinger, who technically holds subcabinet status, at his home indicated that talks on Chinese-American rapproachment may have made substantial progress.

They said Kissinger must have reached agreement with Chinese officials on withdrawal of American troops from Taiwan, on establishment of a U.S. trade office in Peking and an exchange of newsmen.

The subjects of the Kissinger-Tanaka meeting were not disclosed, but government sources said they might deal with Vietnam, U.S.-Japanese relations in the aftermath of the latest dollar devaluation and the general Asian situation.

This is Kissinger's third visit to Japan in less than a year. He first came last June to find out who would succeed Premier Eisaku Sato, who stepped down last July after nearly eight years in office. He then came again in August for talks with Tanaka.

Robbers Force Their Way Into San Anselmo Homes

Two San Anselmo residents were threatened, tied up and robbed over the weekend by men who forced their way into the victims' homes in similar incidents.

In the first robbery, which occurred about 10:50 p.m. Saturday, Timothy J. McCann of 20 Raymond Avenue told police he heard a noise on his front porch.

When he went to investigate, he said he was jumped by four men who pulled him inside the house, tied him with a telephone cord and then went through the house.

He said one was armed with a sawed-off rifle, which discharged accidentally, shortly before the men left. No one was hit by the bullet, police said. Two of the men carried parts of golf clubs, McCann told police.

The robbers, who said they were looking for money, left with a stereo and a camera. McCann freed himself and called police about 11:20 p.m.

In the other robbery, at about 8 p.m. yesterday, Martha Turkan said a man came to her home at 901 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and asked her a question after she opened the front door part way.

She said the robber kicked the door fully open and he and two more men rushed into the house. The three grabbed her, tied her hands and feet and put a handkerchief over her eyes.

After putting Mrs. Turkan into a closet, the men ransacked the house, taking a small safe containing personal papers, jewelry and an unknown amount of cash.

Mrs. Turkan managed to free herself and call for help at about 8:45 p.m., police said.

First Vietnam Truce-Keeping Teams Head Into Combat Zones

SAIGON (UPI) — Truce-keeping teams headed into a combat zone for the first time today and South Vietnam released more Communist war prisoners. But the Saigon command reported the most Communist cease-fire violations in 17 days.

The Joint Military Commission (JMC), the four-power body charged with policing the truce and arranging POW releases, prepared today to send its first investigating team into a combat area. The team was to leave later today for Sa Huynh, a town about 290 miles north of Saigon that was the scene of heavy fighting the first day of the cease-fire.

A command spokesman said fighting was still going on there.

The spokesman said 904 POWs were released today to Communist officials across the Thach Han River from Quang Tri City. This brings the total number of Communists released so far to an even 6,400. A total of 711 South Vietnamese have been set free and another 320 are scheduled to be released Tuesday at Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon.

Despite appeals by the JMC to stop the fighting, the Saigon command said the 194 Communist attacks in the 24 hours ending at dawn today were the highest since 200 were reported Feb. 2.

In the heaviest fighting, five Saigon paratroopers were reported killed and 42 wounded in a day-long Communist artillery and mortar barrage near Quang Tri City. Another battle at dawn today left four men dead on both sides and 10 South Vietnamese wounded in a Communist attack on a militia unit

Crash Of Soviet Plane In Prague Fatal To 77

Vladimir Volodin, the airport manager for the Soviet Aeroflot airline, said 22 persons were pulled from the burning wreckage and survived the crash.

Airport officials said the Russian-built Tupolev 154 tri-engine jet smashed into the ground just inside the airport perimeter, narrowly missing a busy highway around the airfield. Wreckage was scattered over a 400-yard area.

"As the plane ploughed along parallel to the runway, the wings and tailplane fell off," an airport official said.

"Everything was burning with the exception of the front portion of the fuselage," he said.

Western airline officials said the plane broke into three pieces on impact.

An airport technician, who was one of the first to reach the scene of the crash, said:

"I saw two rut marks caused by the plane's landing gear a few yards from the highway.

20 More American Prisoners Are Welcomed In Philippines

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — Another 20 freed American POWs, who initially refused release because they believed it a Communist trick, arrived from Hanoi to a cheering welcome Sunday and three hours later sat down to steak dinners—their first in at least five years.

In Saigon, a North Vietnamese spokesman said more than 100 other U.S. prisoners will go free in about one week.

One of the 20, Navy Lt. James Bailey, left on a mercy flight ahead of the others today to go to the bedside of his critically ill father in Carthage, Miss. Military sources said the rest of the men should complete their paperwork and medical examinations by Tuesday and leave for Travis Air Force Base, Clif., either Tuesday or early Wednesday.

An Air Force spokesman said each of the 20 men was assigned his own doctor in order to get them through medical examinations as quickly as possible.

Official military sources said the latest group of POWs balked after North Vietnamese authorities told them about their early release, a goodwill gesture to mark presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger's trip last week to Hanoi.

"They thought it was a trick," the sources said, "and responded by saying they didn't want to go."

It took a visit by a member of the International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS) to convince the men their release was for real, the sources said.

"This is the sort of prison hanky panky which goes on all the time," a source said. "The men thought the North Vietnamese were fooling with them and they thought they'd play the same game."

In Saigon, Lt. Col. Bui Tin, a spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation to the peacekeeping Joint Military Commission (JMC), said Sunday: "We think that the return of the prisoners of the second phase will be carried out normally in the second 15 days after the (Jan. 28 Vietnam) cease-fire."

That means the next group of U.S. POWs should go free in North and South Vietnam about Feb. 27.

The release of the latest group of prisoners brings to 163 the number of U.S. POWs freed by Hanoi and the Viet Cong since the cease-fire and leaves 362 Americans still in captivity in North Vietnam. In South Vietnam, 81 are still held by the Viet Cong.

Robbers Force Their Way Into San Anselmo Homes

Two San Anselmo residents were threatened, tied up and robbed over the weekend by men who forced their way into the victims' homes in similar incidents.

In the first robbery, which occurred about 10:50 p.m. Saturday, Timothy J. McCann of 20 Raymond Avenue told police he heard a noise on his front porch.

When he went to investigate, he said he was jumped by four men who pulled him inside the house, tied him with a telephone cord and then went through the house.

In the other robbery, at about 8 p.m. yesterday, Martha Turkan said a man came to her home at 901 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and asked her a question after she opened the front door part way.

She said the robber kicked the door fully open and he and two more men rushed into the house. The three grabbed her, tied her hands and feet and put a handkerchief over her eyes.

After putting Mrs. Turkan into a closet, the men ransacked the house, taking a small safe containing personal papers, jewelry and an unknown amount of cash.

Mrs. Turkan managed to free herself and call for help at about 8:45 p.m., police said.

BRIDE'S RETURN — Wyn Sargent and her son Jmy held hands as she walked off a plane in Los Angeles this morning after being ordered out of Indonesia following her marriage to a tribal chief. The chief, Obaharok, who is a cannibal, later decided not to "legalize" the marriage.

Chief's Wife Mum On Marriage

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mrs. Wyn Sargent, an American writer expelled last week from Indonesia, arrived Sunday night and led a pack of 100 newsmen down the corridors of International Airport without saying a word about her short and unhappy marriage to a New Guinea chief.

The 46-year-old amateur explorer, who said earlier she planned to spend one year in the Indonesian island jungle researching a book on sexual customs of primitive tribes, declined comment but said she would hold a news conference soon.

Mrs. Sargent, distinctively clad in desert pants and an Australian bush hat trimmed in flowers, was met by her family and friends and quickly drove to her home in Huntington Beach, Calif.

When she was ordered to leave Indonesia, it ostensibly was for conducting research on West Irian tribes without government permission.

But some officials said that what angered and embarrassed Jakarta was Mrs. Sargent's marriage to Chief Obahorok, the leader of one of the island's most remote tribes.

Indonesian authorities last month said they had spent "a small fortune" trying to civilize New Gunea tribes, but that their efforts were hampered by the tribal wedding of Mrs. Sargent.

In a recent interview in Jakarta, Mrs. Sargent said she married the chief in order to prevent bloodshed among three hostile jungle tribes.

"I married Obahorok to bring the three savage, waring tribes to live together in peace and harmony," she said then. "It was a traditional (tribal) marriage." She said her dowry included pigs, an axe, knife and a spade.

"The chief was overwhelmed," she recalled.

Mrs. Sargent, who spent nearly five months in the New Guinean jungle, told the interviewer that her wrists were cut and her blood rubbed together with that of two other chiefs and that later the "blood sister" ceremony was followed by the marriage.

The primitive island is the one on which Michael Rockefeller, 23, son of the New York governor, disappeared in 1960 and was reportedly slain by a cannibal tribe.

Mrs. Sargent, a divorcee and mother of a 17-year-old son, Jmy, left for New Guinea last Oct. 1 and in a series of letters advised her family that she had penetrated the central highlands of remote Baliem Valley.

Senator Proposes Government Control Of Drug Testing, Ads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., believes there is a vast overuse of drugs in the United States and that there should be sweeping reforms to give the federal government control over all testing and advertising of medicinal drugs.

Nelson, a leading congressional authority on drug laws, said Sunday he advocated reforms "to protect the American people against poorly tested, unsafe, ineffective, improperly used and monopolistically-priced drugs."

As chairman of the Senate Small Business Monopoly subcommittee, Nelson has held extensive hearings on prescription and nonprescription drugs.

He said he would offer his reforms in seven bills to amend the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. His proposals would:

—Establish a drug testing and evaluation center in the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) to take over from the pharmaceutical firms the testing of all drugs. The manufacturers would pay for the tests.

—Require the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) to approve in advance all advertising and require drug salesmen to present an FDA approved document about a drug before making a sales pitch.

—Provide for publication of a list of all drugs available in the United States, identifying them both by generic and brand names, and accompanied by related information such as side effects and costs.

—Give HEW authority to require batch-by-batch certification of all drugs on strength, quality, purity and tests.

— Prohibit distribution of sample drugs without the written request of the physician and then only free of charge.

—Establish a committee to compile a book on drug formulas to assist physicians in prescribing.

Nelson said in a speech prepared for delivery on the Senate floor this week that the drug industry took in $4 billion in sales in 1971, spent $1 billion or 25 per cent of sales income for advertising and promotion, and allocated only 6.2 per cent for research and development.

Draft Evader Mercy Asked

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sen. Jacob Javits says draft evaders are "guilty and deserve punishment," but thinks a federal court or agency should be set up to consider individual appeals and temper justice "with mercy.

Speaking in a televised interview Sunday, Javits said, "There's no condoning the evading of service. We cannot accept the idea that any citizen can opt out of any war he wants."

He added, however, that evaders should get "justice tempered with mercy."

HOUSING FOR TOURISTS

Real Meaning Of 'Aloha'

HONOLULU (UPI) — Hawaiians this week demonstrated the true spirit of "aloha" much to the relief of thousands of tourists who arrived in the islands only to find their reservations had been canceled.

Some 38,000 hotel rooms were filled to capacity and yet travelers continued to arrive in droves.

The crisis prompted the Hawaii Visitors Bureau to initiate "Operation Aloha," an emergency appeal for Hawaii's residents to take in the visitors.

The response, according to Visitors Bureau President John Simpson, "was one of the greatest denonstrations of the aloha spirit I've ever seen. It's proof that Hawaii must be the friendliest place on earth."

Thousands of local families flooded the bureau's switchboard with offers to house the stranded visitors, some of whom had been forced to sleep in hotel lobbies, cars, parks and on the beaches.

Officials said the "tremendous response" came from the plush suburbs of Kahala to the rural communities in Waianae. All races and socio-economic classes joined to show Hawaii's visitors what the word "aloha" really means. They offered their homes and their cars, and very few asked any monetary return.

The crisis began when Hawaii's hotels were flooded with an influx of visitors who arrived without hotel reservations. The hotels normally use a much-criticized practice of overbooking because usually a marked percentage of those reserving space never show up.

Simpson said the dilemma was a combination of circumstances. He said February is usually a very busy month and the influx was larger than expected due to the nationally-televised Hawaiian open golf tournament. "It hit at the right psychological time," he said.

Disgruntled tourists, some of them who mailed advance hotel room deposits, were "overwhelmed" by the response from Hawaii's people.

A woman from the East Coast, nearly in tears, said "this would never happen at home."

"I'm delighted," said a father with five children in tow. "It's much better to live in the home of a local family anyway."

A bureau spokesman said the "crisis" will end by Wednesday and all airlines and travel agents have been alerted to warn potential visitors not to come without a confirmed hotel room.

It is expected that there will be demands for an end to the overbooking practice, either voluntarily or by legislation.

Peter Radulovic, bureau vice president for marketing, said, "The hotel industry needs to reevaluate its whole booking procedures."

But whatever the end result, one thing is sure. The bond of aloha forged between Hawaii's people and the visitors won't be broken. Said one woman, "You'd better believe I'm going to come back."

Vacation Land Boom Under Study By U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has decided to study the boom in vacation land sales because such development could harm the still unspoiled regions of the country, Chairman Russell E. train of the Council on Environmental Quality said today.

Train said the study has been authorized by his agency and by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"The tremendous growth potential in this industry, when contrasted with the current low level of planning and controls in most rural areas, could spell environmental degradation at an unprecedented scale in some of America's most beautiful landscapes," Train said.

In a speech prepared for the American Outdoorsman Conferencé at Clearwater, Fla., Train called the development of land use guidelines "the No. 1 environmental problem facing the nation today."

"The problems of land use are rapidly reaching crisis proportions," he said. "There is no environmental problem more serious than our land use dilemma."

President Nixon, in his environmental message to Congress last week, called for a land use policy to be implemented by the states.

Train said states which fail to develop adequate land use programs, under the administration proposal, would lose from 7 to 21 per cent of federal funds for highway construction, airport building and land and water conservation.

"It is the premise of the Nixon administration's approach that without sanctions in land use legislation, prospects for truly effective state land use control will be compromised," he added. "The legislation needs sanctions— tough sanctions—or it will never work."

Shooting Threat Ignored By Pope

MILAN, Italy (UPI) — Pope Paul VI delivered his traditional Sunday blessing from a window overlooking St. Peter's Square despite a telephoned threat to a Milan newspaper that a gunman would shoot him from the crowd below.

The newspaper Corriere della Sera said today the threat was made Saturday in an anonymous call to its news desk. The male caller said the Pope would die as a protest against "consciencious objectors and against antimilitarism."

Nixon's Top Copter Pilot Leaving Post

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — For 14 years, Army Maj. William Shaw has been ferrying presidents from place to place. Now, he is leaving his post as President Nixon's No. 1 helicopter pilot.

"I'm sure sorry to lose you," Nixon told him Friday as they shook hands on the landing pad in front of Nixon's Biscayne Bay villa. "We're mighty proud of you."

Otto Kerner Guilty In Bribery Case

CHICAGO (UPI) — Federal Appeals court Judge Otto Kerner was found guilty today of taking bribes to fix horse racing dates when he was governor of Illinois.

Kerner and his co-defendant, Theodore J. Isaacs, state revenue director under Kerner, were found guilty on all counts of the indictment after 16 hours of deliberation beginning Saturday.

"Have you reached a verdict?" U.S. District Court Judge Robert L. Taylor asked the jury foreman, William Michaels. "Yes, sir, we have," Michaels replied, passing two envelopes to the court clerk.

"We the jury find Theodore J. Isaacs, guilty as charged," the clerk read. He opened the second envelope and read: "We the jury find Otto Kerner guilty as charged."

The verdict came more quickly than expected after the 27 court days of the trial.

Wearing a snug pink sweater and white miniskirt, Mrs. Harvey, 22, began shining shoes earlier this month at the Merle Hay Plaza Barber Shop after answering a newspaper advertisement. She said she now makes about $11 a day and predicted $20 a day earnings in the near future.

"If I happen to smudge some polish on a guy's socks, I tell him there's no extra charge for it," she said.

Asks Cutback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. J. William Fulbright has warned the administration there will have to be a cutback in other U.S. commitments overseas if he is to support bilateral American aid to North Vietnam.

Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, also said Sunday he did not quarrel with President Nixon's settlement of the war but felt "a similar result could have been achieved four years ago."

"I'm so pleased he stopped the slaughter that it is difficult for me to raise any questions," Fulbright said.

But Fulbright said the Vietnam peace agreement does not bind the United States to any commitment to help rebuild North Vietnam, although it provides for U.S. participation in a postwar reconstruction program.

Synod Called

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI has called a Synod of Bishops for October, 1974 to discuss the problem of communicating the Gospel in the modern world, the Vatican announced today.

In selecting the subject the Pope passed over a suggestion that the next Synod discuss the problems of the family in the modern world — a potentially explosive topic which could have included the controversial subjects of birth control and divorce.

The Pope's summons to the world's Roman Catholic bishops came in a letter, dated Feb. 3, from Vatican Secretary of State Cardinal Jean Villot to the general secretary of the Synod Council, Bishop Wladyslaw Rubin.

Messages For Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Forty-one heads of state so far have sent President Nixon congratulatory messages on ending the Vietnam war, White House sources report.

For example, French President Georges Pompidou, who had openly criticized the intensive U.S. bombing of North Vietnam last December, said he had never doubted Nixon could end the war with an "honorable agreement."

White House officials were obviously pleased with the messages. They said other favorable messages have come in from U.S. state legislatures, counties, cities and several hundred ordinary Americans.

Ski Lift Death

WARWICK, N.Y. (UPI) — Officials today said a broken bolt caused the ski lift accident which killed one person and injured another when their cable chair fell 500 feet to the ground.

A third person was seriously injured during rescue operations which stranded 35 skiers in near-zero weather for up to five hours.

The accident occurred yesterday at the Mt. Peter Ski Center in Orange County.

State police investigating the lift malfunction said a bolt on a support bracket apparently snapped in the cold, causing the steel cable to fall out of position and jamming a chair at one of the towers that lead up the slope.

Henry Lucas, 51, of New York City was killed.

IRA Arrests

BELFAST (UPI) — Soldiers arrested nine suspected members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army and one Protestant today in a series of raids across Northern Ireland, the army said.

A spokesman said four of those arrested were thought to be IRA officers.

Military sources said the arrests, which brought the total number of men rounded up in the last three days to more than 30, were part of a drive to get all known or suspected guerrillas off the streets by March.

Trial In Recess

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Pentagon Papers trial, in recess today, resumes tomorrow with the government concluding its case sometime this week followed by about six weeks of testimony for the defense.

At the bidding of U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byren, government prosecutors Friday said they would wind up their case Wednesday or Thursday, while defense attorneys for Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo told the judge they would need six weeks.

IRA Arrests

BELFAST (UPI) — Soldiers arrested nine suspected members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army and one Protestant today in a series of raids across Northern Ireland, the army said.

A spokesman said four of those arrested were thought to be IRA officers.

Military sources said the arrests, which brought the total number of men rounded up in the last three days to more than 30, were part of a drive to get all known or suspected guerrillas off the streets by March.

Trial In Recess

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Pentagon Papers trial, in recess today, resumes tomorrow with the government concluding its case sometime this week followed by about six weeks of testimony for the defense.

At the bidding of U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byren, government prosecutors Friday said they would wind up their case Wednesday or Thursday, while defense attorneys for Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo told the judge they would need six weeks.

We again emphasize, though, that VITA WAVE colors must be used with specially prepared companion shampoos and conditioners for happy results. We tried substitutions at first and suggested that customers do likewise. Then it became evident that being "purists" brought rewards. So, we switched to all VITA WAVE items and the difference is remarkable. (Still more about the line next week - specifically - permanents. If you can't wait, talk with us at the store.)

Mafia Chief Frank Costello Dies

FRANK COSTELLO
Thwarted assassins

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Costello, an immigrant who became known as "prime minister of the underworld" and survived attempts to assassinate and deport him, died Sunday in a hospital bed. He was 82.

A spokesman for Doctors Hospital where Costello died refused to reveal the cause of death. However, Costello had been suffering from throat cancer for several years. He entered the hospital 10 days ago.

In 1951, Costello's hands on nationwide television kept viewers rooted before the screen while the mobster, in his raspy voice, testified before the Senate investigations (Kefauver) subcommittee. The stocky, nattily dressed Costello refused to have his face televised.

So the camera focused on his mobile, manicured hands. Costello avoided most questions and claime to have no knowledge of organized crime. He admitted he had been a bootlegger and bookmaker, but said he had reformed.

At one point, Sen. Charles Tobey asked Costello, "You must have in your mind some things you have done that you can speak of to your credit as an American citizen."

"Paid my taxes," Costello replied.

In 1954, Costello was sentended to five years in jail for income tax evasion.

Born in southern Italy as Francisco Castiglia, Costello came to the United States when he was four and lived at first with his family in an East Harlem tenement. He moved into the rackets as a teen-ager in Greenwhich Village. By the early 1930s, Costello reportedly was making millions of dollars a year from gambling and bootlegging.

In 1957, a gunman yelled, "This is for you, Frank," and fired a shot at Costello. The bullet grazed his head. The assassination attempt reportedly stemmed from a power struggle between Costello and Vito Genovese for control of the Mafia in the United States.

His citizenship was revoked in 1959 on the grounds he had fraudulently obtained it. The government attempted to deport him but Costello took his case to the Supreme Court. In 1963, the court ruled he could not be deported because offenses he was accused of occured after he became a citizen.

A gray-haired man who favored platinum money clips, custom tailored pin-striped suits and hand-painted ties, Costello lived quietly in recent years with his wife, the former Loretta Geigerman, in an apartment near Central Park. he seldom was seen in public.

Although he frequently was arrested on a variety of charges including assault, carrying a gun, conspiracy and tax evasion, Costello served a total of 7 ½ years in jail. Once, he was arrested and charged with vagrancy while eating a gourmet lunch at a fashionable New York restaurant.

Israel Arms For War On Locusts

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The government armed itself today for another war—against locusts U.N. officials warn may come from Saudi Arabia to threaten crops and foliage.

The Israelis, one official said, may even call in their air force.

The U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO) has warned that swarms of locusts are concentrated in the Jedda area of Saudi Arabia and that they might strike north once they have gorged themselves on Saudi Arabian crops and foliage.

Jedda is about 550 miles southeast of the Israeli-held Sinai peninsula, a traditional route north for locusts seeking greener pastures.

"In the past, our problem was that we weren't able to do anything when the locusts started crossing the Sinai on their way to Israel because the Egyptians were in the Sinai," said Yigal Drucker, spokesman for the agriculture ministry.

"But now it's a different story," he said.

He said it may take a month before they arrive at the tip of the Sinai.

Drucker said the government has begun preparing DDT-basedinsecticides to kill locusts and organizing civilian exterminators with planes to spray the oncoming clouds of insects from above.

"If a lot of them come, perhaps we will even call in the air force," he said.

Kidnaped Tot Returned To Parents

FREEPORT, Grand Bahama Island (UPI) — Andrea Spencer, 4-year-old daughter of a bank manager, was reunited with her parents after being kidnaped and held by two men for 37 hours over the weekend.

The Spencer family left this resort island off the Florida coast Sunday and headed for "a few days vacation in Miami," according to Clyde Minard, head of the Royal Bank of Canada in the Bahamas.

Robert Spencer, Andrea's father, is manager of the Freeport branch of the bank.

Police said they were questioning two persons in connection with the kidnaping of Andrea. They declined to identify the persons being questioned or say whether any charges would be made against them.

A police spokesman said only that the questioning was a result of "following leads" in the case.

Andrea was in good condition after being found Saturday morning by three American tourists and returned home, according to John Crowley, assistant police commissioner from Nassau, the Bahamian capital.

The girl was seized by two men armed with pistols at the Spencer home Thursday night and carried away, still wearing her pajamas.

Crowley said the 40-year-old banker followed the explicit directions given him by the kidnapers in a series of telephone calls Friday and Saturday morning and delivered $250,000 in a brown satchel to an abandoned cement plant Saturday morning.

The money was not picked up, and police said Spencer retrieved it just hours before his daughter managed to escape and was returned.

Crowley said Andrea apparently managed to untie her loosely-bound hands when the kidnapers left her alone Saturday morning. She wandered to a nearby abandoned churchyard in rural Pine Ridge and was found by the three tourists, whom Crowley declined to identify.

Both the late President Charles de Gaulle and his successor, President Georges Pompidou, resisted the demands on grounds it would whitewash the image of a man who lent his prestige to cover up collaboration in Nazi-held France with the Third Reich of Adolf Hitler.

Petain always asked to be buried among his soldiers in the Douaumont cemetery, which is the burial ground for thousands of French soldiers.

Shortly before he died in exile at Ile d'Yeu, the marshal told his prison guards he hoped the French government would allow him to rest among his "poilus"-the nickname for French trench-line soldiers.

Petain was sentenced to death after a drawn-out and highly publicized trial in August 1945. De Gaulle—himself condemned to death by Vichy during the war—commuted the sentence for his one time mentor to life-long imprisonment at the medieval fortress of Ile d'Yeu.

day at Clark, all Navy and Air Force pilots shot down over North Vietnam in 1966 and 1967, got off to a quick start on their debriefing process. Nine hours after their arrival, they had all showered, had a brief physical examination, eaten, met their escort officers and made phone calls home to wives and parents.

The men ate about three hours after their arrival at a special candlelight dinner arranged by the hospital at Clark. One of the men wolfed down five steaks and six eggs during the meal, which was enhanced by the presence of pretty nurses and Red Cross girls. The girls attracted the attention of the men almost as much as the food.

Some of the Red Cross girls blew the men kisses as they stood outside the door. "Who wants to blow kisses?" said one of the men, and a group of them jumped up from their tables, went outside and kissed the girls on the cheeks.

Doctors said all the men were in good physical condition. When they got off the plane that flew them from Hanoi, all looked healthy and carried themselves well as they walked spritely to a waiting ambulance bus.

A cheering crowd of about 2,000, mostly Air Force families and Filipino base workers, welcomed the men. Some of the crowd carried signs reading: "Free and Beautiful." The arrival came just after dusk and the men stepped off the plane into bright television lights wearing big grins, dark blue pants and light blue shirts. They waved enthusiastically to the crowd.

Flood Insurance To Be Considered

The Fairfax Town Council will consider applying for federal flood insurance when it meets Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the town offices.

Also on the agenda is a proposed creek protection ordinance. Mayor Albert E. Gately said the ordinance would describe the types of building prohibited and permitted along creeks as a means of preventing erosion of banks and loss of creekside vegetation. He said the ordinance was mainly aimed at Corte Madera and Cascade Creeks.

The council will also formally set 12.1 cents for $100 assessed valuation as the tax rate needed to pay off the $300,000 bond issue which goes on the April 7 ballot. The bonds would pay for new fire and police facilities.

Richmond Man Assault Suspect

Corte Madera police early today arrested a 40-year-old Richmond man on suspicion of assault, battery and burglary.

Raymond Garza, who was booked into Marin County Jail at 1:15 a.m., was also a parole violator, police said.

Dog Care Classes Begin Saturday

The Marin County Humane Society will begin its annual dog care and instruction classes Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Humane Education Center in Novato.

The two-hour long classes will last five weeks and will be conducted by members of the Sir Francis Drake Kennel Club.

Inmate Cut During Movie

A San Quentin inmate was reported in "improved" condition today after being stabbed and cut 16 times in an attack during the Saturday movie at the prison.

A prison spokesman said the wounded man is Rudy Miramontes, 27, of Fresno County, serving a five-to-15 year term for possession of narcotics for sale.

Two weapons, a screwdriver-type instrument and a prison-made knife, were found in the dining hall where the movie was being shown, prison spokesman James H. Smith said.

He said authorities have a "pretty good lead" as to the identity of the assailant but no one is under arrest yet.

Woman, 20, Reports Attack

A 20-year-old San Rafael woman told police she was raped at knifepoint after she was accosted on a street in San Anselmo early Saturday morning, officers said today.

The woman said she was walking on a street near San Anselmo Avenue when a man, about 18 to 24 years old, threatened her with a knife and then raped her.

After the man fled, the victim reported the attack to the police department. She described her assailant as a Caucasian with brown hair.

Best Of Show Award Is Given

The Terra Linda Art Association has given the best of show award in its February exhibition to Ellene Ashcraft for an oil painting of tulips.

The exhibit, with a floral theme, will last until March 9. Gallery hours are from noon to 3 p.m. on weekdays and from 1 to 4 p.m. on weekends at the association headquarters.

Teacher Hiring To Be Discussed

The San Rafael Board of Education will hold closed meetings Tuesday and Thursday at 7:30 p.m. to consider which teachers to rehire for the coming school year.

They have been holding a series of closed sessions on the subject. According to Herman L. Childress, board vice president, Thursday's meeting will be the last before making decisions.

The meetings will be held in the board's administration building.

Questionnaires Will Be Mailed

Graduates of the 1969 classes of Tamalpais, Drake and Redwood high schools will be receiving questionnaires in April designed to find out what they are doing now, and what their high school education has done for them so far.

Studies previously conducted in the Tam district showed that between 70 and 80 per cent of its graduates went on to college, but how many actually completed degree requirements never was known.

Marin Winner In 'Jokers Wild'

Carolyn Lathrope of 76 Wood Lane, Fairfax, emerged from two days on a Hollywood television quiz show with $350 in prizes — and a chance to watch herself when the show is broadcast tomorrow and Wednesday.

"I won $1,000 cash the first day, too, but blew it all the second day," she reproted.

The show, "Jokers Wild," will be aired at 9 a.m. each day on Channel 5.

Pack Candidate For School Board

The name of W. Don Pack was left off the list of candidates for the Larkspur School Board in Saturday's Independent-Journal.

Pack, a dentist whose office is in Mill Valley, lives at 405 Elm Avenue in Larkspur. He and his wife have six children and a foster child, an Indian girl, who lives with them.

near Giong Trom in the Mekong Delta, 40 miles south of Saigon, the command said.

The four-power Commission—consisting of South and North Vietnamese, U.S. and Viet Cong officials—issued a plea for both sides to honor the truce and make the cease-fire a reality. But as the fighting intensified, a South Vietnamese spokesman said: "It seems to us the Communist units did not attempt to respect at all the appeal by the JMC."

Reports of violations from both sides in the continuing conflict have been registered daily since the truce took effect Jan. 28 in spite of pleas from representatives of both forces to obey the cease-fire stipulations.

In Saigon, the United States asked the International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS) to investigate the downing Friday of an unarmed American helicopter. The craft, on a supply mission for the JMC, was hit by machinegun fire and crashed in flames near An Loc. All five U.S. crewmen aboard were injured, two seriously.

U.S. officials said a preliminary investigation showed the Viet Cong were responsible for the attack. U.S. Army Maj. Gen. Gilbert Woodward protested the incident and asked for an investigation in a letter to Michel Gauvin of Canada, the ICCS acting chairman.

Woodward's complaint also was forwarded to the other ICCS members—Indonesia, Poland and Hungary.

In a telephone interview with UPI, the Viet Cong did not deny shooting down the helicopter but said it had no objection to an investigation.

In other ground fighting Sunday, six minor battles were reported about 300 miles north of Saigon The Saigon command said 51 Communists troops died in the overall fighting.

CRASH

These were immediately followed by spilled kerosene and scorch marks. A little way on the first bodies were found."

Volodin said the plane, on a regular flight from Moscow to Prague, carried 87 passengers and a crew of 12.

He said 14 passengers and eight crew members survived.

A Czechoslovak pilot who saw the crash described it as "a pretty horrible sight."

Airport officials said all of the survivors were in the forward first class portion of the plane or the cockpit.

Everyone in the rear of the plane, including four hostesses, was killed, the officials said.

All those on board were either Russian, Czechoslovak or Cuban, the officials said.

It was the first known crash of a TU154 since the planes were placed in service less than a year ago. It can carry up 158 passengers.

of national reconciliation.

Both the late President Charles de Gaulle and his successor, President Georges Pompidou, resisted the demands on grounds it would whitewash the image of a man who lent his prestige to cover up collaboration in Nazi-held France with the Third Reich of Adolf Hitler.

Petain always asked to be buried among his soldiers in the Douaumont cemetery, which is the burial ground for thousands of French soldiers.

Shortly before he died in exile at Ile d'Yeu, the marshal told his prison guards he hoped the French government would allow him to rest among his "poilus"-the nickname for French trench-line soldiers.

Petain was sentenced to death after a drawn-out and highly publicized trial in August 1945. De Gaulle—himself condemned to death by Vichy during the war—commuted the sentence for his one time mentor to life-long imprisonment at the medieval fortress of Ile d'Yeu.

day at Clark, all Navy and Air Force pilots shot down over North Vietnam in 1966 and 1967, got off to a quick start on their debriefing process. Nine hours after their arrival, they had all showered, had a brief physical examination, eaten, met their escort officers and made phone calls home to wives and parents.

The men ate about three hours after their arrival at a special candlelight dinner arranged by the hospital at Clark. One of the men wolfed down five steaks and six eggs during the meal, which was enhanced by the presence of pretty nurses and Red Cross girls. The girls attracted the attention of the men almost as much as the food.

Some of the Red Cross girls blew the men kisses as they stood outside the door. "Who wants to blow kisses?" said one of the men, and a group of them jumped up from their tables, went outside and kissed the girls on the cheeks.

Doctors said all the men were in good physical condition. When they got off the plane that flew them from Hanoi, all looked healthy and carried themselves well as they walked spritely to a waiting ambulance bus.

A cheering crowd of about 2,000, mostly Air Force families and Filipino base workers, welcomed the men. Some of the crowd carried signs reading: "Free and Beautiful." The arrival came just after dusk and the men stepped off the plane into bright television lights wearing big grins, dark blue pants and light blue shirts. They waved enthusiastically to the crowd.

Flood Insurance To Be Considered

The Fairfax Town Council will consider applying for federal flood insurance when it meets Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the town offices.

Also on the agenda is a proposed creek protection ordinance. Mayor Albert E. Gately said the ordinance would describe the types of building prohibited and permitted along creeks as a means of preventing erosion of banks and loss of creekside vegetation. He said the ordinance was mainly aimed at Corte Madera and Cascade Creeks.

The council will also formally set 12.1 cents for $100 assessed valuation as the tax rate needed to pay off the $300,000 bond issue which goes on the April 7 ballot. The bonds would pay for new fire and police facilities.

Richmond Man Assault Suspect

Corte Madera police early today arrested a 40-year-old Richmond man on suspicion of assault, battery and burglary.

Raymond Garza, who was booked into Marin County Jail at 1:15 a.m., was also a parole violator, police said.

Dog Care Classes Begin Saturday

The Marin County Humane Society will begin its annual dog care and instruction classes Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Humane Education Center in Novato.

Inmate Cut During Movie

A San Quentin inmate was reported in "improved" condition today after being stabbed and cut 16 times in an attack during the Saturday movie at the prison.

A prison spokesman said the wounded man is Rudy Miramontes, 27, of Fresno County, serving a five-to-15 year term for possession of narcotics for sale.

Two weapons, a screwdriver-type instrument and a prison-made knife, were found in the dining hall where the movie was being shown, prison spokesman James H. Smith said.

He said authorities have a "pretty good lead" as to the identity of the assailant but no one is under arrest yet.

Woman, 20, Reports Attack

A 20-year-old San Rafael woman told police she was raped at knifepoint after she was accosted on a street in San Anselmo early Saturday morning, officers said today.

The woman said she was walking on a street near San Anselmo Avenue when a man, about 18 to 24 years old, threatened her with a knife and then raped her.

After the man fled, the victim reported the attack to the police department. She described her assailant as a Caucasian with brown hair.

Teacher Hiring To Be Discussed

The San Rafael Board of Education will hold closed meetings Tuesday and Thursday at 7:30 p.m. to consider which teachers to rehire for the coming school year.

Questionnaires Will Be Mailed

Graduates of the 1969 classes of Tamalpais, Drake and Redwood high schools will be receiving questionnaires in April designed to find out what they are doing now, and what their high school education has done for them so far.

Studies previously conducted in the Tam district showed that between 70 and 80 per cent of its graduates went on to college, but how many actually completed degree requirements never was known.

near Giong Trom in the Mekong Delta, 40 miles south of Saigon, the command said.

The four-power Commission—consisting of South and North Vietnamese, U.S. and Viet Cong officials—issued a plea for both sides to honor the truce and make the cease-fire a reality. But as the fighting intensified, a South Vietnamese spokesman said: "It seems to us the Communist units did not attempt to respect at all the appeal by the JMC."

Reports of violations from both sides in the continuing conflict have been registered daily since the truce took effect Jan. 28 in spite of pleas from representatives of both forces to obey the cease-fire stipulations.

In Saigon, the United States asked the International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS) to investigate the downing Friday of an unarmed American helicopter. The craft, on a supply mission for the JMC, was hit by machinegun fire and crashed in flames near An Loc. All five U.S. crewmen aboard were injured, two seriously.

U.S. officials said a preliminary investigation showed the Viet Cong were responsible for the attack. U.S. Army Maj. Gen. Gilbert Woodward protested the incident and asked for an investigation in a letter to Michel Gauvin of Canada, the ICCS acting chairman.

Woodward's complaint also was forwarded to the other ICCS members—Indonesia, Poland and Hungary.

In a telephone interview with UPI, the Viet Cong did not deny shooting down the helicopter but said it had no objection to an investigation.

In other ground fighting Sunday, six minor battles were reported about 300 miles north of Saigon The Saigon command said 51 Communists troops died in the overall fighting.

These were immediately followed by spilled kerosene and scorch marks. A little way on the first bodies were found."

Volodin said the plane, on a regular flight from Moscow to Prague, carried 87 passengers and a crew of 12.

He said 14 passengers and eight crew members survived.

Gold Sets New Price Record, Dollar Changes By Franctions

LONDON (UPI) — Gold set another new record price today, but in Europe's foreign exchange markets the price of the dollar changed only by fractions.

Trading was quiet and restrained in most European money centers, a far cry from the near-chaos of the past two weeks, which culminated in the 10 per cent devaluation of the dollar.

In London, the price of gold was fixed at $73.70 an ounce, another in the recent set of record highs established at the two price fixings each day since the dollar was devalued. Today's record was 32.5 cents higher than last week's high.

The dollar lost a little ground in Frankfurt today, but gained fractionally in London and Paris. It was slightly lower in Zurich but almost unchanged in Brussels and Amsterdam.

In London the pound dropped to $2.4275, down half a cent on Friday's close and the first time since devaluation the figure has slipped below $2.43.

"Strike action threatened by various unions as a protest over phase two of the British government's anti-inflation policy caused the weakness for the pound." one dealer said. "But we think the pound is worth much more than its current rate."

Other European money centers remained quiet.

In Frankfurt trading remained light, with the American currency changing hands at a median rate of 2.9600 marks, the same as Friday. Dealers described trading as "very quiet."

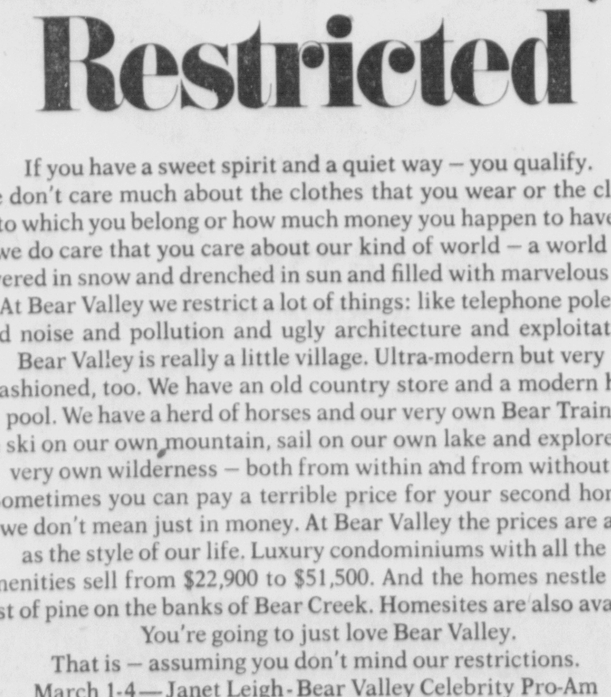

In Paris the dollar went fractionally higher with the officially-backed commercial dollar trading at 4.640-4.670 francs.

The atmosphere was restrained in Zurich, where the dollar traded marginally lower at 3.3575-3.3650 Swiss francs against Friday's 3.36-3.3675.

Site Is Announced For Impact Session

The haring, primarily on the proposed Ernest W. Hahn regional shopping center, originally had been scheduled for the Corte Madera Recreation Center, but the center previously was booked.

If you have a sweet spirit and a quiet way – you qualify.
We don't care much about the clothes that you wear or the clubs to which you belong or how much money you happen to have.
But we do care that you care about our kind of world – a world that's covered in snow and drenched in sun and filled with marvelous life.
At Bear Valley we restrict a lot of things: like telephone poles and noise and pollution and ugly architecture and exploitation.
Bear Valley is really a little village. Ultra-modern but very old-fashioned, too. We have an old country store and a modern heated pool. We have a herd of horses and our very own Bear Train.
We ski on our own mountain, sail on our own lake and explore our very own wilderness – both from within and from without.
Sometimes you can pay a terrible price for your second home.
And we don't mean just in money. At Bear Valley the prices are as easy as the style of our life. Luxury condominiums with all the amenities sell from $22,900 to $51,500. And the homes nestle in a forest of pine on the banks of Bear Creek. Homesites are also available.
You're going to just love Bear Valley.
That is – assuming you don't mind our restrictions.

A Way To Make Courts Answerable

There is much talk of court reform. Most of it concerns itself with reforming the procedures of the courts.

The procedures need reforming. Some of them work against the right of a defendant to a speedy and public trial. Some of them inhibit the administration of justice in other ways.

IT IS NOT the procedures, however, which pronounce sentences that outrage the public. It is not the procedures which release patently guilty criminals on trivial technicalities. These things are done by judges.

This has come about because, unlike the other two of our three supposedly separate but equal branches of government, the judiciary has been removed from any control other than its own.

Our system of checks and balances has no check upon the judiciary.

A legislature passes a law. Judges of one of the higher courts decide they do not like the law. So they dig up a rationale by which to find it unconstitutional. The legislators, elected to enact laws, are helpless to do anything about it.

The governor issues an executive order to a department which the legislature has placed under his control. Somebody in that department (technically, an appointee of the governor) does not like the order, so he has the department's legal staff (also, technically, appointees of the governor) file suit. A court declares the order void. The governor is helpless to do anything about it.

ASSEMBLYMAN Floyd L. Wakefield, R-Downey, thinks he has a solution: since judges are answerable to no one else, make them answerable to the people.

Wakefield proposes that judges of the state appellate and supreme courts — which are the courts most noted for finding things they don't like to be unconstitutional — should be elected for six-year terms. They now are appointed by the governor for 12-year terms, and cannot be opposed in elections, the voter being given only the chance to vote "yes" or "no" on a single name, as in a Russian "election."

He proposes that all appellate and supreme court judges stand for election in 1976, to be elected to staggered two-to-four year terms, and that they run for six-year terms thereafter.

Wakefield's proposal would put these higher court judges on the same basis as judges of the superior and municipal courts.

He has embodied the idea in a proposed constitutional amendment, introduced as Assembly Constitutional Amendment 7, which is to be given a hearing Feb. 27 by the Assembly Judiciary Committee.

But Wakefield hasn't stopped with introducing this in the Assembly. He has embodied it also in an initiative petition, to be circulated if the Legislature doesn't pass his amendment. He's out to get it on the ballot some way.

WAKEFIELD, it may be remembered, was the instigator of Proposition 21, the "anti-bussing initiative" which passed over-whelmingly last November — after having been rejected by the Legislature.

He proved with Proposition 21 that he is more attuned to the feeelings of the citizenry than are most of his fellow legislators.

We predict he'll prove it again with his proposal to make the judiciary answerable to the voters.

THE RELUCTANT SUPERVISOR

Who Wants Congressman Who Quits His Job?

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

It was only last November that San Francisco Supervisor Roger Boas asked voters in Marin and his hometown to elect him as their representative in Congress.

Despite his loss in that election and a heavy campaign deficit, including $25,000 out of his own pocket, Boas was believed aiming at a second race for Congress in 1974 — until he resigned last week as a supervisor.

His abrupt decision to quit certainly undermined his credibility for future elective office. Why should voters give him a new mandate when he threw away the one they already had given him?

AS FOR HIS explanation that he needed "a sabbatical from public life" to study government problems at colleges and universities, we wonder about the suitability of a candidate who has to go to school to learn to be a congressman.

Speculation has it that Boas had to quit when Mayor Joseph L. Alioto "called in his chips." The theory is that Alioto supported Boas for Congress last year so the mayor could earn political credit for appointing someone else to fill the supervisorial seat.

Another theory is that Boas quit to win the mayor's support next year.

Anyway, you end up with the question, who wants to vote for a quitter?

MILL VALLEY bus commuters were harrassed last week by a driver who demanded standees hold onto overhead racks with both hands. One who failed to click his heels was ordered off the bus by the irate driver.

We report this for the information of any other standees facing similar demands. Drivers have no authority to make such a request. Your security is in your own hands.

The driver, who denounced his riders as "peanut butter and jelly executives," was reprimanded.

THANKS TO procrastination, Bay Area taxpayers may lose up to $1,050,000 due them this fiscal year to beef up smog controls.

The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District is entitled to the state funds, but still hasn't applied to the Air Resources Board to get them. Time is slipping by, and any failure to get the funds will be due largely to incompetent handling of the application by the district's top staff.

It would be commendable if the staff's inaction were motivated by some feeling that they do not have to spend tax money just because it is available. We fear the reason, however, is their traditional inability to recognize air pollution as a problem.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE it? In 1965, the top 600 airline pilots were paid an average of $39,700, flying an average of 56 hours a month for $59.08 an hour. In 1971 they got an average of $68,000 for an average of 47.5 hours a month, or $119.30 an hour.

It is comforting to know that government salaries are keeping pace with those in the private sector.

"Could this be the 'big stick' the President has in his closet for controlling Phase III?"

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

In deference to the guy who couldn't tell a lie, we're forced to report that today is not George Washington's birthday.

Public Law 90-363 asks you to believe that George was born three days before he saw the light of day.

Those lawmakers stretched the truth in order to extend the holiday week end.

"OK, fellow bugs, be very careful what you tell them. Remember, Big Bug is watching you!"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Boyd Museum Expands, Thanks To Many People

Having just retired after three years as president of the Boyd Museum, I wanted to take a few moments and thank those who have been of such help to the museum and to me in advancing our programs. The I-J has been just great in telling the community about our wildlife, our museum and our educational programs.

In our efforts to teach children how to understand, to enjoy and to protect our natural environment and wildlife, it takes the help of lots of people. Not only has the I-J itself been of invaluable assistance, but members of your organization like Norwin Yoffie, Jim Kean and Dave Dietz have served us well on our board of trustees.

The museum has come a long ways. We now touch the lives of over 15,000 children annually with our educational classes. Last year we treated some 2,200 injured wildlife. Our budget is over $60,000, most of which is raised in our community. We now have 14 guilds with over 400 wonderful ladies. Before leaving office, I had the pleasure of finally signing the contract with the Frank Lloyd Wright foundation to begin plans for our future facility at the Civic Center.

The many museum members, our great staff, the wonderful guild gals and the board of trustees provided me a gread deal of pleasure and a real sense of accomplishment ... New president Anne Charles and director Steve Siegel and his staff are outstanding people. With the museum under their guidance I feel very comfortable about its future ...

Little Chance Seen To Reverse Inflation

Reference your editorial, 1 Feb. 1973 ("Nixon's Goal Needs Constitution Help"). What chance do you think a constitutional amendment limiting federal debt has of getting a two-thirds vote in Congress? The alternative of a constitutional convention call has equally bad chances in the state legislatures.

President Nixon has started out on the right track. But, if inflation is to be stopped, even the supposedly "clean" full-employment deficit must be cut out.

The President seems to be the only one who has a chance to do the job. It is doubtful, however, that the most determined President would be able to get us back where we should be financially in one four-year term, or that a first-term President could survive for a second term on the necessary austerity program. You can feed the troops beans and up-grade to steaks, but all hell breaks loose when you try to reverse the process.

So what is the prognosis? Continued inflating, varying in magnitude but ballooning toward the end into disaster. This gradual inflating has been going on so long now that disaster can't be too far off. On whom will the disaster fall hardest? Not on the Have-Nots; they have little to lose. The very rich have much to lose, but with substantial assets in property they will have much left. The great middle class, the earners and savers, will lose everything.

Friendliest People In Veterinary Office

I read somewhere that the friendliest people to meet must be in the waiting room of a veterinarians office! I have been taking our dog and a variety of cats to the Tamalpais Pet Hospital over the last 10 years and have found this to be true.

I think it is about time to praise the kindness of the various doctors and the young boys and girls they hire to help with handling the animals.

People with pets waiting to be taken in, smile and show concern for their own and yours. Age and race are no barrier. The animals are anywhere from shaggy mutts to the most expensive pedigreed, but they all have one thing in common, they are there to be helped, and they get it!

Differs On Guidelines For Impact Reports

Your Feb. 6 column, Sacramento Roundup, stated that the guidelines (for the preparation and evaluation of environmental impact reports under the California Environmental Quality Act of 1970) prepared by the Resources Agency of California were "embodied in 41 pages of complex legal language."

This is not correct.

The guidelines clearly and completely set forth when and why an environmental impact report (EIR) must be made, and what must be included in the report so that the "effects" any significant project will have on the environment will stand out free from personal attitudes, desires, emotions, opinions, and prejudices. In short, an orderly statement of all pertinent facts.

Flag Too Large, Not At Half-Staff

The word for today is crass.

It seems as if one of the foreign car dealers on Francisco Boulevard has a flag of that genre flying over its dealership — much in the same manner as a vulture would hover over its prey. One can only presume that this flag is displayed as to catch the public's eye: What might prevent an unintentional and tragic accident to ensue from this split-second onlooking?

Another note of courtesy would be for this flag to be displayed at half-mast during the 30-day period following the president's death; yet, in doing this, it could possibly drape the ground. Might the irony be solved by obtaining a smaller flag?

Nixon Should Take Action Of Own On Watergate Mess

President Nixon and Watergate: Here is how things stand on the Republican break-in and burglary of the Democratic National Headquarters, and the question is whether Mr. Nixon can safely maintain silence:

While there is no evidence that the President approved or knew of the plans in advance, many mystifying questions remain unanswered which cast a dark cloud over the administration.

The criminal trial failed to probe the crime to the bottom.

Whatever surfaces at the forthcoming Senate investigation will sharpen the fact that — thus far at least — the Nixon administration has left it to others to clear up and clean up the mess.

WHAT COULD the President do? He could take the offensive from his political opponents. He could appoint a trusted personal agent to unravel the whole story — particularly who conceived and approved the Watergate operation — and submit the report to be made public.

Obviously such a person would need to be one who has the total confidence of the President and whose reputation for honesty and objectivity would ensure public acceptance.

Could such a person be found? One could name four without straining: former Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania, retired Kentucky senator and former ambassador John Sherman Cooper, former Sen. Margaret Chase-Smith of Maine, and the former president of the American Bar Association Charles Rhyne, who has often appeared on lists of possible Supreme Court appointees.

SOME FORMS of amnesty in the making. News stories reporting that President Nixon is prepared to soften his stand on amnesty did not explain why. The reason: Republican senators appealed to him to do so.

After all U.S. POWs are home and all U.S. troops withdrawn from Vietnam, legislation to permit draft dodgers to accept some form of national service in lieu of criminal prosecution will come before Congress. There is increasing support for it.

Deserters would not be eligible for amnesty but would be subject to court-martial. Legislation would also make it clear no American has a lawful right to opt out if he doesn't approve a particular war. This would mean that no precedent would be set which would undermine a future draft.

THE STRANGE CASE of Indira Gandhi. At a time when both sides were repairing diplomatic relations over Bangladesh, India's prime minister directed an indefensible racial slur at the motives of the United States in the Vietnamese war. When she saw the damage she was doing, Mrs. Gandhi said she meant no offense by expressing misgivings over the Vietnamese peace settlement. Thus Mrs. Gandhi strangely withdrew her statement which gave nobody offense but did not withdraw the statement of racism which rightly gave offense.

What did Mrs. Gandhi really say? The text of her speech shows that she began her innuendoes against the United States by saying how much she "abrhos racialism of any color and type" — and then proceeded to practice it by posing a racist rhetorical question. It was loaded:

"Would this sort of war or the savabe bombing which has taken place in Vietnam have been tolerated so long had the people been European?"

When the North Koreans launched an attack across the frontier of South Korea, and when the North Vietnamese sent their troops against the South Vietnamese, Asians were attacking Asians. Was it an act of racism for non-Asians to come to the aid of these two Asian states?

In World Wars I and II, Europeans attacked Europeans. War knows no color even if Mrs. Gandhi does.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Nixon Approach To Environment: 'What I Say, Not What I Do'

WASHINGTON — The Norman Vincent Peale rhetoric in Mr. Nixon's radio address on natural resources and the environment has about as much relation to the hard facts of our national situation as it does to ecumenicism in Ethiopia.

Positive thinking may be powerful medicine when applied to interpersonal affairs; something more tangible, like money, is required to save this broad continent and the air and water that flow over it. Yet the President, in his budget-cutting mood, expects a nation of fairly well-educated Americans to believe that saying something makes it so, and obviates the need to follow up with major deeds instead of words.

Listen:

"WHEN WE CAME to office in 1969, we tackled this challenge with all the power at our command. Now, in 1973, I can report that America is well on the way to winning the war against environmental degradation — well on the way to making our peace with nature.

"Day by day, our air is getting cleaner. In virtually every one of our major cities, the levels of air pollution are declining. Month by month, our water-pollution problems are also being conquered, our noise and pesticide problems are yielding to new initiatives, our parklands and protected wilderness areas are increasing. . ."

Which brings up some serious questions. Has our President been outdoors lately? Has he looked down out of his helicopter? Has he opened one of the windows at the White House? Is he unaware that air pollution was so bad right here in the nonindustrial city of Washington that a few minutes consideration was given to postponing his own inaugural ceremonies last month?

OF COURSE, Mr. Nixon has some selected statistics to back up what he said. He notes that federal spending for environmental protection and natural resources has increased fourfold in the past four years, that industry is "assuming a steadily growing share of responsibility." And what has not been done, he strongly implies, is all the fault of the Democratic Congress.

He says he sent 19 important bills up to the last Congress which were not enacted. True. He does not mention the other half of the story. Lest I be suspect as an unbiased witness on the matter, I quote Congressional Quarterly, which is proved by chemical analysis to be 100 per cent neutral.

In summarizing the record of the 92nd Congress, CQ awards it "the most productive record for environmental protection in the nation's history." And it adds that "perhaps the most dramatic vote came on the last day of the session, when Congress overrode President Nixon's veto of the Federal Water-Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972, a comprehensive $24.7 billion measure aimed at cleaning up the nation's waters by 1985."

THAT IS THE MONEY the bulk of which Mr. Nixon has impounded and refused to spend, despite congressional rejection of his veto. Without referring to that episode directly, the President offers a peculiar rationale for it in his current speech:

"Spending still more money would not buy us more pollution-control facilities, but only more expensive ones." Perfectly clear, as he always makes it.

Figuratively pounding his desk, he winds up his address with an inspirational flight that should banish putrefaction and destruction from our earth forever. "Now is the time to stop the sanctimonious hand-wringing and roll up our sleeves and get on with the job. Now is the time to reject the doomsday mentality which says we are destined to pollute ourselves out of existence. The advocates of defeatism warn us of all that is wrong, but I remind them and all Americans of our genius for responsive adaptability and our enormous reservoir of spirit. . ."

Take that, you bad bulldozers, and that and that, you mean pulp mills and claptrap developers! But you congressmen up there on Capitol Hill, don't you take it too seriously. He still packs a powerful veto for anything that ventures too far out beyond rhetoric into the world of reality.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Feb. 19, 1963

The Soviet Union informed the United States that its troops would be removed from Cuba within three weeks.

The San Rafael City Council finally gave Nick Giampoli a hearing on his ouster from the police force, but councilmen said scarcely a word as Giampoli's attorney did the talking. Unmentioned was the former lieutenant's candidacy for chief as opponent to incumbent Charles J. Chiesa in the upcoming municipal election.

20 YEARS AGO

Feb. 19, 1953

The Marin City Market was mobbed with customers as it put T-bone steaks imported from New Zealand on sale at 39 cents a pound.

No rapid transit system which could be constructed in the San Francisco Bay Area could pay its own way, the Senate Interim Committee on Rapid Transit was told by Alfred J. Lundberg, former head of Key System.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

It Was Great Editorial, But We Didn't Write It

Sometimes some of our best editorial ideas never see print on the I-J editorial page. We discard them because we decide they are too flippant, or for some other reason.

For instance, there was the one we were going to write for today — but didn't.

WE THOUGHT of commending the Marin County Board of Supervisors for advocating special legislation to permit sale of beer and wine in the Civic Center Cafeteria.

The main objection is that there is a law against serving alcoholic beverages in the same building where court is held. The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board (a bunch of bluenoses, of course) turned down the supervisors' plan on that account. So now the supers want Bill Bagley and/or Peter Behr to introduce special legislation so Civic Center occupants and visitors can have pinot rouge with lunch and a pitcher of Budweiser on a hot afternoon.

AS OLD WESTERN history buffs, we thought of complimenting the supervisors on their return to the fundamental virtues of the frontier.

You've no doubt heard of Judge Roy Bean, "the only law west of the Pecos," who held court in the Jersey Lily, his saloon in Vinnegarroon, Tex.

Roy Bean's bench was an upended whiskey barrel. The seat of justice was a dry goods box. Court would be convened any time the judge had what he thought was a case — while the sale of liquor over the bar was interrupted temporarily. Two six-shooters in plain view on the "bench" assured order in the court.

There weren't many complaints about Judge Bean's brand of justice. He saw to that. His sentences generally called for either hanging or banishment.

Roy Bean was by no means the only frontier judge who held court in a barroom. He was the most famous. But plenty of others dispensed liquor and justice with an equally imparital hand.

And so, we were going to write an editorial commending the Marin supervisors on their attempt to return the county to that era of rugged individualism through making drinks available at the Civic Center.

It wouldn't mean a full return, of course — just a small step in the right direction.

WE DISCARDED as uncalled-for and unfair any suggestion that perhaps the Civic Center is not entirely dry now, as some of those same supervisors' decision make one wonder whether they have been tippling in their offices. None of that! This was to be a laudatory editorial.

But then we decided the whole thing just wouldn't fit. Far from having the bar set up right in the courtroom — or the court in the barroom — the distance from the Civic Center Cafeteria to any of the courts is considerable, even though they are under the same roof.

A helluva long distance, in fact, if one has to stagger the whole way.

MELVIN MADDOCKS

The 'Revealing Society' Route To Absolute Loneliness

In "The Abandoners," Thomas Cottle characterizes America as "a revealing society." Meaning, self-disclosure has become not only the popular form for American literature but for American conversation, for American manners.

Like most manners, the confessional manner finally demands reciprocity. And so Cottle goes on: If America "is a revealing society, it is also a probing one. Seemingly nothing is inviolate, nothing is able to withstand our penetrations, investigations and intrusiveness."

He speaks of the pressures exerted, particularly among the young, by "the forces of revelation," and he wonders if we are not all being "tyrannized by an ethic of openness and divulgence."

WHAT MAKES COTTLE'S complaint especially interesting is that he happens to be a psychotherapist at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. By all the stereotypes, he ought to be giving first endorsement to "openness" and "divulgence" — to the "revealing society."

Instead, he is rather horrified at all the people being so self-consciously themselves, so professionally natural. "Amazing how it all becomes a television show," he writes. "So much of reality itself now, it seems, copies the tube. Pretty soon professionals will arrive from the coast to instruct social scientists and therapists how to act with the people with whom they work. But then actors will have to coach the clientele, the patients, the kids, the couples contemplating a divorce."

Which brings us, of course, to "An American Family," the ultimate case-history of the "revealing society," now being presented like a cinema verite soap opera over the Public Broadcasting Service network. What slow motion boredom we are all putting up with! Like nosey bellhops, we chug up and down the corridors of the Chelsea Hotel as the now-famous Pat Loud visits her oldest son in New York. Like captive relatives, we squirm in our seats as a Loud daughter taps her way through a dancing-school rehearsal of "The Toy Trumpet."

All in the name of that "ethic of openness and divulgence."

IN A CURIOUS WAY, "An American Family" has replaced the Vietnam War as television's ambivalent event. Is this catastrophe "happening" or is it being subtly "staged"? Is the coolness, the odd constraint between the members of the Loud family an accurate barometer of relationships or merely amateur actors' discomfort? Did the 300 hours of filming "reveal" the Louds as they are or, in fact, turn these real-life actors into the parts they improvised for themselves, like a Pirandello play? Would the divorce that occurred after the filming have taken place if the couple had not put themselves "on camera" — become their own interpreters and finally their own audience?

"It seemed like a fun, adventurous thing to do," Mrs. Loud is quoted as saying. "Instant therapy." But can one pass off this "ethic of openness" as another breezy case of experimenting with life-style?

The final impression that seems to emerge from all this drip-by-drip percolation of every-day life is loneliness. The more the people on camera talk, the more they work at their "revealing" and "divulging" — the more they appear to evade each other and themselves, like characters in Antonioni movies.

AND SO WE COME BACK, bored to tears —and perhaps brought to tears by other factors as well — to Cottle's "Portraits of Loss, Separation and Neglect," as he subtitles his own remarkable documentary of "children 'in trouble' " who "have somehow become disconnected and set apart," despite all their practically full-time efforts to reach out, to "communicate." Or just possibly because of all those efforts?

Cottle isn't sure. But he worries about "the presumed openness of certain contemporary parents," the resolve of sophisticated teachers to educate the feelings as well as the minds of their students. These ideals he finds, in theory, "noble, marvelous" — but, at the same time, "scary concepts and adventures."

In their quite different ways, "The Abandoners" and "An American Family" imply the same terrible warning: One arrives at absolute loneliness, not by going too private but by going too public — by abolishing certain lines of definition between oneself and other human beings that are found to be necessary only after it's too late.

Another Suit Filed Against Prop. 20

SANTA ANA (AP) — A second suit has been filed against the controversial coastline initiative, Prop. 20, seeking to declare it void on grounds of unconstitutionality.

The Orange County Council on Environment, Employment, Economy and Development (CEEED), the Building Industry Association of California Inc. and the Building and Construction Trades Council of Orange County are asking Orange County Superior Court for a permanent injunction against the initiative, approved by California voters last November.

Against Students As Undercover Agents

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Berkeley legislator has introduced a bill to prevent students from being used as undercover agents at state colleges or universities, and lawmen from posing as students.

Assemblyman John J. Miller, a Democrat, said in a statement Friday, "It is significant that our faculties... feel insecure enough in their classes to request this kind of legislation."

San Rafael's Redevelop Plan Before Supervisors

A proposed agreement between the County of Marin and City of San Rafael over the city's controversial redevelopment plan will be considered by supervisors Tuesday.

The board, meeting at 9 a.m. at Civic Center, opposed the city's original redevelopment plant by several supervisors have indicated lately they are willing to compromise.

Under a compromise agreement worked out by city and county officials, the city would agree to limit its redevelopment project to $6 million over a seven-year period, among other things.

The controversy erupted last May when supervisors discovered that the city's downtown redevelopment project would be financed, in part, with county property tax revenues.

Under the agreement, a lid would be placed on the project with excess property tax revenues to be returned to the county and other taxing agencies.

The supervisors' agenda also includes:

BEER — A request from Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere that the board reconsider its action of two weeks ago which called for state legislation to allow sale of wine and beer at the Civic Center cafeteria.

WELFARE — A detailed explanation by Betty L. Presley, director of public social services, on new federal regulations governing aid to the needy.

STAFFING — A reorganization of the probation department's Juvenile Hall staff, eliminating three administrative positions, downgrading five group counselor positions and replacing five others with "para-professionals."

MARINVIEW — A report from the department of public works on granting of eight building permits in the troubled Marinview subdivision of Tamalpais Valley, hard hit by last month's storms.

TRANSIT — Meeting as the county transit district board at 5 p.m. to consider a cost formula proposed by the Golden Gate Bridge District for the county's share of intracounty transit service. The Independent-Journal erred Thursday in saying the meeting was set for 8:30 a.m.

Copernicus

A pioneer in modern astronomy, Nicolaus Copernicus was born 500 years ago today in Poland. It was not until the last year of his life that his "earth-shaking" work, On the Revolutions of the Heavenly Bodies, was published. In it, he claimed that the sun, not the Earth, was the center of the universe. Without the aid of a telescope, Copernicus was able to trace the route of the Earth around the sun. His measurement of a year's length was off by only 28 seconds. In commemoration of Copernicus' birthday, NASA has launched an orbiting astronomical observatory satellite called "Copernicus."

DO YOU KNOW — What famous Italian scientist first used the telescope in astronomy?

A Way To Make Courts Answerable

There is much talk of court reform. Most of it concerns itself with reforming the procedures of the courts.

The procedures need reforming. Some of them work against the right of a defendant to a speedy and public trial. Some of them inhibit the administration of justice in other ways.

IT IS NOT the procedures, however, which pronounce sentences that outrage the public. It is not the procedures which release patently guilty criminals on trivial technicalities. These things are done by judges.

This has come about because, unlike the other two of our three supposedly separate but equal branches of government, the judiciary has been removed from any control other than its own.

Our system of checks and balances has no check upon the judiciary.

A legislature passes a law. Judges of one of the higher courts decide they do not like the law. So they dig up a rationale by which to find it unconstitutional. The legislators, elected to enact laws, are helpless to do anything about it.

The governor issues an executive order to a department which the legislature has placed under his control. Somebody in that department (technically, an appointee of the governor) does not like the order, so he has the department's legal staff (also, technically, appointees of the governor) file suit. A court declares the order void. The governor is helpless to do anything about it.

ASSEMBLYMAN Floyd L. Wakefield, R-Downey, thinks he has a solution: since judges are answerable to no one else, make them answerable to the people.

Wakefield proposes that judges of the state appellate and supreme courts — which are the courts most noted for finding things they don't like to be unconstitutional — should be elected for six-year terms. They now are appointed by the governor for 12-year terms, and cannot be opposed in elections, the voter being given only the chance to vote "yes" or "no" on a single name, as in a Russian "election."

He proposes that all appellate and supreme court judges stand for election in 1976, to be elected to staggered two-to-four year terms, and that they run for six-year terms thereafter.

Wakefield's proposal would put these higher court judges on the same basis as judges of the superior and municipal courts.

He has embodied the idea in a proposed constitutional amendment, introduced as Assembly Constitutional Amendment 7, which is to be given a hearing Feb. 27 by the Assembly Judiciary Committee.

But Wakefield hasn't stopped with introducing this in the Assembly. He has embodied it also in an initiative petition, to be circulated if the Legislature doesn't pass his amendment. He's out to get it on the ballot some way.

WAKEFIELD, it may be remembered, was the instigator of Proposition 21, the "anti-bussing initiative" which passed over-whelmingly last November — after having been rejected by the Legislature.

He proved with Proposition 21 that he is more attuned to the feeelings of the citizenry than are most of his fellow legislators.

We predict he'll prove it again with his proposal to make the judiciary answerable to the voters.

THE RELUCTANT SUPERVISOR

Who Wants Congressman Who Quits His Job?

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

It was only last November that San Francisco Supervisor Roger Boas asked voters in Marin and his hometown to elect him as their representative in Congress.

Despite his loss in that election and a heavy campaign deficit, including $25,000 out of his own pocket, Boas was believed aiming at a second race for Congress in 1974 — until he resigned last week as a supervisor.

His abrupt decision to quit certainly undermined his credibility for future elective office. Why should voters give him a new mandate when he threw away the one they already had given him?

AS FOR HIS explanation that he needed "a sabbatical from public life" to study government problems at colleges and universities, we wonder about the suitability of a candidate who has to go to school to learn to be a congressman.

Speculation has it that Boas had to quit when Mayor Joseph L. Alioto "called in his chips." The theory is that Alioto supported Boas for Congress last year so the mayor could earn political credit for appointing someone else to fill the supervisorial seat.

Another theory is that Boas quit to win the mayor's support next year.

Anyway, you end up with the question, who wants to vote for a quitter?

MILL VALLEY bus commuters were harrassed last week by a driver who demanded standees hold onto overhead racks with both hands. One who failed to click his heels was ordered off the bus by the irate driver.

We report this for the information of any other standees facing similar demands. Drivers have no authority to make such a request. Your security is in your own hands.

The driver, who denounced his riders as "peanut butter and jelly executives," was reprimanded.

THANKS TO procrastination, Bay Area taxpayers may lose up to $1,050,000 due them this fiscal year to beef up smog controls.

The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District is entitled to the state funds, but still hasn't applied to the Air Resources Board to get them. Time is slipping by, and any failure to get the funds will be due largely to incompetent handling of the application by the district's top staff.

It would be commendable if the staff's inaction were motivated by some feeling that they do not have to spend tax money just because it is available. We fear the reason, however, is their traditional inability to recognize air pollution as a problem.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE it? In 1965, the top 600 airline pilots were paid an average of $39,700, flying an average of 56 hours a month for $59.08 an hour. In 1971 they got an average of $68,000 for an average of 47.5 hours a month, or $119.30 an hour.

It is comforting to know that government salaries are keeping pace with those in the private sector.

"Could this be the 'big stick' the President has in his closet for controlling Phase III?"

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

In deference to the guy who couldn't tell a lie, we're forced to report that today is not George Washington's birthday.

Public Law 90-363 asks you to believe that George was born three days before he saw the light of day.

Those lawmakers stretched the truth in order to extend the holiday week end.

"OK, fellow bugs, be very careful what you tell them. Remember, Big Bug is watching you!"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Boyd Museum Expands, Thanks To Many People

Having just retired after three years as president of the Boyd Museum, I wanted to take a few moments and thank those who have been of such help to the museum and to me in advancing our programs. The I-J has been just great in telling the community about our wildlife, our museum and our educational programs.

In our efforts to teach children how to understand, to enjoy and to protect our natural environment and wildlife, it takes the help of lots of people. Not only has the I-J itself been of invaluable assistance, but members of your organization like Norwin Yoffie, Jim Kean and Dave Dietz have served us well on our board of trustees.

The museum has come a long ways. We now touch the lives of over 15,000 children annually with our educational classes. Last year we treated some 2,200 injured wildlife. Our budget is over $60,000, most of which is raised in our community. We now have 14 guilds with over 400 wonderful ladies. Before leaving office, I had the pleasure of finally signing the contract with the Frank Lloyd Wright foundation to begin plans for our future facility at the Civic Center.

The many museum members, our great staff, the wonderful guild gals and the board of trustees provided me a gread deal of pleasure and a real sense of accomplishment ... New president Anne Charles and director Steve Siegel and his staff are outstanding people. With the museum under their guidance I feel very comfortable about its future ...

Little Chance Seen To Reverse Inflation

Reference your editorial, 1 Feb. 1973 ("Nixon's Goal Needs Constitution Help"). What chance do you think a constitutional amendment limiting federal debt has of getting a two-thirds vote in Congress? The alternative of a constitutional convention call has equally bad chances in the state legislatures.

President Nixon has started out on the right track. But, if inflation is to be stopped, even the supposedly "clean" full-employment deficit must be cut out.

The President seems to be the only one who has a chance to do the job. It is doubtful, however, that the most determined President would be able to get us back where we should be financially in one four-year term, or that a first-term President could survive for a second term on the necessary austerity program. You can feed the troops beans and up-grade to steaks, but all hell breaks loose when you try to reverse the process.

So what is the prognosis? Continued inflating, varying in magnitude but ballooning toward the end into disaster. This gradual inflating has been going on so long now that disaster can't be too far off. On whom will the disaster fall hardest? Not on the Have-Nots; they have little to lose. The very rich have much to lose, but with substantial assets in property they will have much left. The great middle class, the earners and savers, will lose everything.

Friendliest People In Veterinary Office

I read somewhere that the friendliest people to meet must be in the waiting room of a veterinarians office! I have been taking our dog and a variety of cats to the Tamalpais Pet Hospital over the last 10 years and have found this to be true.

I think it is about time to praise the kindness of the various doctors and the young boys and girls they hire to help with handling the animals.

People with pets waiting to be taken in, smile and show concern for their own and yours. Age and race are no barrier. The animals are anywhere from shaggy mutts to the most expensive pedigreed, but they all have one thing in common, they are there to be helped, and they get it!

Differs On Guidelines For Impact Reports

Your Feb. 6 column, Sacramento Roundup, stated that the guidelines (for the preparation and evaluation of environmental impact reports under the California Environmental Quality Act of 1970) prepared by the Resources Agency of California were "embodied in 41 pages of complex legal language."

This is not correct.

The guidelines clearly and completely set forth when and why an environmental impact report (EIR) must be made, and what must be included in the report so that the "effects" any significant project will have on the environment will stand out free from personal attitudes, desires, emotions, opinions, and prejudices. In short, an orderly statement of all pertinent facts.

Flag Too Large, Not At Half-Staff

The word for today is crass.

It seems as if one of the foreign car dealers on Francisco Boulevard has a flag of that genre flying over its dealership — much in the same manner as a vulture would hover over its prey. One can only presume that this flag is displayed as to catch the public's eye: What might prevent an unintentional and tragic accident to ensue from this split-second onlooking?

Another note of courtesy would be for this flag to be displayed at half-mast during the 30-day period following the president's death; yet, in doing this, it could possibly drape the ground. Might the irony be solved by obtaining a smaller flag?

TODAY'S WORLD

"The only reason I'm not firing you for sleeping on the job, Briggs, is because we need people with your kind of ingenuity."

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Nixon Should Take Action Of Own On Watergate Mess

President Nixon and Watergate: Here is how things stand on the Republican break-in and burglary of the Democratic National Headquarters, and the question is whether Mr. Nixon can safely maintain silence:

While there is no evidence that the President approved or knew of the plans in advance, many mystifying questions remain unanswered which cast a dark cloud over the administration.

The criminal trial failed to probe the crime to the bottom.

Whatever surfaces at the forthcoming Senate investigation will sharpen the fact that — thus far at least — the Nixon administration has left it to others to clear up and clean up the mess.

WHAT COULD the President do? He could take the offensive from his political opponents. He could appoint a trusted personal agent to unravel the whole story — particularly who conceived and approved the Watergate operation — and submit the report to be made public.

Obviously such a person would need to be one who has the total confidence of the President and whose reputation for honesty and objectivity would ensure public acceptance.

Could such a person be found? One could name four without straining: former Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania, retired Kentucky senator and former ambassador John Sherman Cooper, former Sen. Margaret Chase-Smith of Maine, and the former president of the American Bar Association Charles Rhyne, who has often appeared on lists of possible Supreme Court appointees.

SOME FORMS of amnesty in the making. News stories reporting that President Nixon is prepared to soften his stand on amnesty did not explain why. The reason: Republican senators appealed to him to do so.

After all U.S. POWs are home and all U.S. troops withdrawn from Vietnam, legislation to permit draft dodgers to accept some form of national service in lieu of criminal prosecution will come before Congress. There is increasing support for it.

Deserters would not be eligible for amnesty but would be subject to court-martial. Legislation would also make it clear no American has a lawful right to opt out if he doesn't approve a particular war. This would mean that no precedent would be set which would undermine a future draft.

THE STRANGE CASE of Indira Gandhi. At a time when both sides were repairing diplomatic relations over Bangladesh, India's prime minister directed an indefensible racial slur at the motives of the United States in the Vietnamese war. When she saw the damage she was doing, Mrs. Gandhi said she meant no offense by expressing misgivings over the Vietnamese peace settlement. Thus Mrs. Gandhi strangely withdrew her statement which gave nobody offense but did not withdraw the statement of racism which rightly gave offense.

What did Mrs. Gandhi really say? The text of her speech shows that she began her innuendoes against the United States by saying how much she "abrhos racialism of any color and type" — and then proceeded to practice it by posing a racist rhetorical question. It was loaded.

"Would this sort of war or the savabe bombing which has taken place in Vietnam have been tolerated so long had the people been European?"

When the North Koreans launched an attack across the frontier of South Korea, and when the North Vietnamese sent their troops against the South Vietnamese, Asians were attacking Asians. Was it an act of racism for non-Asians to come to the aid of these two Asian states?

In World Wars I and II, Europeans attacked Europeans. War knows no color even if Mrs. Gandhi does.

Nixon Approach To Environment: 'What I Say, Not What I Do'

WASHINGTON — The Norman Vincent Peale rhetoric in Mr. Nixon's radio address on natural resources and the environment has about as much relation to the hard facts of our national situation as it does to ecumenicism in Ethiopia.

Positive thinking may be powerful medicine when applied to interpersonal affairs; something more tangible, like money, is required to save this broad continent and the air and water that flow over it. Yet the President, in his budget-cutting mood, expects a nation of fairly well-educated Americans to believe that saying something makes it so, and obviates the need to follow up with major deeds instead of words.

Listen:

"WHEN WE CAME to office in 1969, we tackled this challenge with all the power at our command. Now, in 1973, I can report that America is well on the way to winning the war against environmental degradation — well on the way to making our peace with nature.

"Day by day, our air is getting cleaner. In virtually every one of our major cities, the levels of air pollution are declining. Month by month, our water-pollution problems are also being conquered, our noise and pesticide problems are yielding to new initiatives, our parklands and protected wilderness areas are increasing. . ."

Which brings up some serious questions. Has our President been outdoors lately? Has he looked down out of his helicopter? Has he opened one of the windows at the White House? Is he unaware that air pollution was so bad right here in the nonindustrial city of Washington that a few minutes consideration was given to postponing his own inaugural ceremonies last month?

OF COURSE, Mr. Nixon has some selected statistics to back up what he said. He notes that federal spending for environmental protection and natural resources has increased fourfold in the past four years, that industry is "assuming a steadily growing share of responsibility." And what has not been done, he strongly implies, is all the fault of the Democratic Congress.

He says he sent 19 important bills up to the last Congress which were not enacted. True. He does not mention the other half of the story. Lest I be suspect as an unbiased witness on the matter, I quote Congressional Quarterly, which is proved by chemical analysis to be 100 per cent neutral.

In summarizing the record of the 92nd Congress, CQ awards it "the most productive record for environmental protection in the nation's history." And it adds that "perhaps the most dramatic vote came on the last day of the session, when Congress overrode President Nixon's veto of the Federal Water-Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972, a comprehensive $24.7 billion measure aimed at cleaning up the nation's waters by 1985."

THAT IS THE MONEY the bulk of which Mr. Nixon has impounded and refused to spend, despite congressional rejection of his veto. Without referring to that episode directly, the President offers a peculiar rationale for it in his current speech:

"Spending still more money would not buy us more pollution-control facilities, but only more expensive ones." Perfectly clear, as he always makes it.

Figuratively pounding his desk, he winds up his address with an inspirational flight that should banish putrefaction and destruction from our earth forever. "Now is the time to stop the sanctimonious hand-wringing and roll up our sleeves and get on with the job. Now is the time to reject the doomsday mentality which says we are destined to pollute ourselves out of existence. The advocates of defeatism warn us of all that is wrong, but I remind them and all Americans of our genius for responsive adaptability and our enormous reservoir of spirit. . ."

Take that, you bad bulldozers, and that and that, you mean pulp mills and claptrap developers! But you congressmen up there on Capitol Hill, don't you take it too seriously. He still packs a powerful veto for anything that ventures too far out beyond rhetoric into the world of reality.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Feb. 19, 1963

The Soviet Union informed the United States that its troops would be removed from Cuba within three weeks.

The San Rafael City Council finally gave Nick Giampoli a hearing on his ouster from the police force, but councilmen said scarcely a word as Giampoli's attorney did the talking. Unmentioned was the former lieutenant's candidacy for chief as opponent to incumbent Charles J. Chiesa in the upcoming municipal election.

20 YEARS AGO

Feb. 19, 1953

The Marin City Market was mobbed with customers as it put T-bone steaks imported from New Zealand on sale at 39 cents a pound.

No rapid transit system which could be constructed in the San Francisco Bay Area could pay its own way, the Senate Interim Committee on Rapid Transit was told by Alfred J. Lundberg, former head of Key System.

A Major Overhaul Of Colleges Asked

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A joint legislative committee wants a major overhaul of the state's universities and colleges to insure that California maintains "the finest system of higher education in the country."

Proposals by the two-house panel include recommendations to achieve racial balance among college students, reduce the power of the University of California Regents and put more controls on a governor's regent appointment power.

The committee took no position on whether tuition should be imposed on UC students, but said the authority to set student charges in all three higher education systems should rest with one agency— the legislature.

The recommendations were contained in a detailed 118-page report issued over the weekend. The report was based on the 10-member panel's study over the last 22 months of the Master Plan for Higher Education in California set forth in 1970.

Assemblyman John Vasconellos, D-San Jose, committee chairman, said the report was a "draft" that would be scrutinized in a series of public hearings next month before being presented in final form to the legislature in May.

The committee, composed of six Democrats and four Republicans, gave no cost estimate for implementing its proposals nor did it give specific instructions for carrying out many of them.

But it said the recommendations were essential for "development of an educational system with a broad range of choices available to each person."

"The fact that California probably has the finest system of higher education in the country is no guarantee for the future," the report said.

The panel's major recommendations were ones to:

—Achieve by 1980 an "approximate ethnic, sexual and economic composition of the state" among university and college students.

—Turn over to the legislature the responsibility for setting all tuition and fees in the UC, state university and colleges and community college systems.

—Create a "blue ribbon" commission to submit a list of five to 10 nominations for gubernatorial appointments to the UC Board of Regents. A governor would be required to choose his appointments from the list.

—Reduce the present 16-year terms of the regents to eight years and expand the 16-member board to 22 members by adding more public appointments.

The committee noted that blacks, Mexican-Americans, Asians and Indians all are under-represented on university and college campuses.

However, the lawmakers stopped short of endorsing an "open" admissions policy while at the same time emphasized they were not proposing a quota system.

The report simply recommended that educators use "flexibility" in admitting "qualified students," particularly when applying current standards of taking high school students in the top 12.5 per cent of their class for the UC system and the top 33 per cent in the state universities and colleges.

"The aim is to encourage a move toward fairness without being committed to a quota system," said Assemblyman Willie L. Brown, D-San Francisco, a committee member.

The proposed commission for submitting regent nominations would be headed by the state Supreme Court Chief Justice and include both student and faculty members.

Vasconcellos said "recent governors, in effect, have been able to substantially influence the direction of the institutions" with their appointments to the university and college governing bodies.

Woman Seeking POW Bracelets For Monument

MEAD, Wash. (UPI) — Mrs. Ellen M. Ewing is asking Americans to send her the five million POW-MIA bracelets they've been wearing so they can be melted down and built into a "monument to lasting peace."

A sculptor, Harold R. Balaz Jr., has offered to design and build the monument at no cost, she said Sunday, and arrangements have been made to have the bracelets melted down.

Mrs. Ewing said a flattened bracelet wrapped in a single sheet of note paper and put in an envelope can be mailed for eight cents to Bracelet Peace Movement, Box 2203, Spokane, Wash. 99210.

No-Fault Insurance Bill Due This Week

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A top Democratic assemblyman, carrying the blessings of Gov. Ronald Reagan, brings his no fault auto insurance plan to its first legislative test this week with a guarantee it will reduce premiums for drivers.

Beaten and belabored for several years in the Capitol, the measure (AB50) will again face heavy fire from trial lawyers—a group which has been "riding across this country like the Dalton brothers shooting down no-fault," according to John T. Kehoe, Reagan's director of consumer affairs.

The author of the bill, Assembly majority leader Jack R. Fenton of Montebello, will present it to the Assembly Finance and Insurance Committee Wednesday.

He predicts it will encounter little difficulty until it reaches the Senate—the deathbed of his no-fault proposals during the last two years.

This year may be different, Fenton said, because the bill guarantees an insurance rate reduction—a provision he hopes will give it the extra edge which will put it on the governor's desk.

Basically under the measure, a motorist or victim would be paid for his accident costs by his own insurance company regardless of who causes a crash. Victims could seek additional damages in court after their medical expenses exceeded $1,000.

The measure would also provide for payment of medical treatment up to $50,000, 85 per cent of lost wages up to $750 a month with a maximum of $5,000 and funeral expenses up to $1,000.

Fenton said the bill would lower rates for sections of insurance policies dealing with nonproperty damage by 10 to 15 per cent. As the bill stands now, the rate reduction would be required only in the first year after the measure went into effect. But Fenton said he is working on rate "control language" for the subsequent years.

The overall insurance premium would be decreased by a lesser percentage depending on how much additional coverage a driver purchased.

Fenton argued the bill would provide more benefits to accident victims, speed up payments to them and help unclog the courts by lowering the number of auto accident lawsuits.

He is backed by some segments of the insurance industry while other insurance companies oppose him along with the state bar association and the California Trial Lawyers Association.

Herb Hafif of Claremont, president of the trial lawyers group, has been one of the most vociferous opponents of the bill, contending the consumer benefits in the plan are illusory.

"Basically this bill is a radical change in the existing tort (personal injury lawsuit) system for absolutely no reason except insurance company profit," Hafif said in an interview.

"It forces people to buy compulsory self-insurance whether they need it or not and whether they can afford it or not," Hafif declared.

"It takes away the right of 96 per cent of the victims to seek full compensation for their injuries against carless drivers."

Hafif also said the requirement that rates be reduced is unconstitutional, delcaring the legislature cannot set rates without establishing a rate-fixing system.

One of the most sensitive issues between Hafif and Fenton is the lawmaker's contention that the trial lawyers are opposed to the bill because it is a "pocketbook" issue for them.

Fenton, a trial lawyer himself, said it could lower the income of the lawyers by decreasing the number of auto accident lawsuits.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

It Was Great Editorial, But We Didn't Write It

Sometimes some of our best editorial ideas never see print on the I-J editorial page. We discard them because we decide they are too flippant, or for some other reason.

For instance, there was the one we were going to write for today — but didn't.

WE THOUGHT of commending the Marin County Board of Supervisors for advocating special legislation to permit sale of beer and wine in the Civic Center Cafeteria.

The main objection is that there is a law against serving alcoholic beverages in the same building where court is held. The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board (a bunch of bluenoses, of course) turned down the supervisors' plan on that account. So now the supers want Bill Bagley and/or Peter Behr to introduce special legislation so Civic Center occupants and visitors can have pinot rouge with lunch and a pitcher of Budweiser on a hot afternoon.

AS OLD WESTERN history buffs, we thought of complimenting the supervisors on their return to the fundamental virtues of the frontier.

You've no doubt heard of Judge Roy Bean, "the only law west of the Pecos," who held court in the Jersey Lily, his saloon in Vinnegarroon, Tex.

Roy Bean's bench was an upended whiskey barrel. The seat of justice was a dry goods box. Court would be convened any time the judge had what he thought was a case — while the sale of liquor over the bar was interrupted temporarily. Two six-shooters in plain view on the "bench" assured order in the court.

There weren't many complaints about Judge Bean's brand of justice. He saw to that. His sentences generally called for either hanging or banishment.

Roy Bean was by no means the only frontier judge who held court in a barroom. He was the most famous. But plenty of others dispensed liquor and justice with an equally imparital hand.

And so, we were going to write an editorial commending the Marin supervisors on their attempt to return the county to that era of rugged individualism through making drinks available at the Civic Center.

WE DISCARDED as uncalled-for and unfair any suggestion that perhaps the Civic Center is not entirely dry now, as some of those same supervisors' decision make one wonder whether they have been tippling in their offices. None of that! This was to be a laudatory editorial.

But then we decided the whole thing just wouldn't fit. Far from having the bar set up right in the courtroom — or the court in the barroom — the distance from the Civic Center Cafeteria to any of the courts is considerable, even though they are under the same roof.

A helluva long distance, in fact, if one has to stagger the whole way.

The 'Revealing Society' Route To Absolute Loneliness

In "The Abandoners," Thomas Cottle characterizes America as "a revealing society." Meaning, self-disclosure has become not only the popular form for American literature but for American conversation, for American manners.

Like most manners, the confessional manner finally demands reciprocity. And so Cottle goes on: If America "is a revealing society, it is also a probing one. Seemingly nothing is inviolate, nothing is able to withstand our penetrations, investigations and intrusiveness."

He speaks of the pressures exerted, particularly among the young, by "the forces of revelation," and he wonders if we are not all being "tyrannized by an ethic of openness and divulgence."

WHAT MAKES COTTLE'S complaint especially interesting is that he happens to be a psychotherapist at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. By all the stereotypes, he ought to be giving first endorsement to "openness" and "divulgence" — to the "revealing society."

Instead, he is rather horrified at all the people being so self-consciously themselves, so professionally natural. "Amazing how it all becomes a television show," he writes. "So much of reality itself now, it seems, copies the tube. Pretty soon professionals will arrive from the coast to instruct social scientists and therapists how to act with the people with whom they work. But then actors will have to coach the clientele, the patients, the kids, the couples contemplating a divorce."

Which brings us, of course, to "An American Family," the ultimate case-history of the "revealing society," now being presented like a cinema verite soap opera over the Public Broadcasting Service network. What slow motion boredom we are all putting up with! Like nosey bellhops, we chug up and down the corridors of the Chelsea Hotel as the now-famous Pat Loud visits her oldest son in New York. Like captive relatives, we squirm in our seats as a Loud daughter taps her way through a dancing-school rehearsal of "The Toy Trumpet."

All in the name of that "ethic of openness and divulgence."

IN A CURIOUS WAY, "An American Family" has replaced the Vietnam War as television's ambivalent event. Is this catastrophe "happening" or is it being subtly "staged"? Is the coolness, the odd constraint between the members of the Loud family an accurate barometer of relationships or merely amateur actors' discomfort? Did the 300 hours of filming "reveal" the Louds as they are or, in fact, turn these real-life actors into the parts they improvised for themselves, like a Pirandello play? Would the divorce that occurred after the filming have taken place if the couple had not put themselves "on camera" — become their own interpreters and finally their own audience?

"It seemed like a fun, adventurous thing to do," Mrs. Loud is quoted as saying. "Instant therapy." But can one pass off this "ethic of openness" as another breezy case of experimenting with life-style?

The final impression that seems to emerge from all this drip-by-drip percolation of every-day life is loneliness. The more the people on camera talk, the more they work at their "revealing" and "divulging" — the more they appear to evade each other and themselves, like characters in Antonioni movies.

AND SO WE COME BACK, bored to tears —and perhaps brought to tears by other factors as well — to Cottle's "Portraits of Loss, Separation and Neglect," as he subtitles his own remarkable documentary of "children 'in trouble'" who "have somehow become disconnected and set apart," despite all their practically full-time efforts to reach out, to "communicate." Or just possibly because of all those efforts?

Cottle isn't sure. But he worries about "the presumed openness of certain contemporary parents," the resolve of sophisticated teachers to educate the feelings as well as the minds of their students. These ideals he finds, in theory, "noble, marvelous" — but, at the same time, "scary concepts and adventures."

In their quite different ways, "The Abandoners" and "An American Family" imply the same terrible warning: One arrives at absolute loneliness, not by going too private but by going too public — by abolishing certain lines of definition between oneself and other human beings that are found to be necessary only after it's too late.

Another Suit Filed Against Prop. 20

SANTA ANA (AP) — A second suit has been filed against the controversial coastline initiative, Prop. 20, seeking to declare it void on grounds of unconstitutionality.

The Orange County Council on Environment, Employment, Economy and Development (CEEED), the Building Industry Association of California Inc. and the Building and Construction Trades Council of Orange County are asking Orange County Superior Court for a permanent injunction against the initiative, approved by California voters last November.

Against Students As Undercover Agents

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Berkeley legislator has introduced a bill to prevent students from being used as undercover agents at state colleges or universities, and lawmen from posing as students.

Assemblyman John J. Miller, a Democrat, said in a statement Friday, "It is significant that our faculties... feel insecure enough in their classes to request this kind of legislation."

San Rafael's Redevelop Plan Before Supervisors

A proposed agreement between the County of Marin and City of San Rafael over the city's controversial redevelopment plan will be considered by supervisors Tuesday.

The board, meeting at 9 a.m. at Civic Center, opposed the city's original redevelopment plant by several supervisors have indicated lately they are willing to compromise.

Under a compromise agreement worked out by city and county officials, the city would agree to limit its redevelopment project to $6 million over a seven-year period, among other things.

The controversy erupted last May when supervisors discovered that the city's downtown redevelopment project would be financed, in part, with county property tax revenues.

Under the agreement, a lid would be placed on the project with excess property tax revenues to be returned to the county and other taxing agencies.

The supervisors' agenda also includes:

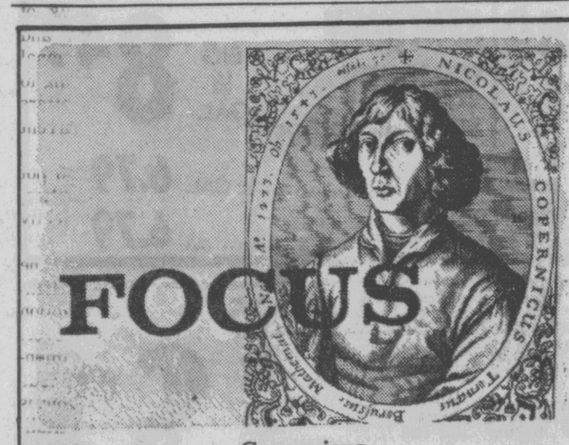

BEER — A request from Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere that the board reconsider its action of two weeks ago which called for state legislation to allow sale of wine and beer at the Civic Center cafeteria.

WELFARE — A detailed explanation by Betty L. Presley, director of public social services, on new federal regulations governing aid to the needy.

STAFFING — A reorganization of the probation department's Juvenile Hall staff, eliminating three administrative positions, downgrading five group counselor positions and replacing five others with "para-professionals."

MARINVIEW — A report from the department of public works on granting of eight building permits in the troubled Marinview subdivision of Tamalpais Valley, hard hit by last month's storms.

TRANSIT — Meeting as the county transit district board at 5 p.m. to consider a cost formula proposed by the Golden Gate Bridge District for the county's share of intracounty transit service. The Independent-Journal erred Thursday in saying the meeting was set for 8:30 a.m.

Copernicus

A pioneer in modern astronomy, Nicolaus Copernicus was born 500 years ago today in Poland. It was not until the last year of his life that his "earth-shaking" work, On the Revolutions of the Heavenly Bodies, was published. In it, he claimed that the sun, not the Earth, was the center of the universe. Without the aid of a telescope, Copernicus was able to trace the route of the Earth around the sun. His measurement of a year's length was off by only 28 seconds. In commemoration of Copernicus' birthday, NASA has launched an orbiting astronomical observatory satellite called "Copernicus."

DO YOU KNOW — What famous Italian scientist first used the telescope in astronomy?

FRIDAY'S ANSWER — A gun.

BODIES RECOVERED — Forestrymen yesterday moved down a steep bank toward Highway 9 with the body of one of four youths found dead Saturday in a blood-spattered, tent-like structure built deep in the woods of Henry Cowell Redwood State Park near Santa Cruz. The deaths brought to 13 the number of persons killed in Santa Cruz County since Jan. 9. (UPI Telephoto)

Santa Cruz Murder Victims Wanted To Live In The Wilds

FELTON, Calif. (UPI) — The latest in a string of murders, four youths found shot to death in a tiny thatched cabin of the secluded Garden of Eden, had just wanted to live "away from it all," the brother of one victim said Sunday.

The youths were killed by a small caliber weapon investigators said. The slayings brought to 13 the number of known murders in Santa Cruz County since Jan. 9.

An autopsy was planned today.

Sheriff's deputies cordoned off the dirt trail leading to the small but sturdy cabin built under the shadows of an oak grove in the rugged Santa Cruz Mountains and said a massive "leaf by leaf" foot search of the area would continue today.

"We must be the murder capital of the world now," said Peter Chang, Santa Cruz County district attorney.

Jeffrey D. Card, 22, discovered the body of his brother, Brian, 20, and the three unidentified victims Saturday afternoon when he visited their shelter hidden in the damp glen of Henry Cowell Redwood State Park.

The youths were apparently sitting down for a macaroni meal when they were shot. Jeffrey told investigators a .22 caliber rifle was missing from the cabin.

"That's how they wanted to live, away from it all," said Jeffrey, of Boulder Creek, who built the shelter last summer.

A spokesman for the Santa Cruz County coroner's office said X-rays revealed the wounds were made by a weapon similar to the one that killed Fred Perez, 72, while he was gardening last week.

Arrested for gunning down Perez and killing five others was Herbert W. Mullin, 25, described by authorities as an outstanding student whose personality changed when he turned to drugs. When Mullin was arrested last Tuesday, a .22 caliber rifle, which investigators said killed Perez, was found in his car.

Santa Cruz County Sheriff Douglas James refused to comment on whether Mullin was a suspect in the latest slayings.

James said he "didn't know" if the victims knew Mullin and replied "no comment" when asked if drugs were found on the scene.

"We understand they weren't working," said undersheriff Leland Davis. "Their sole occupation was getting food."

Students Elect New President

Other new officers, serving until February 1974, are Lorraine Gaskin, a sophomore from Albany, who was elected vice president; Lynn Thurman, a junior from Port Hueneme, who was elected secretary, and Lisa Morgan, a junior from Fort Huachuca, Ariz., who was elected treasurer.

Miss Burke, a 21-year-old junior, previously served as a freshman class advisor and as a house chairman in her residence hall. She is majoring in speech and special education and has been on the dean's list.

Outline Of General Plan To Be Given

Sol Silver, senior Marin County planner, will outline the proposed countywide general plan at an open house, sponsored by the San Francisco Bay chapter of the Sierra Club, Feb. 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

Supervisor Michael Wornum also will review growth aspects of the plan, while Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini comments on the plan's transportation policies.

A Major Overhaul Of Colleges Asked

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A joint legislative committee wants a major overhaul of the state's universities and colleges to insure that California maintains "the finest system of higher education in the country."

Proposals by the two-house panel include recommendations to achieve racial balance among college students, reduce the power of the University of California Regents and put more controls on a governor's regent appointment power.

The committee took no position on whether tuition should be imposed on UC students, but said the authority to set student charges in all three higher education systems should rest with one agency— the legislature.

The recommendations were contained in a detailed 118-page report issued over the weekend. The report was based on the 10-member panel's study over the last 22 months of the Master Plan for Higher Education in California set forth in 1970.

Assemblyman John Vasconellos, D-San Jose, committee chairman, said the report was a "draft" that would be scrutinized in a series of public hearings next month before being presented in final form to the legislature in May.

The committee, composed of six Democrats and four Republicans, gave no cost estimate for implementing its proposals nor did it give specific instructions for carrying out many of them.

But it said the recommendations were essential for "development of an educational system with a broad range of choices available to each person."

"The fact that California probably has the finest system of higher education in the country is no guarantee for the future," the report said.

The panel's major recommendations were ones to:

—Achieve by 1980 an "approximate ethnic, sexual and economic composition of the state" among university and college students.

—Turn over to the legislature the responsibility for setting all tuition and fees in the UC, state university and colleges and community college systems.

—Create a "blue ribbon" commission to submit a list of five to 10 nominations for gubernatorial appointments to the UC Board of Regents. A governor would be required to choose his appointments from the list.

—Reduce the present 16-year terms of the regents to eight years and expand the 16-member board to 22 members by adding more public appointments.

The committee noted that blacks, Mexican-Americans, Asians and Indians all are under-represented on university and college campuses.

However, the lawmakers stopped short of endorsing an "open" admissions policy while at the same time emphasized they were not proposing a quota system.

The report simply recommended that educators use "flexibility" in admitting "qualified students," particularly when applying current standards of taking high school students in the top 12.5 per cent of their class for the UC system and the top 33 per cent in the state universities and colleges.

"The aim is to encourage a move toward fairness without being committed to a quota system," said Assemblyman Willie L. Brown, D-San Francisco, a committee member.

The proposed commission for submitting regent nominations would be headed by the state Supreme Court Chief Justice and include both student and faculty members.

Vasconcellos said "recent governors, in effect, have been able to substantially influence the direction of the institutions" with their appointments to the university and college governing bodies.

Woman Seeking POW Bracelets For Monument

MEAD, Wash. (UPI) — Mrs. Ellen M. Ewing is asking Americans to send her the five million POW-MIA bracelets they've been wearing so they can be melted down and built into a "monument to lasting peace."

A sculptor, Harold R. Balaz Jr., has offered to design and build the monument at no cost, she said Sunday, and arrangements have been made to have the bracelets melted down.

Mrs. Ewing said a flattened bracelet wrapped in a single sheet of note paper and put in an envelope can be mailed for eight cents to Bracelet Peace Movement, Box 2203, Spokane, Wash. 99210.

Journalist's Stature Belies Her Abilities

By DIANA LOERCHER
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The small, slender woman who opens the door looks fragile, like an undernourished bird, and there is vulnerability in the eyes.

Until one hears the strong clear tones of the voice that seems too big for the body, it is difficult to believe that this is the Oriana Fallaci who has served as a war correspondent in Vietnam and interviewed some of the most important people in the world: most recently Presidential Adviser Henry Kissinger and Nguyen van Thieu, President of South Vietnam. She has even been shot — three times while covering the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City.

Author of five books and a reporter for the Italian magazine L'Europeo for the past 17 years, Miss Fallaci is amused by the celebrity status that these two jouranlistic coups have suddenly thrust on her. "What's happening in these weeks is very funny for me. I understand that they come to interview me because I'm writing a book, but that they come to interview me because I interview Dr. Kissinger and President Thieu is something I cannot understand," she said.

"The only thing that pleases me is that I am revenging the women who are humiliated and badly treated... It was good that I did these two things that all the journalists wanted to do, that it was a woman. The other thing — mind now, pay attention! — let's make it clear I am not a Nationalist. However, I found it amusing that it was also an Italian who did it — a female Dago who made all this noise in America. I love it!" she shouted, laughing.

Miss Fallaci speaks in italics and exclamation points, with hands fluttering like wings. She is Florentine. A tremendous vitality emanates from her, a passion, that has doubtless contributed to her success as an interviewer. She spoke of her intense curiosity, which has elicited remarkable admissions from her famous subjects, who have included Norman Mailer, Ingrid Bergman, H. Rap Brown, and Robert Kennedy. There are two apparent reasons.

One is her talent for intimacy. She easily establishes an atmosphere of confidence and closeness and creates the impression that she would tell you anything. Consequently you feel safe to do the same with her.

The other factor is her relentlessness. When Miss Fallaci wants to pursue a line of questioning she rarely lets go, as in the interview with Dr. Kissinger, who kept trying to avoid the subject of the Vietnam war. She does not appear to be afraid of anyone.

"I used to be intimidated when I was younger," she recalled. "I used to be scared of people... The point is that since I have started to interview people in power I have found how 'everyday' they are. I don't know how to put it. Sometimes they are mediocre. Really they are not better, they are not superior. I have met very few superior people.

"Now if they are not superior, there is no reason to be intimidated. If they are superior, like the very few that I have found, they don't make you feel intimidated. They descend from their pedestal, and they come to you with their hand open and you feel at your ease. When they are more intelligent, more clever, they are nicer." Among those she cited as "superior" are Indira Gandhi, Golda Meir, and Pietro Nenni, the Italian Socialist leader.

"I am rather unpredictable in the result of these interviews. For instance, nobody expected me to be rather nice with Thieu. I detest what he represents, and yet I rather defended him... He was so thirsty to be understood, so desperate and alone...

"I went to Dr. Kissinger determined to write something very nice, and I told him, 'You know, Dr. Kissinger, in the last years of my life I've been writing exclusively about people making war. This time I want to write the portrait of a man who is trying to make peace.' I really meant it. I was hoping to adore him and he froze me...One turned out to be a human being and the other to be just a politician and a professor."

As for the future, what Miss Fallaci would most like to do is retire to her family's country home in Tuscany and write "a couple of books," one a love story. She no longer wishes to write about war, despite her former attraction to its special drama, and reluctantly covered the recent Indo-Pakistani conflict.

"I saw enough. I have had enough of it. It's an experience done. The only danger is that since I'm rather familiar with it by now the magazine will ask me to go, and when they ask you you have to go. It's funny. If they ask you to do this you feel ashamed to say no because you're afraid that they think that you are afraid. As a matter of fact you are afraid, but you do not want them to know that you are afraid."

But she cannot afford to stop working yet, so what she wants to write about now is power: "The men who hold power. Not the abstract idea of power. Otherwise I would go to some professor at Yale or a psychiatrist and ask him, 'What is power?' I am seduced by the idea of trying to understand who are these men and women, why they are there, was it some kind of destiny, was it by chance, and when they get there are they aware of what they have in their hands? If they were not very intelligent, do they become more intelligent? If they were bad, do they become better? If they were good, do they become worse?

"Power does not seduce me. For instance, I would never have interest in a man who is powerful... I see him automatically ugly... A man in power is there to make me obey him, and I would place him among the other things that make the dignity of man his disobedience. He wants to command me. He decides for me. Voila!"

Miss Fallaci is also opposed to "marriage with a signature." "For instance, I never wanted to change my name... Why should I promise obedience to a man? Does he promise obedience to me? He shouldn't and I shouldn't. Why should I tie myself to another person with the promise that it's going to be forever and it might not be forever. All these things drive to divorce... By marriage I mean another thing. I mean two free persons choosing to live together and — mind! — being faithful to each other. You do it out of freedom because you want to do so...

"If you see me from the point of the moral standard... I am the most moral person in the world. I am tied to a man for years, a man to whom I am not married. I live alone and he lives alone... I am devoted and faithful to this man and the most conformist wife of another century. So it is possible. I have never betrayed this man once. You know, promiscuity disgusts me... It is not courageous. There is no dignity."

Miss Fallaci would also like to have children and feels that institutionalized marriage is not a prerequisite. And white she accepts abortion intellectually, it offends her on personal grounds. "I have this terrible love for life!" she cried.

Miss Fallaci plans to remain a journalist for at least a few more years. Though she originally wanted to be a doctor, she speaks of her present profession with enthusiasm and without regret. "Life would not have given so much to me if I had become a doctor. As a doctor I would not have seen what I have seen. I would not have done what I have done... I think this work can be very noble. To me it is."

No-Fault Insurance Bill Due This Week

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A top Democratic assemblyman, carrying the blessings of Gov. Ronald Reagan, brings his no fault auto insurance plan to its first legislative test this week with a guarantee it will reduce premiums for drivers.

Beaten and belabored for several years in the Capitol, the measure (AB50) will again face heavy fire from trial lawyers—a group which has been "riding across this country like the Dalton brothers shooting down no-fault," according to John T. Kehoe, Reagan's director of consumer affairs.

The author of the bill, Assembly majority leader Jack R. Fenton of Montebello, will present it to the Assembly Finance and Insurance Committee Wednesday.

He predicts it will encounter little difficulty until it reaches the Senate—the deathbed of his no-fault proposals during the last two years.

This year may be different, Fenton said, because the bill guarantees an insurance rate reduction—a provision he hopes will give it the extra edge which will put it on the governor's desk.

Basically under the measure, a motorist or victim would be paid for his accident costs by his own insurance company regardless of who causes a crash.

The measure would also provide for payment of medical treatment up to $50,000, 85 per cent of lost wages up to $750 a month with a maximum of $5,000 and funeral expenses up to $1,000.

Fenton said the bill would lower rates for sections of insurance policies dealing with nonproperty damage by 10 to 15 per cent. As the bill stands now, the rate reduction would be required only in the first year after the measure went into effect. But Fenton said he is working on rate "control language" for the subsequent years.

The overall insurance premium would be decreased by a lesser percentage depending on how much additional coverage a driver purchased.

Fenton argued the bill would provide more benefits to accident victims, speed up payments to them and help unclog the courts by lowering the number of auto accident lawsuits.

He is backed by some segments of the insurance industry while other insurance companies oppose him along with the state bar association and the California Trial Lawyers Association.

Herb Hafif of Claremont, president of the trial lawyers group, has been one of the most vociferous opponents of the bill, contending the consumer benefits in the plan are illusory.

"Basically this bill is a radical change in the existing tort (personal injury lawsuit) system for absolutely no reason except insurance company profit," Hafif said in an interview.

"It forces people to buy compulsory self-insurance whether they need it or not and whether they can afford it or not," Hafif declared.

"It takes away the right of 96 per cent of the victims to seek full compensation for their injuries against carless drivers."

Hafif also said the requirement that rates be reduced is unconstitutional, delcaring the legislature cannot set rates without establishing a rate-fixing system.

One of the most sensitive issues between Hafif and Fenton is the lawmaker's contention that the trial lawyers are opposed to the bill because it is a "pocketbook" issue for them.

Fenton, a trial lawyer himself, said it could lower the income of the lawyers by decreasing the number of auto accident lawsuits.

Mail Frustrations A Problem But Service Has A Good Size

DEAR HELEN:

You wrote me a letter postmarked November 1. I received it yesterday — from a neighbor who said it had been in her vacation mail all the while they were on an extended cruise.

Several years ago I mailed a letter at a hotel desk — and learned that it arrived at its destination, four blocks away, three weeks later!

Your business depends on mail, Helen, and while it probably wouldn't do any good, I wish you'd write a column on the mail frustrations we suffer. — POSTAL BLUES

DEAR P.B.:

Sorry, I'm going to take the "unpopular" side — which will probably surprise everyone, including me.

We all have our favorite stories about the pony express-paced Postal Service, but how about the millions of letters which arrive on time? Perhaps we Americans are so spoiled by efficiency that we aren't geared for occasional goofs.

Yes, I simmer, too, when a piece of mail is delayed or lost — but I must be honest: out of several hundred letters, perhaps one arrives late. My margin of error is a lot higher than that! So who am I to complain?

(You're welcome, Postmaster General Klassen... And now, there's this little matter of hurrying up those big packages of first class mail that come from my syndicate. My correspondents aren't third-class people!) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My golf partner at the club said his wife was "cold," so in the spirit of friendship, I proved she wasn't.

I had no ulterior motives — just wanted to help. Let's say it was an educational laboratory course without the high price tag.

It took me several months to break away and get her back to her husband. The problem between them has disappeared now, thanks to me, but do I get credit? No! This woman had the bad sense to "confess," and I have lost a good friend and golf buddy.

Before he found out our secret, he confided in me that his wife was a changed woman, which made him a changed man, and a very happy one. Wouldn't you think he'd be grateful? — ARCHIE

DEAR ARCHIE:

No! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My fiance and I broke up over a silly argument. He didn't want me to finish college and I was determined to get my degree, either before or after marriage.

His reasons were: There had been several rapes on campus; and he didn't want me associating with "the college crowd." He is very jealous about my talking with other men. Frowns on my having a career.

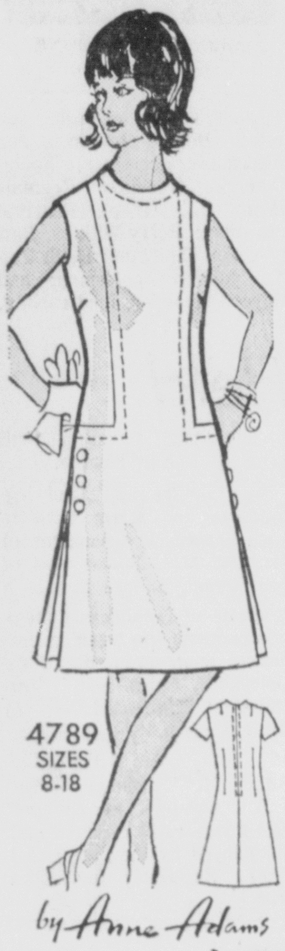

I've always tried to please him, but the more I gave in, the more he demanded. This once, I stood up for what I wanted, and now he's gone.

I feel incomplete without him. Should I give in and become a drop-out& — TIGER

DEAR TIGER:

You might feel incomplete with him too. A career girl type shouldn't marry a jealous man who resents her brains. If she does, she'll soon begin resenting him. Don't give in! — H.

Mother Begins Subway Course

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Marion McAllister, wife of a subway yardmaster and mother of a 15-year-old daughter, is the first woman to qualify for training as a subway motorman.

"I'm a bit nervous. I'll just have to try to do my best and see what happens," Mrs. McAllister said Wednesday as she reported for her first day of classes.

Mrs. McAllister said she decided to take the motorman's test because "I wanted to learn more about the system and see just what knowledge I had about the railroad." She finished 19th in a field of 1,084. Only 259 passed the exam last April.

MONEY MATTERS

You Can Protest Oil Card Charge

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Does your signature on an oil credit card commit you to payment of all charges if you later discover discrepancies or question the fairness of a certain charge?

No it does not. You can and should protest in such a case. You should do so in writing with a detailed explanation of the circumstances.

Keep the original charge slip or work sheet but enclose a photostatic copy in your letter. Address your protest either to the district office of the oil company, listed in the telephone directory, or to the office from which you have been billed.

Most of the large oil companies now have a special customer-relations representative who makes a thorough investigation of the case. If you are in the right and the charge was unfair or fraudulent an adjustment will be made on your bill.

AT THE SAME time, not all complaints are easily resolved. If you have a dispute with a gas station over repairs to your car, the oil company cannot force the one in charge to make an adjustment on your bill.

That is, unless it happens to be a company-owned station. Most stations are leased by the company.

Suppose, for instance, you take your car into the station for a tune-up. The motor is not running smoothly. A tune-up usually costs about $30 or $35. That seems to be needed, and you authorize it.

But when you pick up your car, you find you have been charged $80. Yet you did not authorize extra parts and extra work, nor were you called about the need for these extras.

You eventually sign for the charge on your credit card assuming the car has been put in good condition. Within the hour it develops mechanical hiccups again.

YOU TAKE it back. It is supposedly fixed, but in a short while the car is vibrating in the same old way. You are invited to leave it again, but you have lost confidence in the mechanic and the station. You take the car to a dealer-service garage.

It is satisfactorily repaired. Now you have two bills. Should you be obliged to pay the first one? That depends on the outcome of the investigation by the oil company's customer-relations representative, and whether the lessee of the station can be persuaded to adjust his bill.

Oil companies, within the past few years, have become keenly aware of and responsive to consumer complaints, particularly with respect to sleight-of-hand tricks in making out the credit-card charge for gas and oil.

One of the most common is know as "kiting." This occurs when the attendant who fills your gas tank puts the correct charge at the bottom of your credit card invoice, but sets the printer to show another figure at the top.

The figure at the top is the one that goes into the computer. For instance, you may have purchased $6.50 worth of gasoline. You sign for it, looking only at the handwritten total at the bottom. You have failed to notice that the printed figure at the top reads "01650." This means that you will be charged $16.50 for that gasoline, not $6.50.

THERE ARE two basic ways to protect yourself against this bit of trickery. One is to compare the figure at the top — which many motorists never notice — with the written total below when you sign the charge slip.

The other is to keep all your gasoline invoices and compare them with the monthly bill from the oil company. If there is a discrepancy, send a photostat of your invoice or invoices to the company. The bill will be adjusted to reflect the correct change.

Another illegal practice is known as "double stamping." This involves slipping two invoices, instead of one, into the imprinting machine, along with the credit card. The first one is given to the customer to sign. The second is blank except for the customer's name and address. The blanks are filed in later with the fake charges.

These may go undetected unless the customer keeps his own invoices and checks them with those for which he has been billed. Then forgeries can be easily detected. Notify the oil company and include photostatic copies of your correctvoices.

Motorists are warned by the American Automobile association (AAA) to be alert to "scare tactics" used by some of the less reputable service stations to promote the sale of unneeded tires or engine parts to unwry travelers.

If a station attendent suggests repairs and you have doubts about the need for them, the AAA suggests you take time to get other opinions. Or check with the local chamber of commerce or nearest AAA office.

BODIES RECOVERED — Forestrymen yesterday moved down a steep bank toward Highway 9 with the body of one of four youths found dead Saturday in a blood-spattered, tent-like structure built deep in the woods of Henry Cowell Redwood State Park near Santa Cruz. The deaths brought to 13 the number of persons killed in Santa Cruz County since Jan. 9. (UPI Telephoto)

Santa Cruz Murder Victims Wanted To Live In The Wilds

FELTON, Calif. (UPI) — The latest in a string of murders, four youths found shot to death in a tiny thatched cabin of the secluded Garden of Eden, had just wanted to live "away from it all," the brother of one victim said Sunday.

The youths were killed by a small caliber weapon investigators said. The slayings brought to 13 the number of known murders in Santa Cruz County since Jan. 9.

An autopsy was planned today.

Sheriff's deputies cordoned off the dirt trail leading to the small but sturdy cabin built under the shadows of an oak grove in the rugged Santa Cruz Mountains and said a massive "leaf by leaf" foot search of the area would continue today.

"We must be the murder capital of the world now," said Peter Chang, Santa Cruz County district attorney.

Jeffrey D. Card, 22, discovered the body of his brother, Brian, 20, and the three unidentified victims Saturday afternoon when he visited their shelter hidden in the damp glen of Henry Cowell Redwood State Park.

The youths were apparently sitting down for a macaroni meal when they were shot. Jeffrey told investigators a .22 caliber rifle was missing from the cabin.

"That's how they wanted to live, away from it all," said Jeffrey, of Boulder Creek, who built the shelter last summer.

A spokesman for the Santa Cruz County coroner's office said X-rays revealed the wounds were made by a weapon similar to the one that killed Fred Perez, 72, while he was gardening last week.

Arrested for gunning down Perez and killing five others was Herbert W. Mullin, 25, described by authorities as an outstanding student whose personality changed when he turned to drugs. When Mullin was arrested last Tuesday, a .22 caliber rifle, which investigators said killed Perez, was found in his car.

Santa Cruz County Sheriff Douglas James refused to comment on whether Mullin was a suspect in the latest slayings.

James said he "didn't know" if the victims knew Mullin and replied "no comment" when asked if drugs were found on the scene.

Students Elect New President

Miss Burke, a 21-year-old junior, previously served as a freshman class advisor and as a house chairman in her residence hall. She is majoring in speech and special education and has been on the dean's list.

Outline Of General Plan To Be Given

Sol Silver, senior Marin County planner, will outline the proposed countywide general plan at an open house, sponsored by the San Francisco Bay chapter of the Sierra Club, Feb. 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

Supervisor Michael Wornum also will review growth aspects of the plan, while Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini comments on the plan's transportation policies.

Journalist's Stature Belies Her Abilities

By DIANA LOERCHER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The small, slender woman who opens the door looks fragile, like an undernourished bird, and there is vulnerability in the eyes.

Until one hears the strong clear tones of the voice that seems too big for the body, it is difficult to believe that this is the Oriana Fallaci who has served as a war correspondent in Vietnam and interviewed some of the most important people in the world: most recently Presidential Adviser Henry Kissinger and Nguyen van Thieu, President of South Vietnam. She has even been shot — three times while covering the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City.

Author of five books and a reporter for the Italian magazine L'Europeo for the past 17 years, Miss Fallaci is amused by the celebrity status that these two jouranlistic coups have suddenly thrust on her. "What's happening in these weeks is very funny for me. I understand that they come to interview me because I'm writing a book, but that they come to interview me because I interview Dr. Kissinger and President Thieu is something I cannot understand," she said.

"The only thing that pleases me is that I am revenging the women who are humiliated and badly treated... It was good that I did these two things that all the journalists wanted to do, that it was a woman. The other thing — mind now, pay attention! — let's make it clear I am not a Nationalist. However, I found it amusing that it was also an Italian who did it — a female Dago who made all this noise in America. I love it!" she shouted, laughing.

Miss Fallaci speaks in italics and exclamation points, with hands fluttering like wings. She is Florentine. A tremendous vitality emanates from her, a passion, that has doubtless contributed to her success as an interviewer. She spoke of her intense curiosity, which has elicited remarkable admissions from her famous subjects, who have included Norman Mailer, Ingrid Bergman, H. Rap Brown, and Robert Kennedy. There are two apparent reasons.

One is her talent for intimacy. She easily establishes an atmosphere of confidence and closeness and creates the impression that she would tell you anything. Consequently you feel safe to do the same with her.

The other factor is her relentlessness. When Miss Fallaci wants to pursue a line of questioning she rarely lets go, as in the interview with Dr. Kissinger, who kept trying to avoid the subject of the Vietnam war. She does not appear to be afraid of anyone.

"I used to be intimidated when I was younger," she recalled. "I used to be scared of people... The point is that since I have started to interview people in power I have found how 'everyday' they are. I don't know how to put it. Sometimes they are mediocre. Really they are not better, they are not superior. I have met very few superior people.

"Now if they are not superior, there is no reason to be intimidated. If they are superior, like the very few that I have found, they don't make you feel intimidated. They descend from their pedestal, and they come to you with their hand open and you feel at your ease. When they are more intelligent, more clever, they are nicer." Among those she cited as "superior" are Indira Gandhi, Golda Meir, and Pietro Nenni, the Italian Socialist leader.

"I am rather unpredictable in the result of these interviews. For instance, nobody expected me to be rather nice with Thieu. I detest what he represents, and yet I rather defended him... He was so thirsty to be understood, so desperate and alone...

"I went to Dr. Kissinger determined to write something very nice, and I told him, 'You know, Dr. Kissinger, in the last years of my life I've been writing exclusively about people making war. This time I want to write the portrait of a man who is trying to make peace.' I really meant it. I was hoping to adore him and he froze me...One turned out to be a human being and the other to be just a politician and a professor."

As for the future, what Miss Fallaci would most like to do is retire to her family's country home in Tuscany and write "a couple of books," one a love story. She no longer wishes to write about war, despite her former attraction to its special drama, and reluctantly covered the recent Indo-Pakistani conflict.

"I saw enough. I have had enough of it. It's an experience done. The only danger is that since I'm rather familiar with it by now the magazine will ask me to go, and when they ask you you have to go. It's funny. If they ask you to do this you feel ashamed to say no because you're afraid that they think that you are afraid. As a matter of fact you are afraid, but you do not want them to know that you are afraid."

But she cannot afford to stop working yet, so what she wants to write about now is power: "The men who hold power. Not the abstract idea of power. Otherwise I would go to some professor at Yale or a psychiatrist and ask him, 'What is power?' I am seduced by the idea of trying to understand who are these men and women, why they are there, was it some kind of destiny, was it by chance, and when they get there are they aware of what they have in their hands? If they were not very intelligent, do they become more intelligent? If they were bad, do they become better? If they were good, do they become worse?

"Power does not seduce me. For instance, I would never have interest in a man who is powerful... I see him automatically ugly... A man in power is there to make me obey him, and I would place him among the other things that make the dignity of man his disobedience. He wants to command me. He decides for me. Voila!"

Miss Fallaci is also opposed to "marriage with a signature." "For instance, I never wanted to change my name... Why should I promise obedience to a man? Does he promise obedience to me? He shouldn't and I shouldn't. Why should I tie myself to another person with the promise that it's going to be forever and it might not be forever. All these things drive to divorce... By marriage I mean another thing. I mean two free persons choosing to live together and — mind! — being faithful to each other. You do it out of freedom because you want to do so...

"If you see me from the point of the moral standard... I am the most moral person in the world. I am tied to a man for years, a man to whom I am not married. I live alone and he lives alone... I am devoted and faithful to this man and the most conformist wife of another century. So it is possible. I have never betrayed this man once. You know, promiscuity disgusts me... It is not courageous. There is no dignity."

Miss Fallaci would also like to have children and feels that institutionalized marriage is not a prerequisite. And white she accepts abortion intellectually, it offends her on personal grounds. "I have this terrible love for life!" she cried.

Miss Fallaci plans to remain a journalist for at least a few more years. Though she originally wanted to be a doctor, she speaks of her present profession with enthusiasm and without regret. "Life would not have given so much to me if I had become a doctor. As a doctor I would not have seen what I have seen. I would not have done what I have done... I think this work can be very noble. To me it is."

MUSIC REVIEW

An Electrified Piano Concerto

By VERA M. OLMSTED

Vladimir Ashkenazy electrified a packed auditorium Saturday evening with his brilliant interpretation of Beethoven's Third Piano Concerto in C Minor.

He was soloist with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, directed by guest conductor Kazuyoshi Akiyama, in the second concert of their Marin Series at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Ashkenazy is a very intense performer, almost fierce at times. He is able to project himself completely into the music, as if unaware of anyone else's presence. His technique is flawless, but his innate musicianship was revealed in his ability to express the essential mood of the concerto, whether in the brooding passages or in the lighter gaiety of the other sections.

Beethoven's Third is a transitional work between his first and second periods. It follows the classical form used by Mozart, but Beethoven expanded the framework of the orchestral exposition and added greater variety to the solo piano part.

The third movement rondo was particularly delightful in interpretation. Ashkenazy never hurried the tempo despite the rather furious rush of energy released by this movement. He did not display his considerable pianistic technique simply for show but in order to underscore the qualities inherent in the music. The orchestra members themselves applauded Ashkenazy when he finished his outstanding performance.

The first work on the evening's program was "Green for Orchestra (November Steps No. 2)" by Tohru Takemitsu, a leading Japanese composer. This is a small, unpretentious composition, employing a large battery of percussion, and making interesting use of the low woodwinds and brasses. The overall effect is that of a gentle, impressionistic painting, invoking memories of Debussy, a composer Takemitsu greatly admires. Tame by today's avant garde standards, the piece drew little enthusiasm from the audience.

The second half of the program was devoted to the Symphony No. 7 in C Sharp Minor by Sergei Prokofiev. This work has aroused considerable controversy since its first performance in 1952.

It has been warmly praised in the Soviet Union for its lyricism and simplicity, and criticised in the West for these very same qualities. Many Western critics profess to see in this symphony Prokofiev's capitulation to the musical demands of the Soviet state.

The answer probably lies with neither extreme. This work was the last major composition written by Prokofiev before his death. His Sixth Symphony had been badly received and he was eager to make amends. The Seventh was begun as a work for young children, and Prokofiev may have deliberately kept his musical idiom simple.

Some of Prokofiev's musical characteristics are found in this work: the traditional form, use of major-minor tonality, and his melodic inventiveness. Nevertheless, as an old Prokofiev fan, I am left with the feeling that this is Prokofiev without the spice and bite of his earlier music.

The orchestra was given ample opportunity to display the skill of its members. Particularly outstanding were the percussion and woodwinds in the second movement Allegretto.

Akiyama, guest conductor for this performance, made his San Francisco debut last year. His conducting style is reminiscent of Seiji Ozawa's, with sweeping, graceful gestures that transmit their message directly to the musicians. At the end of the program the orchestra rapped on the stands in its own tribute to Akiyama.

MUSIC REVIEW

Rewarding Program By Arts Quartet

By MARTIN FRICK

The Marin Arts Quartet provided 100 listeners with a challenging and richly rewarding program yesterday afternoon at the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club.

After an intelligent, though somewhat heavy reading of the Mozart Quartet No. 18 in D Major, the string ensemble jelled brilliantly in a stirring performance of the Quartet in F by Paul Hindemith.

Particularly in the fugal section of the first movement in which the subject is stated clearly by each instrument beginning with violincello (Jean Mitchell), then followed in succession by viola (Lucien Mitchell), and second and first violins (Michael Gerling and Charles Meacham), all the swells and diminuendos were played as though the ensemble were one single instrument.

The group's excellent intonation was apparent in the chromatic theme-and-variations second movement. Then, in the first part of the impressive three-part Finale, the performers introduced a syncopated dance theme which they delicately passed around, changing it eventually into a tender melody.

The three top strings opened and closed the rich middle section giving Mrs. Mitchell time to switch to a cello tuned to B flat, one step lower. Following a variation on the first part, the audience responded to the inspired performance by bringing the performers back to the stage several times.

Following intermission, violist James Adair joined the quartet in a performance of his own quintet for Two Violins, Two Violas, and 'Cello, Op. 71, composed last year. The most outstanding feature of this quintet upon a first hearing are the singing melodies over a rushing momentum of dissonances right on through to the final firm unison notes.

A professor of composition at Sacramento University, Adair is a most prolific composer whose works are performed regularly in Europe. Since he is retiring from teaching this year, the university is presenting all his sonatas in a series of eight concerts. Both Charles Meacham and his wife, pianist Robaline Meacham are featured in several of the concerts. Marin County will have the opportunity to hear Adair's "Songs for Soprano and String Quartet on Medieval Texts" on April 29 when Gwen Curatilo joins this splended ensemble for the final concert of the season.

Mushroom Can Found Poisoned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has ordered the recall of 29,500 cans of mushrooms produced by an Ohio firm after one institutional-sized can was found to contain the poison that produces botulism.

Users of large-size cans of mushrooms, such as pizza parlors, in the Midwest where the product has been distributed were cautioned by the FDA to be alert to the brand names and codes of the lots being recalled.

FDA officials reported late Saturday that the United Canning Co. of East Palestine, Ohio, discovered a swollen 6 pound, 9 ounce No. 10 can on its warehouse shelves. Subsequent laboratory tests showed the can contained deadly botulism type B toxin, which produces botulism.

C. S. MOTT

Industrialist C. S. Mott Dies At 97

FLINT, Mich. (UPI) — C. S. Mott, a multi-millionaire whose fortune thrust him into the corporate and political limelight, felt indebted only to people.

And he paid off this debt generously — primarily through the Mott Foundation which he established in 1926—helping transform Flint from a small, dirt-road, midwestern community into the major industrial city it is today.

Mott, once General Motors Corp.'s largest stockholder, died Sunday at St. Joseph Hospital where he had been a flu patient since Jan. 28. He was 97.

Mayor Francis Limmer declared a seven-day period of mourning in the city Mott adopted as his own. Tributes poured in from industrialists, governmment officials and educators. Flint schools, which receive $5 million annually from the Mott Foundation, will close in his honor at 2 p.m. Wednesday, the day of his funeral.

Mott, through his foundation, shelled out millions of dollars annually on various community projects, most of them education or health oriented.

Mott, who had survived a number of serious illnesses in recent years only to return to work with his traditional vitality—succumbed in his sleep at 12:01 a.m. Sunday. His wife, Ruth, and son, Harding, president of the Mott Foundation, immediately rushed to the hospital. His youngest son, New York City philanthrophist Stewart Rawlings Mott, was among the first of Mott's other five children to return home to be with the family at the Mott Applewood estate.

Theater Sessions For Children Set

Marin theatrical producer Marion Hayes Cain, who has organized many drama activities for children, is beginning theater sessions for children in her home in San Anselmo this week.

The classes, known as "The Magic House," will strive to develop acting and imaginative ability and will introduce children to theater art and literature.

Carbon Monoxide Source Is Sought

HOGANSVILLE, Ga. (UPI) — Police and theater officials were trying to determine the cause of a carbon monoxide leak in the Royal Theater that hospitalized at least 15 persons.

A spokesman at a hospital in nearby LaGrange said none of the victims was seriously hurt. He said the movie projector in the theater uses carbon and possibly malfunctioned, releasing carbon monoxide.

DANCE REVIEW

Delicate Japanese Dancing

By HENDRIK VAN LEUVEN

Japanese dance is a delicate art, as demonstrated in a performance Saturday by Yaemichi Hanayagi and her group in Warren Auditorium at Sonoma State College.

Yaemichi Hanayagi (Mrs. Clarine Sunada of Petaluma) is a dancer who achieved natori status, a Japanese dance teaching credential, in 1969 from the famed Hanayagi School in Tokyo, which allows her to use its name. She teaches the art in Sonoma County, and her group is composed of her students.

One youngster, Gayleen Arishita, delighted the moderately filled auditorium with "Mari to Tonosama", (ball bouncing song), indicating with delicate gestures her lost ball and her dreams of its fate. Impressive was Tabarazuka, with Hanayagi and her son, Les Sunada, portraying two Samurai warriors troubled during a battle.

These are traditional Japanese folk dances, and their preservation has required the bending of certain classical rules, such as performance by men only or women only.

In Tabarazuka, mother and son dancing as two men produced striking results and a moving performance.

Precision timing of all dancers is the foremost problem of the troupe, and the subtle foot movements of Hanayagi should be studied closely by them.

Hanayagi performed one solo, the first number on the program, which informed the audience as to the nature of Japanese dance, and explained the art when fully mastered.

Pay Proposals Will Be Given Tomorrow

Salary proposals for the 1973-74 school year will be presented by teachers and classified employees at tomorrow's meeting of the Marin County Board of Education at 7:30 p.m. at Magnolia Park School, 1400 Lucas Valley Road, San Rafael.

The first hour of the meeting will be devoted to a program by the school, a facility for the trainable mentally retarded.

DRAMA REVIEW

Ross Valley Players Have A Hit

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

The Ross Valley Player's main business is to make people laugh.

Using this as a gauge, the Barn troupe at the Marin Art and Garden Center has another hit on its hands — a light and fluffy modern English comedy, "How The Other Half Loves."

The show opened Friday night, and sparked immediate laughter from the packed house. It has plenty of spicy dialogue, enough to bill the play for "adults only."

The plot is based on kind of a what-husband-is-playing-around-with-whose-wife thing.

Aside from timing problems, "Loves" provides a rather enjoyable evening. And scene two of act one was the funniest of the four.

"HOW THE OTHER HALF LOVES" — A two-act comedy by Alan Ayckbourn. Presented by the Ross Valley Players. Directed by Jane Watts; set design, Betty Hiller. The cast: Frank Foster, Ernie Widlund; Fiona Foster, Beverly Berry; Bob Phillips, Stephen Powers; Terry Phillips, Sue Glausen; William Featherstone, Peter Weller, and Marry Featherstone, Mary Herschend.

Beverly Berry as Fiona Foster, the wife who has been having an affair, adds a needed professional touch to the cast. A native of New Zealand, she handles the English dialogue very well.

Also pleasing was Mary Herschend as Mary, a rather mousy English wife. Peter Weller as her husband added several very funny moments.

Stephen Powers and Sue Glausen played the young American couple and Ernie Widlund, a veteran of Ross Valley productions, played Frank Foster. Widlund is all too cute in his interpretation and Powers and Miss Glausen seem all too robust.

To pull of the show, the cast always must be thinking British. But in this case, lapses destroy the illusion and ruin such delightful little remarks as "we're out of bathroom stationary."

The comedy, which is still playing at a West End theater in London, will continue at the Barn for four more consecutive Fridays and Saturdays, with curtain time at 8:30 p.m.

Blacks, Whites See Favors for Opposites

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Both black and white soldiers tend increasingly to believe as they go through Army training that the other race is getting favored treatment, a Pentagon-funded study shows.

Interpreters of the study said Sunday, however, they did not find the results of the study disappointing because even in the late stages of training, the majority of soldiers felt the system was still fair.

The study questioned soldiers during their first, eighth and 16th weeks in the service about how they thought minorities were treated in the Army. Over the period, the answers showed a "steady erosion of belief in equitable treatment," the survey said.

—In the first week of basic training, 5 per cent of whites thought blacks got favored treatment. But four months later, this faction rose to 23 per cent.

—Of blacks entering basic training, 15 per cent thought whites were getting better treatment. Sixteen weeks later, the opinion was shared by 38 per cent of the blacks questioned.

The Human Resources Research Organization of Alexandria, Va., made the survey for the Army, collecting 86,297 responses from basic trainees at Ft. Ord, Calif., and Ft. Jackson, S.C., during 1971.

No specific explanation for the attitude changes was found, but Curtis R. Smothers, acting deputy assistant defense secretary for equal opportunity, told UPI after reviewing the report that "I don't find it disappointing."

"You've got the segregation of neighborhoods and you take people out of that environment —black ghettoes and white ghettoes—and put them together for 16 weeks," Smothers said.

"After that, if a majority thinks the system is still fair, then you've done pretty well because race is a very obvious factor to most recruits."

At Ft. Jackson, which draws men primarily from the South, significantly more men of both races lost their belief in equal treatment as they went through training. The drop off was not so great at Ft. Ord, which draws men primarily from the West.

Young Democrats Criticize Nixon

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Youthful-Democrats, meeting in Baltimore Sunday, adopted a 40-page policy statement highly critical of the Nixon Administration and asking amnesty for draft dodgers and deserters.

In the policy statement, the National College of Young Democrats also called for an evenhanded Middle Eastern posture, an end to administration impounding of funds appropriated by Congress and an in-depthprobe of the Watergate bugging affair.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Mail Frustrations A Problem But Service Has A Good Size

DEAR HELEN:

You wrote me a letter postmarked November 1. I received it yesterday — from a neighbor who said it had been in her vacation mail all the while they were on an extended cruise.

Several years ago I mailed a letter at a hotel desk — and learned that it arrived at its destination, four blocks away, three weeks later!

Your business depends on mail, Helen, and while it probably wouldn't do any good, I wish you'd write a column on the mail frustrations we suffer. — POSTAL BLUES

DEAR P.B.:

Sorry, I'm going to take the "unpopular" side — which will probably surprise everyone, including me.

We all have our favorite stories about the pony express-paced Postal Service, but how about the millions of letters which arrive on time? Perhaps we Americans are so spoiled by efficiency that we aren't geared for occasional goofs.

Yes, I simmer, too, when a piece of mail is delayed or lost — but I must be honest: out of several hundred letters, perhaps one arrives late. My margin of error is a lot higher than that! So who am I to complain?

(You're welcome, Postmaster General Klassen... And now, there's this little matter of hurrying up those big packages of first class mail that come from my syndicate. My correspondents aren't third-class people!) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My golf partner at the club said his wife was "cold," so in the spirit of friendship, I proved she wasn't.

I had no ulterior motives — just wanted to help. Let's say it was an educational laboratory course without the high price tag.

It took me several months to break away and get her back to her husband. The problem between them has disappeared now, thanks to me, but do I get credit? No! This woman had the bad sense to "confess," and I have lost a good friend and golf buddy.

Before he found out our secret, he confided in me that his wife was a changed woman, which made him a changed man, and a very happy one. Wouldn't you think he'd be grateful? — ARCHIE

DEAR ARCHIE:

No! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My fiance and I broke up over a silly argument. He didn't want me to finish college and I was determined to get my degree, either before or after marriage.

His reasons were: There had been several rapes on campus; and he didn't want me associating with "the college crowd." He is very jealous about my talking with other men. Frowns on my having a career.

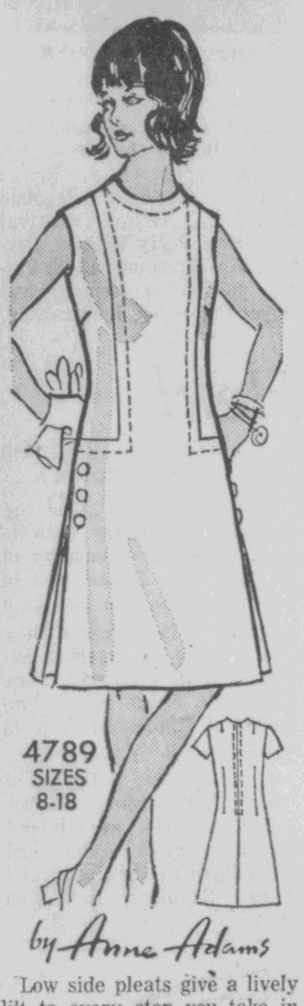

I've always tried to please him, but the more I gave in, the more he demanded. This once, I stood up for what I wanted, and now he's gone.

I feel incomplete without him. Should I give in and become a drop-out& — TIGER

DEAR TIGER:

You might feel incomplete with him too. A career girl type shouldn't marry a jealous man who resents her brains. If she does, she'll soon begin resenting him. Don't give in! — H.

Mother Begins Subway Course

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Marion McAllister, wife of a subway yardmaster and mother of a 15-year-old daughter, is the first woman to qualify for training as a subway motorman.

"I'm a bit nervous. I'll just have to try to do my best and see what happens," Mrs. McAllister said Wednesday as she reported for her first day of classes.

Mrs. McAllister said she decided to take the motorman's test because "I wanted to learn more about the system and see just what knowledge I had about the railroad." She finished 19th in a field of 1,084. Only 259 passed the exam last April.

You Can Protest Oil Card Charge

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Does your signature on an oil credit card commit you to payment of all charges if you later discover discrepancies or question the fairness of a certain charge?

No it does not. You can and should protest in such a case. You should do so in writing with a detailed explanation of the circumstances.

Keep the original charge slip or work sheet but enclose a photostatic copy in your letter. Address your protest either to the district office of the oil company, listed in the telephone directory, or to the office from which you have been billed.

Most of the large oil companies now have a special customer-relations representative who makes a thorough investigation of the case. If you are in the right and the charge was unfair or fraudulent an adjustment will be made on your bill.

AT THE SAME time, not all complaints are easily resolved. If you have a dispute with a gas station over repairs to your car, the oil company cannot force the one in charge to make an adjustment on your bill.

That is, unless it happens to be a company-owned station. Most stations are leased by the company.

Suppose, for instance, you take your car into the station for a tune-up. The motor is not running smoothly. A tune-up usually costs about $30 or $35. That seems to be needed, and you authorize it.

But when you pick up your car, you find you have been charged $80. Yet you did not authorize extra parts and extra work, nor were you called about the need for these extras.

You eventually sign for the charge on your credit card assuming the car has been put in good condition. Within the hour it develops mechanical hiccups again.

YOU TAKE it back. It is supposedly fixed, but in a short while the car is vibrating in the same old way. You are invited to leave it again, but you have lost confidence in the mechanic and the station. You take the car to a dealer-service garage.

It is satisfactorily repaired. Now you have two bills. Should you be obliged to pay the first one? That depends on the outcome of the investigation by the oil company's customer-relations representative, and whether the lessee of the station can be persuaded to adjust his bill.

Oil companies, within the past few years, have become keenly aware of and responsive to consumer complaints, particularly with respect to sleight-of-hand tricks in making out the credit-card charge for gas and oil.

One of the most common is know as "kiting." This occurs when the attendant who fills your gas tank puts the correct charge at the bottom of your credit card invoice, but sets the printer to show another figure at the top.

The figure at the top is the one that goes into the computer. For instance, you may have purchased $6.50 worth of gasoline. You sign for it, looking only at the handwritten total at the bottom. You have failed to notice that the printed figure at the top reads "01650." This means that you will be charged $16.50 for that gasoline, not $6.50.

THERE ARE two basic ways to protect yourself against this bit of trickery. One is to compare the figure at the top — which many motorists never notice — with the written total below when you sign the charge slip.

The other is to keep all your gasoline invoices and compare them with the monthly bill from the oil company. If there is a discrepancy, send a photostat of your invoice or invoices to the company. The bill will be adjusted to reflect the correct change.

Another illegal practice is known as "double stamping." This involves slipping two invoices, instead of one, into the imprinting machine, along with the credit card. The first one is given to the customer to sign. The second is blank except for the customer's name and address. The blanks are filed in later with the fake charges.

These may go undetected unless the customer keeps his own invoices and checks them with those for which he has been billed. Then forgeries can be easily detected. Notify the oil company and include photostatic copies of your correctvoices.

Motorists are warned by the American Automobile association (AAA) to be alert to "scare tactics" used by some of the less reputable service stations to promote the sale of unneeded tires or engine parts to unwry travelers.

If a station attendent suggests repairs and you have doubts about the need for them, the AAA suggests you take time to get other opinions. Or check with the local chamber of commerce or nearest AAA office.

A RICH CAKE FOR A GOOD CAUSE

There's more than frosting on that cake being sampled by Margaret Carolyn (Dinkey) Williams of Ross. It's "frosted" with coins pressed into the icing by customers of the Lady Baltimore Bakery in San Rafael as contributions to the March of Dimes. Dinkey, 2-year-old poster girl for the March, preferred the icing to the coins, but March publicist Nancy King Hayden, said the bakery, which has been setting a cake like this on its counter for 18 years has netted the March an average of $300 a year.

RUFFS WITH ACE

South wasn't thinking of frying pans when she played today's hand. These modern women! So, when East took the first two diamond tricks and then led another diamond, South ruffed with the ace of hearts.

South knew that West was out of diamonds, and the idea of the high ruff was to prevent West from ruffing. You can't blame South for disliking a ruff by West, but in the attempt to escape from this frying pan she fell right into the fire.

Declarer continued by leading the jack of hearts for a finesse. This lost to the queen of hearts, and back came another diamond.

RUFFS AGAIN

South ruffed high again and then drew trumps. She had already lost three tricks and the contract depended on managing the clubs without loss. There was no way to do this as the cards lay, so South was down one.

Now let's go back to the third trick, when East led the nine of diamonds. If South had stayed in the frying pan, she could have discarded a club, allowing West to ruff. Annoying, but not fatal; the contract would then be unbeatable.

No matter what West returned, South could draw trumps and discard another club on dummy's ten of diamonds. Declarer could then claim the rest of the tricks.

German Budget Is $41 Billion

BONN (UPI) — The government announced a postwar record $41 billion budget Sunday that means higher taxes on gasoline and alcoholic beverages and a more painful squeeze on big business and the rich.

Finance Minister Helmut Schmidt and Economics Minister Hans Friderichs said of that effective July 1, the government would levy a 10 per cent surcharge on all corporation taxes and personal incomes exceeding $34,000 a year.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Happy Birthday! But how many candles are the right number today for these famous folks — 49, 57, 61 or 62?

1. STAN KENTON, Kansas-born band leader and composer, is still going strong! Back in 1928 he made his first arrangement, then in the 1940s and 50s he led with progressive jazz ("Artistry in Rhythm"). Today he's still looking for new sounds. He wowed audiences at the Monterey Jazz Festival last fall with a new 19-piece group.

2. EDDIE ARCARO ranks among the top jockeys of all time. This little guy rode more than 4,000 winners, taking $23 million in stakes during his career. Twice he won racing's "Triple Crown" (Kentucky Derby, Preakness, and Belmont Stakes). Eddie retired 12 years ago and lives in New York.

3. LEE MARVIN was smart, he thought, dropped out of school and ended up picking fruit. He joined summer stock, got into acting, and found himself in Hollywood as the "Wild One" forced to join "The Raid" with "The Dirty Dozen." But he survived the shootouts to win the Academy Award in 1967.

4. MERLE OBERON, dark-haired film beauty, was born in Tasmania and educated in India. After choosing acting as her career, she changed her name from Queenie O'Brien, and was soon starring opposite Charles Boyer, Fredric March, Laurence Olivier and others. Now wealthy, she lives in four homes — one in California and three in Mexico.

An Electrified Piano Concerto

By VERA M. OLMSTED

Vladimir Ashkenazy electrified a packed auditorium Saturday evening with his brilliant interpretation of Beethoven's Third Piano Concerto in C Minor.

He was soloist with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, directed by guest conductor Kazuyoshi Akiyama, in the second concert of their Marin Series at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Ashkenazy is a very intense performer, almost fierce at times. He is able to project himself completely into the music, as if unaware of anyone else's presence. His technique is flawless, but his innate musicianship was revealed in his ability to express the essential mood of the concerto, whether in the brooding passages or in the lighter gaiety of the other sections.

Beethoven's Third is a transitional work between his first and second periods. It follows the classical form used by Mozart, but Beethoven expanded the framework of the orchestral exposition and added greater variety to the solo piano part.

The third movement rondo was particularly delightful in interpretation. Ashkenazy never hurried the tempo despite the rather furious rush of energy released by this movement. He did not display his considerable pianistic technique simply for show but in order to underscore the qualities inherent in the music. The orchestra members themselves applauded Ashkenazy when he finished his outstanding performance.

The first work on the evening's program was "Green for Orchestra (November Steps No. 2)" by Tohru Takemitsu, a leading Japanese composer. This is a small, unpretentious composition, employing a large battery of percussion, and making interesting use of the low woodwinds and brasses. The overall effect is that of a gentle, impressionistic painting, invoking memories of Debussy, a composer Takemitsu greatly admires. Tame by today's avant garde standards, the piece drew little enthusiasm from the audience.

The second half of the program was devoted to the Symphony No. 7 in C Sharp Minor by Sergei Prokofiev. This work has aroused considerable controversy since its first performance in 1952.

It has been warmly praised in the Soviet Union for its lyricism and simplicity, and criticised in the West for these very same qualities. Many Western critics profess to see in this symphony Prokofiev's capitulation to the musical demands of the Soviet state.

The answer probably lies with neither extreme. This work was the last major composition written by Prokofiev before his death. His Sixth Symphony had been badly received and he was eager to make amends. The Seventh was begun as a work for young children, and Prokofiev may have deliberately kept his musical idiom simple.

Some of Prokofiev's musical characteristics are found in this work: the traditional form, use of major-minor tonality, and his melodic inventiveness. Nevertheless, as an old Prokofiev fan, I am left with the feeling that this is Prokofiev without the spice and bite of his earlier music.

The orchestra was given ample opportunity to display the skill of its members. Particularly outstanding were the percussion and woodwinds in the second movement Allegretto.

Akiyama, guest conductor for this performance, made his San Francisco debut last year. His conducting style is reminiscent of Seiji Ozawa's, with sweeping, graceful gestures that transmit their message directly to the musicians. At the end of the program the orchestra rapped on the stands in its own tribute to Akiyama.

MUSIC REVIEW

Rewarding Program By Arts Quartet

By MARTIN FRICK

The Marin Arts Quartet provided 100 listeners with a challenging and richly rewarding program yesterday afternoon at the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club.

After an intelligent, though somewhat heavy reading of the Mozart Quartet No. 18 in D Major, the string ensemble jelled brilliantly in a stirring performance of the Quartet in F by Paul Hindemith.

Particularly in the fugal section of the first movement in which the subject is stated clearly by each instrument beginning with violincello (Jean Mitchell), then followed in succession by viola (Lucien Mitchell), and second and first violins (Michael Gerling and Charles Meacham), all the swells and diminuendos were played as though the ensemble were one single instrument.

The group's excellent intonation was apparent in the chromatic theme-and-variations second movement. Then, in the first part of the impressive three-part Finale, the performers introduced a syncopated dance theme which they delicately passed around, changing it eventually into a tender melody.

The three top strings opened and closed the rich middle section giving Mrs. Mitchell time to switch to a cello tuned to B flat, one step lower. Following a variation on the first part, the audience responded to the inspired performance by bringing the performers back to the stage several times.

Following intermission, violist James Adair joined the quartet in a performance of his own quintet for Two Violins, Two Violas, and 'Cello, Op. 71, composed last year. The most outstanding feature of this quintet upon a first hearing are the singing melodies over a rushing momentum of dissonances right on through to the final firm unison notes.

A professor of composition at Sacramento University, Adair is a most prolific composer whose works are performed regularly in Europe. Since he is retiring from teaching this year, the university is presenting all his sonatas in a series of eight concerts. Both Charles Meacham and his wife, pianist Robaline Meacham are featured in several of the concerts. Marin County will have the opportunity to hear Adair's "Songs for Soprano and String Quartet on Medieval Texts" on April 29 when Gwen Curatilo joins this splended ensemble for the final concert of the season.

Mushroom Can Found Poisoned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has ordered the recall of 29,500 cans of mushrooms produced by an Ohio firm after one institutional-sized can was found to contain the poison that produces botulism.

Users of large-size cans of mushrooms, such as pizza parlors, in the Midwest where the product has been distributed were cautioned by the FDA to be alert to the brand names and codes of the lots being recalled.

FDA officials reported late Saturday that the United Canning Co. of East Palestine, Ohio, discovered a swollen 6 pound, 9 ounce No. 10 can on its warehouse shelves. Subsequent laboratory tests showed the can contained deadly botulism type B toxin, which produces botulism.

C. S. MOTT

Industrialist C. S. Mott Dies At 97

FLINT, Mich. (UPI) — C. S. Mott, a multi-millionaire whose fortune thrust him into the corporate and political limelight, felt indebted only to people.

And he paid off this debt generously — primarily through the Mott Foundation which he established in 1926—helping transform Flint from a small, dirt-road, midwestern community into the major industrial city it is today.

Mott, once General Motors Corp.'s largest stockholder, died Sunday at St. Joseph Hospital where he had been a flu patient since Jan. 28. He was 97.

Mayor Francis Limmer declared a seven-day period of mourning in the city Mott adopted as his own. Tributes poured in from industrialists, governmment officials and educators. Flint schools, which receive $5 million annually from the Mott Foundation, will close in his honor at 2 p.m. Wednesday, the day of his funeral.

Mott, through his foundation, shelled out millions of dollars annually on various community projects, most of them education or health oriented.

Mott, who had survived a number of serious illnesses in recent years only to return to work with his traditional vitality—succumbed in his sleep at 12:01 a.m. Sunday. His wife, Ruth, and son, Harding, president of the Mott Foundation, immediately rushed to the hospital. His youngest son, New York City philanthrophist Stewart Rawlings Mott, was among the first of Mott's other five children to return home to be with the family at the Mott Applewood estate.

Theater Sessions For Children Set

Marin theatrical producer Marion Hayes Cain, who has organized many drama activities for children, is beginning theater sessions for children in her home in San Anselmo this week.

The classes, known as "The Magic House," will strive to develop acting and imaginative ability and will introduce children to theater art and literature.

Carbon Monoxide Source Is Sought

HOGANSVILLE, Ga. (UPI) — Police and theater officials were trying to determine the cause of a carbon monoxide leak in the Royal Theater that hospitalized at least 15 persons.

A spokesman at a hospital in nearby LaGrange said none of the victims was seriously hurt. He said the movie projector in the theater uses carbon and possibly malfunctioned, releasing carbon monoxide.

DANCE REVIEW

By HENDRIK VAN LEUVEN

Japanese dance is a delicate art, as demonstrated in a performance Saturday by Yaemichi Hanayagi and her group in Warren Auditorium at Sonoma State College.

Yaemichi Hanayagi (Mrs. Clarine Sunada of Petaluma) is a dancer who achieved natori status, a Japanese dance teaching credential, in 1969 from the famed Hanayagi School in Tokyo, which allows her to use its name. She teaches the art in Sonoma County, and her group is composed of her students.

One youngster, Gayleen Arishita, delighted the moderately filled auditorium with "Mari to Tonosama", (ball bouncing song), indicating with delicate gestures her lost ball and her dreams of its fate. Impressive was Tabarazuka, with Hanayagi and her son, Les Sunada, portraying two Samurai warriors troubled during a battle.

These are traditional Japanese folk dances, and their preservation has required the bending of certain classical rules, such as performance by men only or women only.

In Tabarazuka, mother and son dancing as two men produced striking results and a moving performance.

Precision timing of all dancers is the foremost problem of the troupe, and the subtle foot movements of Hanayagi should be studied closely by them.

Hanayagi performed one solo, the first number on the program, which informed the audience as to the nature of Japanese dance, and explained the art when fully mastered.

Pay Proposals Will Be Given Tomorrow

Salary proposals for the 1973-74 school year will be presented by teachers and classified employees at tomorrow's meeting of the Marin County Board of Education at 7:30 p.m. at Magnolia Park School, 1400 Lucas Valley Road, San Rafael.

The first hour of the meeting will be devoted to a program by the school, a facility for the trainable mentally retarded.

DRAMA REVIEW

Ross Valley Players Have A Hit

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

The Ross Valley Player's main business is to make people laugh.

Using this as a gauge, the Barn troupe at the Marin Art and Garden Center has another hit on its hands — a light and fluffy modern English comedy, "How The Other Half Loves."

The show opened Friday night, and sparked immediate laughter from the packed house. It has plenty of spicy dialogue, enough to bill the play for "adults only."

The plot is based on kind of a what-husband-is-playing-around-with-whose-wife thing.

Aside from timing problems, "Loves" provides a rather enjoyable evening. And scene two of act one was the funniest of the four.

Beverly Berry as Fiona Foster, the wife who has been having an affair, adds a needed professional touch to the cast. A native of New Zealand, she handles the English dialogue very well.

Also pleasing was Mary Herschend as Mary, a rather mousy English wife. Peter Weller as her husband added several very funny moments.

Stephen Powers and Sue Glausen played the young American couple and Ernie Widlund, a veteran of Ross Valley productions, played Frank Foster. Widlund is all too cute in his interpretation and Powers and Miss Glausen seem all too robust.

To pull of the show, the cast always must be thinking British. But in this case, lapses destroy the illusion and ruin such delightful little remarks as "we're out of bathroom stationary."

The comedy, which is still playing at a West End theater in London, will continue at the Barn for four more consecutive Fridays and Saturdays, with curtain time at 8:30 p.m.

"HOW THE OTHER HALF LOVES" — A two-act comedy by Alan Ayckbourn. Presented by the Ross Valley Players. Directed by Jane Watts; set design, Betty Hiller. The cast: Frank Foster, Ernie Widlund; Fiona Foster, Beverly Berry; Bob Phillips, Stephen Powers; Terry Phillips, Sue Glausen; William Featherstone, Peter Weller, and Marry Featherstone, Mary Herschend.

Blacks, Whites See Favors for Opposites

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Both black and white soldiers tend increasingly to believe as they go through Army training that the other race is getting favored treatment, a Pentagon-funded study shows.

Interpreters of the study said Sunday, however, they did not find the results of the study disappointing because even in the late stages of training, the majority of soldiers felt the system was still fair.

The study questioned soldiers during their first, eighth and 16th weeks in the service about how they thought minorities were treated in the Army. Over the period, the answers showed a "steady erosion of belief in equitable treatment," the survey said.

—In the first week of basic training, 5 per cent of whites thought blacks got favored treatment. But four months later, this faction rose to 23 per cent.

—Of blacks entering basic training, 15 per cent thought whites were getting better treatment. Sixteen weeks later, the opinion was shared by 38 per cent of the blacks questioned.

The Human Resources Research Organization of Alexandria, Va., made the survey for the Army, collecting 86,297 responses from basic trainees at Ft. Ord, Calif., and Ft. Jackson, S.C., during 1971.

No specific explanation for the attitude changes was found, but Curtis R. Smothers, acting deputy assistant defense secretary for equal opportunity, told UPI after reviewing the report that "I don't find it disappointing."

"You've got the segregation of neighborhoods and you take people out of that environment —black ghettoes and white ghettoes—and put them together for 16 weeks," Smothers said.

"After that, if a majority thinks the system is still fair, then you've done pretty well because race is a very obvious factor to most recruits."

At Ft. Jackson, which draws men primarily from the South, significantly more men of both races lost their belief in equal treatment as they went through training. The drop off was not so great at Ft. Ord, which draws men primarily from the West.

Young Democrats Criticize Nixon

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Youthful Democrats, meeting in Baltimore Sunday, adopted a 40-page policy statement highly critical of the Nixon Administration and asking amnesty for draft dodgers and deserters.

In the policy statement, the National College of Young Democrats also called for an evenhanded Middle Eastern posture, an end to administration impounding of funds appropriated by Congress and an indepthprobe of the Watergate bugging affair.

A RICH CAKE FOR A GOOD CAUSE

There's more than frosting on that cake being sampled by Margaret Carolyn (Dinkey) Williams of Ross. It's "frosted" with coins pressed into the icing by customers of the Lady Baltimore Bakery in San Rafael as contributions to the March of Dimes. Dinkey, 2-year-old poster girl for the March, preferred the icing to the coins, but March publicist Nancy King Hayden, said the bakery, which has been setting a cake like this on its counter for 18 years has netted the March an average of $300 a year.

Ridge Building Ban Will Be Before Council

The Larkspur City Council will consider adopting an emergency ordinance banning building on proposed Northridge open space lands at its meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at city hall.

The council considered the ban at its Feb. 8 meeting, but delayed action after three councilmen said affected property owners should be notified of the city's intention.

In other action the council will introduce an amendment to the city code increasing dog impound fees.

This month a 5-year-old girl was attacked and bitten by a pack of dogs on her way to Larkspur-Corte Madera School.

Councilmen also will hear a proposal for downtown parking plans and discuss a noise ordinance.

Youth, 17, Reported Shot In Neck

A 17-year-old San Rafael youth, Barry P. Anello, was shot in the neck yesterday and reported in poor condition today in the intensive care unit at Marin General Hospital.

Sheriff's deputies booked Anello's two teen-age companions into juvenile hall after the gun with which Anello was wounded turned out to have been stolen earlier from a Terra Linda residence.

Anello, who lives at 19 Corte del Rey, was found slumped over the wheel of a car parked at Lucas Valley Road and Las Gallinas Avenue. There was blood on the front of the car and the nearby pavement, officers said.

The two youths with Anello told deputies they were going to shoot bottles off a fency when the .22-caliber rifle accidentally discharged.

Canoe Trip To Protest Ferry Plan

Marin naturalist Elizabeth Terwilliger will hold a canoe trip on Corte Madera Creek Saturday to protest the proposed site of the Larkspur Ferry Terminal.

Canoes will be launched at the Marin Rowing Club dock, just east of the Greenbrae interchange of Highway 101 at 1 p.m. Anyone with a manually propelled craft may attend.

The group will pass a small state-owned island haven for water birds, which Mrs. Terwilliger says will be destroyed if the terminal is nearby. They then will go upstream toward the concrete flood control channel near College of Marin to study what man's encroachment has done to plant and bird life along the shore.

Mrs. Terwilliger will also point out a ferry terminl site which she prefers further out on San Quentin Point.

Child Abuse Session Set For Friday

The state Social Welfare Board will meet Thursday evening and all day Friday in San Rafael, to discuss problems of child abuse, illegitimacy and potentially endangered children.

Robert E. Mitchell, chairman of the board, said the meeting will be held in the Holiday Inn in San Rafael, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Betty Presley, Marin County director of public social services, and her staff will address the state board at 9 a.m. Friday. Spokesmen for the Children's Trauma Center in the Children's Hospital of the East Bay will report on child abuse problems at the Thursday session.

The board also will consider plans for a joint meeting with county welfare advisory commissions throughout the state, Mitchell said.

John A. Svahn, chief deputy director of the state Department of Social Welfare, will brief the board on recent changes in state welfare operations, at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Open Space Group Will Seek Members

People for Parks and Open Space, a group that headed the successful campaign to establish a Marin Regional Park District last November, will hold a membership meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday in the planning commission chambers at the Marin Civic Center.

Among items to be discussed will be establishment of a conservation review board for new developments in Marin, support for the upcoming San Anselmo open space bond issue and adoption of by-laws for the organization.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Happy Birthday! But how many candles are the right number today for these famous folks — 49, 57, 61 or 62?

1. STAN KENTON, Kansas-born band leader and composer, is still going strong! Back in 1928 he made his first arrangement, then in the 1940s and 50s he led with progressive jazz ("Artistry in Rhythm"). Today he's still looking for new sounds. He wowed audiences at the Monterey Jazz Festival last fall with a new 19-piece group.

2. EDDIE ARCARO ranks among the top jackeys of all time. This little guy rode more than 4,000 winners, taking $23 million in stakes during his career. Twice he won racing's "Triple Crown" (Kentucky Derby, Preakness, and Belmont Stakes). Eddie retired 12 years ago and lives in New York.

3. LEE MARVIN was smart, he thought, dropped out of school and ended up picking fruit. He joined summer stock, got into acting, and found himself in Hollywood as the "Wild One" forced to join "The Raid" with "The Dirty Dozen." But he survived the shootouts to win the Academy Award in 1967.

4. MERLE OBERON, dark-haired film beauty, was born in Tasmania and educated in India. After choosing acting as her career, she changed her name from Queenie O'Brien, and was soon starring opposite Charles Boyer, Fredric March, Laurence Olivier and others. Now wealthy, she lives in four homes — one in California and three in Mexico.

Expert Has Discovered Some Of His Friends Are Frying Pans

If anybody has been telling you that this column is against frying pans, you have my permission to deny it. Some of my best friends are frying pans, as I have many times discovered at the bridge table.

RUFFS WITH ACE

South wasn't thinking of frying pans when she played today's hand. These modern women! So, when East took the first two diamond tricks and then led another diamond, South ruffed with the ace of hearts.

South knew that West was out of diamonds, and the idea of the high ruff was to prevent West from ruffing. You can't blame South for disliking a ruff by West, but in the attempt to escape from this frying pan she fell right into the fire.

Declarer continued by leading the jack of hearts for a finesse. This lost to the queen of hearts, and back came another diamond.

RUFFS AGAIN

South ruffed high again and then drew trumps. She had already lost three tricks and the contract depended on managing the clubs without loss. There was no way to do this as the cards lay, so South was down one.

Now let's go back to the third trick, when East led the nine of diamonds. If South had stayed in the frying pan, she could have discarded a club, allowing West to ruff. Annoying, but not fatal; the contract would then be unbeatable.

No matter what West returned, South could draw trumps and discard another club on dummy's ten of diamonds. Declarer could then claim the rest of the tricks.

DAILY QUESTION

With both sides vulnerable, the player at your right opens with one heart.

You hold:
♠ - K J 9
♡ - Q 5
◇ - A K 9 8 2
♣ - 6 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

Your diamonds are not quite strong enough for a bid at the level of two. If the opening bid were one club, you would cheerfully bid one diamond.

German Budget Is $41 Billion

BONN (UPI) — The government announced a postwar record $41 billion budget Sunday that means higher taxes on gasoline and alcoholic beverages and a more painful squeeze on big business and the rich.

Finance Minister Helmut Schmidt and Economics Minister Hans Friderichs said of that effective July 1, the government would levy a 10 per cent surcharge on all corporation taxes and personal incomes exceeding $34,000 a year.

Time Change

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation that would put the United States on year-round daylight savings time has been introduced by Rep. Stewart B. McKinney, R-Conn.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Cold Injury Victims Unaware Their Body Temperature Low

Many older people are uncomfortable when the house or apartment is cold. On the other hand, some do not feel the cold. Others will turn up the thermostat to temperatures that are too warm for the younger generation. Apparently they are less active and have a lower metabolism.

This situation is common in England during the winter. More than 9,000 elderly men and women were hospitalized in three months because their body temperature was abnormally low (hypothermia). The victims were cold and in a state of shock with rectal temperatures of 95 degrees Fahrenheit (35 degrees Centigrade) or less.

BREATHING WAS scarcely perceptible and the blood pressure was low. But there was no shivering and, in this regard, the cindition was somewhat akin to hibernation. The coldest were least aware of the discomfort. Changes were also noted in brain wave tracings. Unfortunately, many of these oldsters died.

Abnormal reduction of body temperature is traced to cold, lack of warm clothing, and inadequate diet. The risk increases when mental and physical disability coexist. Hypothermia also affects persons lying in bed with sufficient bedding and in a warm room.

Strange as it may seem, even in the tropics, many infants and children suffer from the cold. These youngsters usually are malnourished or ill and their body temperature goes so low they develop cold injury and may die.

MANY YEARS ago, Dr. D. C. Morley saw 19 such youngsters in Nigeria. The majority were covered with only a piece of cloth and were lying in the center of a room, half starved, lethargic and semicomatose. All had temperatures below 95 degrees Fahrenheit and were chilled to the bone.

These tots had lost their ability to maintain a reasonable body temperature because they were not covered sufficiently and the mothers were unaware of their shocklike condition.

In some areas, it is customary to bathe infants and children in the morning. The water seldom is heated and after the bath, the mother puts the child on her back to become warm. But a sick child doesn't warm up easily. Avoid cold injury when the child is sick. Hot water bags are not effective. A warm mother and a blanket is the best combination.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, 16self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

DILATING BRONCHI

S. E. writes: My doctor wants to give ma a bronchodilator for emphysema. Please explain.

REPLY

Bronchodialators are drugs that open up (dilate) the bronchi. This allows more air to enter the lungs and facilitates breathing. The drug is inhaled but should be taken as directed and not too often. Too much has an adverse affect upon the heart. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on emphysema.

MOODY HUSBAND

D. W. T. writes: Please write something about the 'change of life' in men. My husband is moody and crabby; he has crawled into a shell and is drinking more and more. He won't go to a doctor because he doesn't think he has long to live.

REPLY

If this is the "change of life," testosterone will help. But if he is depressed or has other signs of a mental disorder, he needs the advise of a psychiatrist.

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Monday, Feb. 19, the 50th day of 1973 with 315 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Swedish explorer Sven Hedin was born Feb. 19, 1865.

On this day in history:

In 1922, vaudeville and musical comedy star Ed Wynn became the first big name in show business to sign for a regular radio program.

In 1964, Greek Prince Constantine was named regent of the country as the condition of his father, King Paul, worsened. Three years later Constantine was deposed by a military regime which remains in power.

In 1970, Detroit Tigers pitcher Dennis McClain was suspended in connection with alleged gambling. The suspension was lifted at mid-season.

Novato Sets Hearing On Use Permit

The Novato City Council has scheduled a public hearing on a controversial use permit for a downtown business at 9 p.m. tomorrow at the community house, even though the issue is being contested in court.

Because of a long agenda, the council will meet at 7 p.m., an hour earlier than usual, and have another meeting at 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Center of the controversy is a bid by Emil Renati for a permit for a retail tire and appliance store at the northeast corner of Redwood Highway and Vallejo Avenue. Renati has gone to court in the dispute.

At Wednesday's session, the council will hear an appeal by the heirs of Jack Kenney of planning commission denial of plans for a 2,300-home development on the 700-acre Sartori Ranch near Black Point.

The council also will hear an appeal from Kaufman and Broad Inc. of planning commission denial of plans for 240 apartments on 20 acres between San Marin High School and the San Marin Club.

Air Passengers Dump Odd Stuff

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Trash collectors have picked up a variety of curious objects since new security measures went into effect at Spokane International Airport.

Knives, chisels, pistols and even a motorcycle chain wrapped at one end with tape have turned up in trash and cigarette receptacles.

James Worsham, assistant chief of airport security, said that when travelers see the new security tunnel which detects metal objects they "dump anything they feel may cause their detection."

Freed Prisoner Explains Shiner

WRIGHT-PATTERSON AFB, Ohio (UPI) — Air Force Lt. Col. Robert Purcell, one of three eleased prisoners of war being processed here, sported a bruise over his left eye Sunday.

Purcell, 42, said he got it Saturday night during a get-together with family and friends. "In true fighter pilot fashion, I was nipped by a champagne cork," he said.

Tam Trustees Will Hear Test Results

The Tamalpais High School District board will hear a report from acting Supt. Robert D. Torrey on recent state test results at its meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

Results in the state testing program for the 1970-71 school year released last week showed the Tam district failing to place in the top 10 per cent in any categories. In 1970 the district placed in the top 10 per cent in both language and mathematics.

By comparison the San Rafael High School District in 1971 attained the top 10 per cent in all tests — reading, language, spelling and mathematics.

Also on Tuesday's agenda are reports on the district's guidance program and on plans for implementing the teacher evaluation requirements.

Youth Perishes In Rescue Try

VALENCE, France (UPI) — Jacques Attou, 16, was one of the first ones to flee his burning home Sunday. But when his mother cried that some of his brothers and sisters were still inside, Jacques acted quickly.

"I'm going to look for them," he shouted. "I will wrap them in blankets."

Then he raced back inside—and died there with five of his brothers and sisters, aged six to 13.

Climbers Conquer Aconcagua Peak

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Seven Los Angeles-area persons, four women among them, have reached the top of the highest mountain in the Americas — Argentina's 22,834-foot Aconcagua Peak, it was reported here today.

The climbers undertook the mission two weeks after two other Americans died just short of the summit. It was not known when the Los Angeles climbers finished their climb. Two members of the expedition reportedly suffered altitude fatigue and returned to base camp before the final conquest.

Prime Minister Hit With Eggs

DUBLIN (UPI) — Irish Republican Army supporters pelted Prime Minister Jack Lynch with eggs Sunday in the town of Carrick-on-Shannon as he addressed an election rally.

Police said they detained one man and ejected several others from the rally.

Banner-waving demonstrators also demanded the release of persons arrested in the republic under a recent law designed to crack down on extremists. Among those arrested were several IRA members and suspects.

Palme Remains Convinced U.S. Peace Obstacle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Swedish Prime Minister Olaf Palme says he has not changed his view that the United States was the biggest obstacle to peace in Vietnam.

Palme was asked Sunday if he had changed his mind about the statement he made in 1968 and replied with a flat "no."

The American failure to uphold the Geneva Accords of 1954 was "the fatal mistake ... a step that led to the other mistakes," Palme said.

The Swedish leader was interviewed on NBC's "Speaking Freely."

Waldheim Ends Asian Sojourn

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim has returned from a 2½week trip to Asia. He said the highlight of his trip was a discussion of the India-Pakistan situation, which he termed "open-ended."

Waldheim arrived on Sunday via San Francisco from his final stop abroad, a conference in Tokyo with Japanese officials. He visited heads of state and other officials in six countries.

Waldheim said he was "cautiously optimistic" about a resolution of the problems between India and Pakistan and added, "I'm sure my visit has helped to improve the political atmosphere, and this is very important."

CAPTAIN'S KISS — Joyous kids and ecstatic women displaced their emotions when Air Force Capt. Larry J. Chesley, of Burley, Ida., crossed over to the group of youngsters and kissed one of them on his arrival at Alameda Naval Air Station Saturday after almost seven years as a captive in North Vietnam. Capt. Chesley was among the last of 143 men who returned to the U.S. from POW camps. His flight was diverted to Alameda after fog socked in Travis Air Force Base.

HAPPY HUG — Jean Lerseth reached out to embrace her husband, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger G. Lerseth, of Spokane, Wash., and San Francisco, as he returned to Alameda Naval Air Station Saturday after being a prisoner in North Vietnam since Sept. 6, 1972.

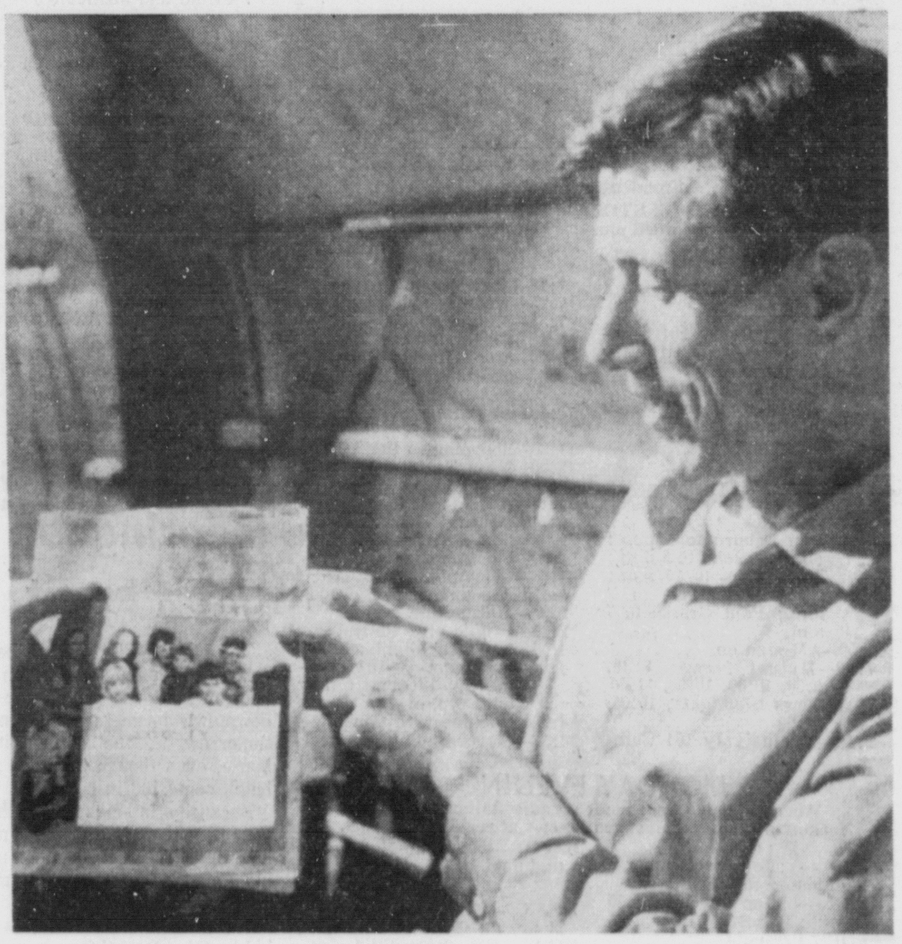

Returning Prisoners Warmly Welcomed

TEXAS WELCOME — T/Sgt. James R. Cook of Wheatridge, Colo., waved to a gathering at Sheppard Air Force Base in Wichita Falls, Tex., on his return to the U.S. after being a prisoner in North Vietnam since December of 1972. Welcomers stood in the cold and wet snow to welcome home Cook, who deplaned on a litter, and other returning POWs.

COVER FAMILY — Air Force Major Joseph Abbot Jr., of Salem, N.J., looked at a picture of his family on the cover of Time magazine given to him on the flight from Hanoi, where he was released yesterday after being held prisoner since April 30, 1967.

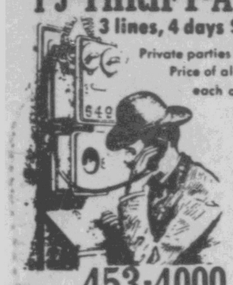

NURSE'S GREETING — Navy Lt. Cmdr. Joseph C. Plumb of Mission, Kan., got a welcoming kiss from flight nurse capt. Elizabeth Whitcomb while en route to Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines after his release in Hanoi as a prisoner of war.

HAPPY REUNION — This was the happy scene at Oak Knoll Naval Hospital in Oakland when Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez Jr., 35, was reunited with his family after his return to the U.S. Saturday. Alvarez, shot down over North Vietnam on Aug. 5, 1964, had been held prisoner longer than any other American serviceman. He is flanked by his parents, Soledad and Everett Alvarez Sr., and standing behind him are his two sisters, Madeleine and Delia.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Cold Injury Victims Unaware Their Body Temperature Low

Many older people are uncomfortable when the house or apartment is cold. On the other hand, some do not feel the cold. Others will turn up the thermostat to temperatures that are too warm for the younger generation. Apparently they are less active and have a lower metabolism.

This situation is common in England during the winter. More than 9,000 elderly men and women were hospitalized in three months because their body temperature was abnormally low (hypothermia). The victims were cold and in a state of shock with rectal temperatures of 95 degrees Fahrenheit (35 degrees Centigrade) or less.

BREATHING WAS scarcely perceptible and the blood pressure was low. But there was no shivering and, in this regard, the cindition was somewhat akin to hibernation. The coldest were least aware of the discomfort. Changes were also noted in brain wave tracings. Unfortunately, many of these oldsters died.

Abnormal reduction of body temperature is traced to cold, lack of warm clothing, and inadequate diet. The risk increases when mental and physical disability coexist. Hypothermia also affects persons lying in bed with sufficient bedding and in a warm room.

Strange as it may seem, even in the tropics, many infants and children suffer from the cold. These youngsters usually are malnourished or ill and their body temperature goes so low they develop cold injury and may die.

MANY YEARS ago, Dr. D. C. Morley saw 19 such youngsters in Nigeria. The majority were covered with only a piece of cloth and were lying in the center of a room, half starved, lethargic and semicomatose. All had temperatures below 95 degrees Fahrenheit and were chilled to the bone.

These tots had lost their ability to maintain a reasonable body temperature because they were not covered sufficiently and the mothers were unaware of their shocklike condition.

In some areas, it is customary to bathe infants and children in the morning. The water seldom is heated and after the bath, the mother puts the child on her back to become warm. But a sick child doesn't warm up easily. Avoid cold injury when the child is sick. Hot water bags are not effective. A warm mother and a blanket is the best combination.

DILATING BRONCHI

S. E. writes: My doctor wants to give ma a bronchodilator for emphysema. Please explain.

REPLY

Bronchodialators are drugs that open up (dilate) the bronchi. This allows more air to enter the lungs and facilitates breathing. The drug is inhaled but should be taken as directed and not too often. Too much has an adverse affect upon the heart. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on emphysema.

MOODY HUSBAND

D. W. T. writes: Please write something about the 'change of life' in men. My husband is moody and crabby; he has crawled into a shell and is drinking more and more. He won't go to a doctor because he doesn't think he has long to live.

REPLY

If this is the "change of life," testosterone will help. But if he is depressed or has other signs of a mental disorder, he needs the advise of a psychiatrist.

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Monday, Feb. 19, the 50th day of 1973 with 315 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Swedish explorer Sven Hedin was born Feb. 19, 1865.

On this day in history:

In 1922, vaudeville and musical comedy star Ed Wynn became the first big name in show business to sign for a regular radio program.

In 1964, Greek Prince Constantine was named regent of the country as the condition of his father, King Paul, worsened. Three years later Constantine was deposed by a military regime which remains in power.

In 1970, Detroit Tigers pitcher Dennis McClain was suspended in connection with alleged gambling. The suspension was lifted at mid-season.

Host Marin Tars Throttle De Anza In Basketball

By LEW CODDINGTON

College of Marin held De Anza College scoreless for the final seven minutes Saturday night to earn a 47-42 victory in a rough, ragged and tense basketball game officiated by only one man.

The victory gave the Tars a 10-1 Camino Norte Conference record and let them keep their one-game lead over West Valley College (9-2), which they will face in Campbell Wednesday in a title showdown. West Valley defeated Skyline College Saturday, 87-74. The Tars are 23-3 overall and ranked fifth in the state.

The triumph in Kentfield virtually killed the championship hopes of De Anza (7-4), but the Dons from Cupertino did not succumb without a fight. They led much of the way, and were tied at 42-42 when Marin coach John Panagakis called time with 6:58 left.

Immediately afterward, forward Joe Casteel hit a turnaround jump shot from just to the left of the foul lane to give Marin the lead, and the Tars retreated into a 1-2-2 zone defense.

Later, Casteel made a free throw and guard Joe DeMaestri drove for a basket. Meanwhile the zone made De Anza miss five shots and turn the ball over five times.

The game's lone official was Cas Munoz, who explained his partner was originally scheduled to be Hal Nelson, who died last month of a heart attack. Munoz blamed a mixup in scheduling by the officials' association for failure to produce a replacement.

"I had to let 'em bump," said Munoz, "and try to kiss (catch) the cheaters." He called only eight personal fouls on Marin and seven on De Anza, despite some rough play which was obvious to the crowd of 800.

"I never call anything unless I see it," Munoz continued, "and I had a problem getting screened out. Basketball is a game of angles. I missed a few, but I think I missed 'em even."

An irritated Panagakis vowed after the contest to "call the officials' association tomorrow morning. This is an unfortunate situation for a crucial game." He also said several competent officials were in the stands as spectators, but De Anza coach Tony Nunes refused to agree to let any of them be pressed into service.

Marin guard Len Smith sat on the bench the entire game — the penalty, Panagakis said, for being late to practice Friday. Jim Forni started in his place and played virtually all the way, and Steve Pieper appeared briefly.

Panagakis kept Smith on the bench even though DeMaestri contracted his fourth personal foul with about 11 minutes left. "You have to keep the firepower in there in a close game," the coach explained. DeMaestri justified the move by scoring four of Marin's last nine points to finish with 12 for the evening.

Forward Wil Garner also scored 12, while Casteel tallied nine, grabbed a team-high 13 rebounds and made several steals. Casteel also held De Anza guard Mitch Plaat scoreless in the final seven minutes after Platt had netted 10 of his 16 points in the second half.

Marin made 21 of 51 shots for 41 per cent, while the Dons connected only 17 of 52 for a dark 32 per cent. De Anza scored only 13 points in the second half, the eighth time this year Marin has held a foe to 20 points or less in a half.

OVER DISPUTE

Baseball Has A Hush-Hush Tone

NEW YORK (UPI) — After a week of name-calling and insinuation, the baseball player-owner dispute has turned very hush-hush.

Both sides, which were scheduled to meet again today at 2:00 pm EST, refrained from making inflammatory statements or even progress announcements following rare back-to-back weekend meetings at the offices of Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, and John Gaherin, negotiator for the owners.

Miller, looking drawn, described Sunday's 2 ½-hour bargaining session as "an amiable, informal meeting" and Gaherin said "we are making every effort to resolve this dispute quickly."

Gaherin, trying to give away as little information as possible, noted however, that there has been "little progress" in settling the two major points of contention—the reserve clause and salary arbitration.

The fact that the owners and players were able to schedule the special weekend sessions and another one today probably speaks best for their intention to overcome the present impasse without a further delay in the opening of spring training camps. Already three camps have been kept closed because of the owners' insistence not to open without a new contract.

Miller said if the camps remain closed on March 1, he would begin "regional meetings with the players" starting Friday in Los Angeles, otherwise he would meet with the players at the training sites, "which would be more convenient." He said he had cancelled plans to call a mass meeting in New York with all players.

Sunday's session included National League president Chub Feeney, American League president Joe Cronin, St. Louis player representative Joe Torre and players' legal counsel Dick Moss, in addition to Miller and Gaherin.

Dining on cookies and coffee behind closed doors, they attempted with no apparent success to break any new ground.

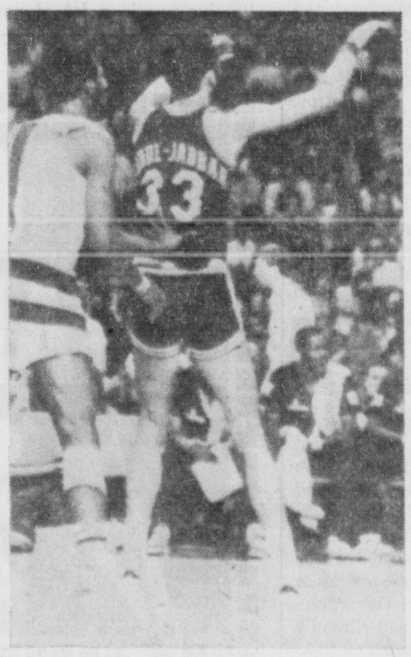

"We want a three-year contract," one owner said last week. "If we delay the reserve clause issue for a year, what's to stop them from going on strike next year?"

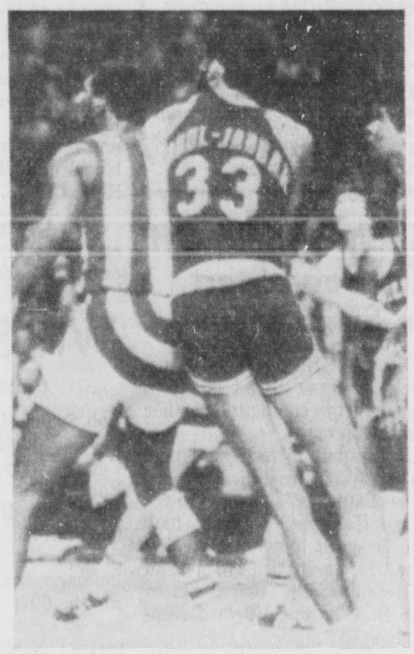

Miller has contended that the owners' refusal to open spring training is essentially a "lockout maneuver, designed to put pressure on the players."

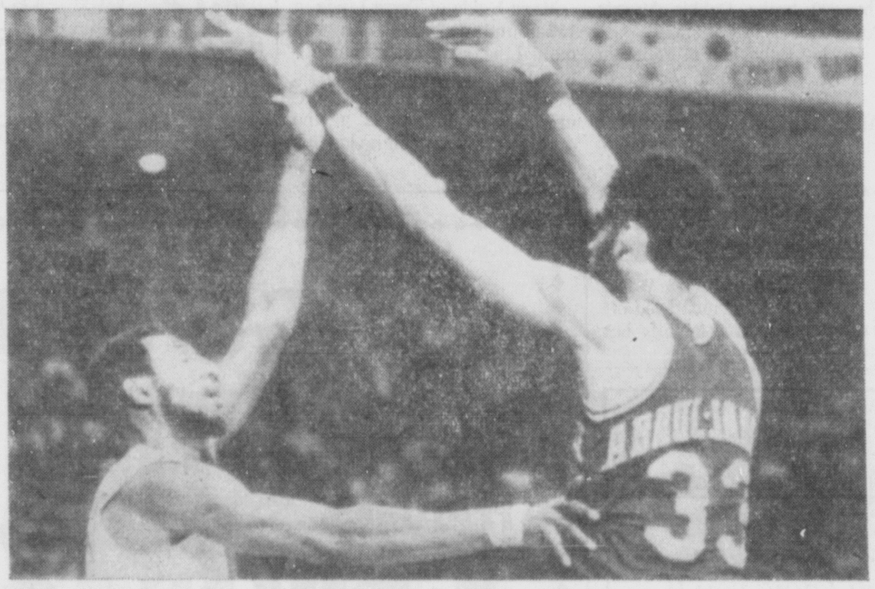

The cost of spring training is another item that weighs heavily on some owners' minds.

"It costs each club about $200,000 to open spring training," said one owner, "and what's to prevent them from calling a strike again. That would mean all the money would be down the drain."

The players have not taken a strike vote and Miller said no strike threats have been made.

SHALL WE DANCE?

Drake To Host Resurgent San Rafael '5' Wednesday

Nobody can accuse Drake High School of getting special favors from the schedule-maker as the Pirates seek to clinch the undisputed championship of Marin County Athletic League basketball.

The league-leaders (10-2), who have already assured themselves of a tie for the title, host resurgent San Rafael Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Other games Wednesday, moved back from Tuesday's normal scheduling date because today is a holiday (Washington's Birthday) in the school districts, find Marin Catholic meeting Tamalpais at College of Marin, 4 p.m., and San Marin visiting Terra Linda, 7 p.m.

Second-place Redwood (8-4) will visit Novato tomorrow at 4 p.m., and if the Giants win, they doubtlessly will journey en masse to San Anselmo Wednesday to root for San Rafael. A Bulldog victory over Drake would give Redwood a chance to earn the co-championship Friday in its season-ending clash with the Pirates.

San Rafael (6-6) is currently the hottest team in the league other than Drake itself, having won its last four games, three of them by 13 points or better. The Bulldogs have had some stretches where they have looked invincible, such as Wednesday, when they shot 83 per cent in the first half against Novato, and Friday, when they made 17 striaight free throws against Tamalpais.

San Rafael was cheered by a 24-point showing Friday by 6-foot-5 forward Guy Perry, a respected outside shooter whose shots weren't dropping earlier in the year.

Drake counters with Eddie Joe Chavez, the 6-0 forward who established the MCAL seasonal high of 32 points Friday against Novato in only three quarters of action.

Drake has won seven league games in a row, the first of the string being a heart-stopping 63-61 triumph over the Bulldogs Jan. 23.

Redwood, a team composed largely of juniors and sophomores with one exceptional senior in Mike Connor, has won three of its last four after an 81-60 loss to Drake. Center Darrell Elder, a 6-6 junior, muscled his way for 28 points and 20 rebounds in a victory over San Marin Friday.

Novato (5-7) has only a two-point victory over San Marin to show for its last seven games of effort, after once leading the league at 4-1.

Marin Catholic (6-6) was a contender until losing to Drake and Redwood back-to-back, and also fell to Terra Linda Friday. Tamalpais (4-8), with three of its victories in the second half of the season, was surging until running into San Rafael Friday.

San Marin (4-8) has lost five straight, three of them by a combined nine points, and now must fight to avoid the cellar. Terra Linda (5-7) was in similar danger until beating Marin Catholic Friday to end a four-game losing streak.

Dejected Baker Gives Way To Petty In Daytona Race

"Oh no," exclaimed Baker. "Dammit, No."

Baker's anguish showed after he led 157 laps of the 200-lap race only to watch his hopes evaporate when his engine blew just 15 miles from the finish Sunday.

Petty, NASCAR's all-time champion, admitted Baker had the "strongest" car. But when asked if he could have beaten Baker in a race to the finish, Petty replied, "That's just one question I will never have to worry about."

Baker, who started on the pole in his Harry Hyde-prepared Dodge, with Cale Yarborough for nearly 390 miles while Petty stayed comfortably in third place in his Dodge.

Suddenly Yarborough's Chevrolet belched fire going into the first turn and the Timmonsville, S.C., charger was out with a blown engine. When the green flag fell and racing resumed, Petty was on Baker's bumper with 100 miles to go.

The battle continued for the next 85 miles until Baker's hopes vanished in a cloud of smoke on the back stretch while he was running three seconds behind Petty but easily making up the difference.

With Baker out of the race, Petty took the flag two-laps ahead of Bobby Isaac in a Ford, with Dick Brooks another lap back in a Dodge. Defending champion A.J. Foyt finished fourth in Chevrolet, with Hershel McGriff fifth in a Plymouth.

Concerning his unprecedented fourth Daytona 500 victory, which earned him $34,100, Petty said, "It's something to win it one time. I guess it's the thrill of a lifetime. To win it four times is just unbelievable."

Petty averaged 157.205 miles per hour with the speed slowed four times for 30 laps by caution flags. The first 13 laps were run under the caution while they dried off the track from a morning rain.

Yarborough, returning to NASCAR after two years on the USAC circuit, also thought he had the race won until his engine blew.

"I could get around Baker," he said. "I had a good shot at it. Baker knew there was somebody behind him."

The only serious accident involved country music singer Marty Robbins who crashed his Dodge on the 69th lap when he nudged Vic Parsons' Mercury on the front stretch.

Robbins' car slammed into the wall and skidded some 1,000 feet along the concrete before sliding into the infield. Darrell Waltrip, driving a Mercury,

'Rabbit' Wins Williams Golf

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — On the pro golf tour the loneliest man of all is the Monday morning "rabbit," usually a youngster trying to win a spot in that week's tournament.

It's a role Bob Dickson, a proud but patient man from Tulsa, Okla., has been playing for more than three years. He never liked it, even one bit, but he kept on plugging along, sometimes with limited success.

Last Monday, when the former U.S. and British amateur champion from Oklahoma came to San Diego to see if he could win a piece in the $170,000 Andy Williams event, he brought along his wife because he said he had a feeling.

DICKSON

Sunday, after seven consecutive days of golf, including the qualifying round and two rounds of pro-am play, Dickson was like a man reborn. He had won the Williams Open and along with it a $34,000 check to help pay some back bills and automatic berths in the Masters, the Tournament of Champtions and the Pacific Golfers Association Championship., not to mention this week's Jackie Gleason-Inverary Classic at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., an event which carries a winner's prize of $52,000.

Dickson's victory should prove a good lesson to all those other youngsters trying to win fame and fortune on the PGA tour, because it was one of patience and perseverance as well as good play. He got it by shooting a 10-under par 278, three shots better than Bruce Crampton, Phil Rodgers, Billy Casper and Grier Jones.

CRAMPTON

The 6-foot-3 scholarly looking Dickson shot a closing round 72 in a head to head duel with Crampton, the man who had won two other tourney titles this year and already was closing in on the $100,000 money winning plateau after only seven events in 1973.

Dickson played well, and with some measure of confidence, but he never would have won had not Crampton, the steel-nerved Australian who knows what it feels like to be a Monday morning "rabbit," had not fallen apart on the final four holes and finished with a 76.

Crampton started the final round a shot ahead of Dickson and Jones and was still ahead by a shot after the 13th hole. But Dickson sank a 15 foot birdie putt on the 14th to drawn even and said that was when he felt he could win it.

PUTTING WOES

Dickson passed in the rest of the way but Cramptonn who had putted so superbly in earlier rounds of 67-70-68, suddenly couldn't find the hole and he bogied 15, 16 and 17 to fall three shots back.

The $11,602 check boosted Crampton's 1973 earnings to $75,000, tops on the tour. For Dickson, who won only $17,501 last year and only $4,314 this year, it was like money from home on a rainy day.

Tommy Jacobs, playing his best golf in many years, shot a final round 65—best of the tournament which drew a record 81,000 fans—to finish in a tie with Miller Barber, Dave Eichelberger and Hale Irwin at six under 282. Each won $5,291.

Doug Sanders and Chuck Courtney were next at 283 and Gene Littler, defending champion Paul Harney, Dick Lotz, rod Curl and Andy North were at 284. Lee Trevino, still not playing well, finished far down the line at 291, three over par.

Wrestler Loberg Wins In Richmond

Big, strong, rugged Jon Loberg won first place in the unlimited division Saturday at the North Coast Section Division I wrestling meet at Kennedy High School, Richmond.

The 230-pound Loberg helped Terra Linda High gain seventh place, the school scoring 49½ points compared to winning Mission San Jose's 85 points. Loberg pinned three opponents and won a 1-0 decision in his final match.

In all, nine Marin County wrestlers advanced to the North Coast Section finals next Saturday at Tennyson High in Hayward. Four of the nine are Terra Linda wrestlers. The Terra Lindans were Ron Losk, second in the 194-pound division, winning one of his matches 24-2, Reggie Grant, fifth in the 136-pound class, and

WINLESS IN 15 GAMES

Defense Falters As Seals Bow To Kings

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden Seals had better start dishing it out as well as taking it.

Sunday's 4-2 Los Angeles win over the Seals was the same old story.

The Seals deadlocked 2-2 Friday night with the Detroit Red Wings and that was the first time in 15 games they put the puck goalward more than were fired at them.

While the Seals concentrated on killing penalties Sunday, the Kings were putting the puck in the net.

Seven times the Seals played shorthanded, against four for the visitors.

The win moved the Kings into a tie for fifth place with Atlanta in the West Division of the National Hockey League. The eighth place Seals remained winless in 13 games, including three ties.

Bill Lesuk and Frank St. Marseille each scored twice to pace the Los Angeles attack. Lesuk scored in the first and final periods while St. Marseille twice broke a tie, getting his ninth of the season in the middle period and his tenth in the last.

The Seals gear up today for a Wednesday night contest against visiting Boston.

Score by periods:

Los Angeles	1	1	2	—4
California	1	0	1	—2

First period —1. Los Angeles Lesuk 5 (Vanier) 1:26; 2. California McAneeley 4 (N. Johnston, Weir) 13:37; Penalties — Stewart 3:28. Smith 11:37, Stewart and Berry (majors) 12:45, Whiding 12:45; Los Agles Bench 12:45.

Second Period —3. Los Angeles St. Marseille 9 (Vanasky, Peters) 6:32. Penalties: Corrigan 00:37, J. Johnston 6:01, Smith 11:16, Stewart and Leach 17:11, Long 20.00

Marin Nine Wins Two, Loses One

The College of Marin baseball team won two out of three games Saturday in the Chabot Invitational Tournament, in Hayward, beating Skyline College of San Bruno, 4-2, and San Joaquin Delta of Stockton, 5-1, before losing in the championship game to Chabot, 11-0.

The Tars (2-2) got only one hit in the title game against Chabot's Ron Snyder.

Earlier, the Tars' pitching of right-handers Tom Olson and Don Bianchini carried the Marinites to the finals in the double-elimination tourney. In Olson's victory against Skyline, Bianchini led the attack with a home run and a double good for two runs in the four-run fifth inning. The Tars' Dom Pomilia walked, singled and tripled while driving in two runs and scored two more against San Joaquin.

CITY GOLF: MRS. BAILEY IS MEDALIST

Mrs. Bailey shot the round at Harding Park, and it included birdies at the seventh, 12th, and 16th holes. Match play will start March 11.

UCLA Coach Wooden Upset Over Play

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Nobody, but nobody, worries like a winning coach, even a coach who is figuring on retiring and has won just about everything.

For example, consider John Wooden of the UCLA bruins who now have a 9-0 record in the Pacific-Eight with five games to go and who dumped Washington State 96-64 on Saturday.

Despite winning by 32 points with All-America center Bill Walton in action for less than 30 minutes, Wooden was upset.

"We were ragged and we didn't play with any real sharpness," Wooden declared. "We're in danger of getting too assured, bordering on being complacent."

Now listen to George Raveling, the Washington State coach, and his opinion of the Bruins: "I feel they are the best college team that ever

Never say "Canadian" without saying "Club"

Today, more men and women everywhere welcome Canadian Club. New friends appreciate its gentle manners. The pleasing way it behaves in mixed company. Old friends admire its unmistakable character. A taste not matched by any whisky, anywhere. C.C.— the taste that's ahead of its time. Taste why, tonight.

Novato Sets Hearing On Use Permit

The Novato City Council has scheduled a public hearing on a controversial use permit for a downtown business at 9 p.m. tomorrow at the community house, even though the issue is being contested in court.

Because of a long agenda, the council will meet at 7 p.m., an hour earlier than usual, and have another meeting at 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Center of the controversy is a bid by Emil Renati for a permit for a retail tire and appliance store at the northeast corner of Redwood Highway and Vallejo Avenue. Renati has gone to court in the dispute.

At Wednesday's session, the council will hear an appeal by the heirs of Jack Kenney of planning commission denial of plans for a 2,300-home development on the 700-acre Sartori Ranch near Black Point.

The council also will hear an appeal from Kaufman and Broad Inc. of planning commission denial of plans for 240 apartments on 20 acres between San Marin High School and the San Marin Club.

Air Passengers Dump Odd Stuff

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Trash collectors have picked up a variety of curious objects since new security measures went into effect at Spokane International Airport.

Knives, chisels, pistols and even a motorcycle chain wrapped at one end with tape have turned up in trash and cigarette receptacles.

James Worsham, assistant chief of airport security, said that when travelers see the new security tunnel which detects metal objects they "dump anything they feel may cause their detection."

Freed Prisoner Explains Shiner

WRIGHT-PATTERSON AFB, Ohio (UPI) — Air Force Lt. Col. Robert Purcell, one of three eleased prisoners of war being processed here, sported a bruise over his left eye Sunday.

Purcell, 42, said he got it Saturday night during a get-together with family and friends. "In true fighter pilot fashion, I was nipped by a champagne cork," he said.

Tam Trustees Will Hear Test Results

The Tamalpais High School District board will hear a report from acting Supt. Robert D. Torrey on recent state test results at its meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

Results in the state testing program for the 1970-71 school year released last week showed the Tam district failing to place in the top 10 per cent in any categories. In 1970 the district placed in the top 10 per cent in both language and mathematics.

By comparison the San Rafael High School District in 1971 attained the top 10 per cent in all tests — reading, language, spelling and mathematics.

Also on Tuesday's agenda are reports on the district's guidance program and on plans for implementing the teacher evaluation requirements.

Youth Perishes In Rescue Try

VALENCE, France (UPI) — Jacques Attou, 16, was one of the first ones to flee his burning home Sunday. But when his mother cried that some of his brothers and sisters were still inside, Jacques acted quickly.

"I'm going to look for them," he shouted. "I will wrap them in blankets."

Then he raced back inside—and died there with five of his brothers and sisters, aged six to 13.

Climbers Conquer Aconcagua Peak

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Seven Los Angeles-area persons, four women among them, have reached the top of the highest mountain in the Americas — Argentina's 22,834-foot Aconcagua Peak, it was reported here today.

The climbers undertook the mission two weeks after two other Americans died just short of the summit. It was not known when the Los Angeles climbers finished their climb. Two members of the expedition reportedly suffered altitude fatigue and returned to base camp before the final conquest.

Prime Minister Hit With Eggs

DUBLIN (UPI) — Irish Republican Army supporters pelted Prime Minister Jack Lynch with eggs Sunday in the town of Carrick-on-Shannon as he addressed an election rally.

Police said they detained one man and ejected several others from the rally.

Banner-waving demonstrators also demanded the release of persons arrested in the republic under a recent law designed to crack down on extremists. Among those arrested were several IRA members and suspects.

Palme Remains Convinced U.S. Peace Obstacle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Swedish Prime Minister Olaf Palme says he has not changed his view that the United States was the biggest obstacle to peace in Vietnam.

Palme was asked Sunday if he had changed his mind about the statement he made in 1968 and replied with a flat "no."

The American failure to uphold the Geneva Accords of 1954 was "the fatal mistake ... a step that led to the other mistakes," Palme said.

Waldheim Ends Asian Sojourn

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim has returned from a 2½week trip to Asia. He said the highlight of his trip was a discussion of the India-Pakistan situation, which he termed "open-ended."

Waldheim arrived on Sunday via San Francisco from his final stop abroad, a conference in Tokyo with Japanese officials. He visited heads of state and other officials in six countries.

Waldheim said he was "cautiously optimistic" about a resolution of the problems between India and Pakistan and added, "I'm sure my visit has helped to improve the political atmosphere, and this is very important."

Sonoma State Whips Chapman

By PAUL DWORIN

Sonoma State College exploded for a 101-66 victory over non-league opponent Chapman College Saturday, and in the process, the Cossacks assured themselves of their first winning basketball team.

The win in Rohnert Park upped the Cossacks' overall season record to 14-8 in a 26-game season, and kept their home record perfect at 9-0 mark.

However, Sonoma will not savor the victory long, for it is tied with Chico State College for first place in a tight Far Western Conference race at 7-2.

The Cossacks, who visit Hayward and San Francisco State colleges this weekend, must win all their remaining conference games to clinch at least a tie for the league crown.

The game against Chapman was close for the first three minutes, with the Cossacks in the lead, 8-6, at 17:10 of the first half, Sonoma then scored 10 straight points to break open the game.

Tom Fitchie scored 16 first-half points, and Bill Belander, Steve Tiedeman and Ron Johnson added 10 each to give the Cossacks a 50-34 halftime lead.

Then, Sonoma put in 16-consecutive points to open the second half for a 66-34 lead. The Cossacks kept up their scoring pace throughout the half, building up leads as large as 39 points.

Everyone got into the scoring act for the Cossacks, who broke the 100-point mark for the first time this season on a Dan Heien lay-up, even one player who is scholastically ineligible for FWC games.

Fitchie led with 21 points, Tiedeman added 20, Belander put in 14 after sitting out most of the second half because of sickness, and the league ineligible, Al Martinson, reached his high point game of the year with 12, 10 of them coming in the last eight minutes.

In the junior varsity preliminary game, Sonoma beat San Francisco City College, 83-71. The Cossacks were led by Bill Stephens, who put in 21 points, and Mark Jasper with 16.

NBA ROUNDUP

76ers Discover Winning Ways

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Philadelphia 76ers have discovered winning—and they like the feeling.

The 76ers, the laughing stock of the National Basketball Association this season, suddenly have turned around. After dropping 48 of their first 52 games and putting together losing streaks of 15 and 20 games. the 76ers turned tiger this week. First they knocked off the rugged Milwaukee Bucks, followed that by upending the Detroit Pistons and after a Saturday night loss in New York, rebounded Sunday to wallop the Knicks 114-98.

With new coach Kevin Loughery experimenting with new combinations and defenses, Philadelphia took an early lead and held on all the way. Tom Van Arsdale was the key man in the 76er attack, scoring 29 points, while Leroy Ellis added 24 points and 20 rebounds and Fred Carter contributed 23 points. Walt Frazier led the Knicks with 25.

"We've put in a lot of new things, especially on defense," said Loughery, who took over for Roy Rubin after the team could manage only a 4-48 mark. "We have a lot of new guys and they aren't used to playing together. It's going to take time but I'm confident this club can win. That's why I took the job."

In other NBA action Sunday, Boston nipped Seattle 106-105, Atlanta defeated Los Angeles 99-92, Baltimore stopped Milwaukee 96-93, Chicago whipped Houston 110-99, Detroit manhandled Kansas City-Omaha 144-100, Cleveland crushed Buffalo 122-98 and Portland shaded Phoenix 119-118.

Pete Maravich scored 31 points and Lou Hudson hit 27 to lead Atlanta over the Lakers.

Chet Walker had 23 points and Bob Love 21 as the Bulls surged past Houston and Detroit, with Bob Lanier hitting 25 points, broke a four-game losing streak by tying the biggest victory margin in their history as they crushed the Kings.

Austin Carr had 26 points and Len Wilkens 23 as Cleveland tied a club season victory mark by beating Buffalo and Geoff Petrie had 23 points and Lloyd Neal 22 as Portland edged the Suns.

St. Vincent Visits Tomales Tomorrow

St. Vincent High School of Petaluma, which is the only school in Southern Sonoma County still in contention for a league basketball title, travels outside the county tomorrow night to play an 8 o'clock North Central League II game against the revitalized Tomales Braves.

In other local high school action tomorrow night at 7 o'clock, Petaluma visits the North Bay League leading Vallejo Apaches, and Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park finishes its Sonoma County League season against Cardinal Newman in Santa Rosa.

St. Vincent is 6-1 in league, one game behind Point Arena, and Tomales is in a fourth place tie with Calistoga at 3-5, but records usually do not mean much when these two traditional rivals play.

In their last meeting the Mustangs beat Tomales, 70-59, but since then the Braves have come on strong, winning three of their last five games.

Petaluma, which has averaged 17 wins pwer season for the last six years, has already lost 17 this season and is in a three-way tie for last place in the NBL with a 3-9 mark, eight games behind Vallejo.

The Apaches, 11-1, have already clinched one berth in the Top of the Bay Classic to be held next month at Sonoma State College in Rohnert Park. They beat the Trojans, 70-55, in the first round of league play.

Rancho Cotate will be ending its most frustrating season in its short history tomorrow night against the Cardinals. At the beginning of the year, Coach Mike Francis felt that his cougar squad might go for the SCL championship, but now they are tied for fifth place with Piner of Santa Rosa at 4-6.

Cardinal Newman has clinched its second consectuive title with a 9-1 record, with one of those wins a 50-44 victory over the Cougars in the first round of SCL play.

CAPTAIN'S KISS — Joyous kids and ecstatic women displaced their emotions when Air Force Capt. Larry J. Chesley, of Burley, Ida., crossed over to the group of youngsters and kissed one of them on his arrival at Alameda Naval Air Station Saturday after almost seven years as a captive in North Vietnam. Capt. Chesley was among the last of 143 men who returned to the U.S. from POW camps. His flight was diverted to Alameda after fog socked in Travis Air Force Base.

HAPPY HUG — Jean Lerseth reached out to embrace her husband, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger G. Lerseth, of Spokane, Wash., and San Francisco, as he returned to Alameda Naval Air Station Saturday after being a prisoner in North Vietnam since Sept. 6, 1972.

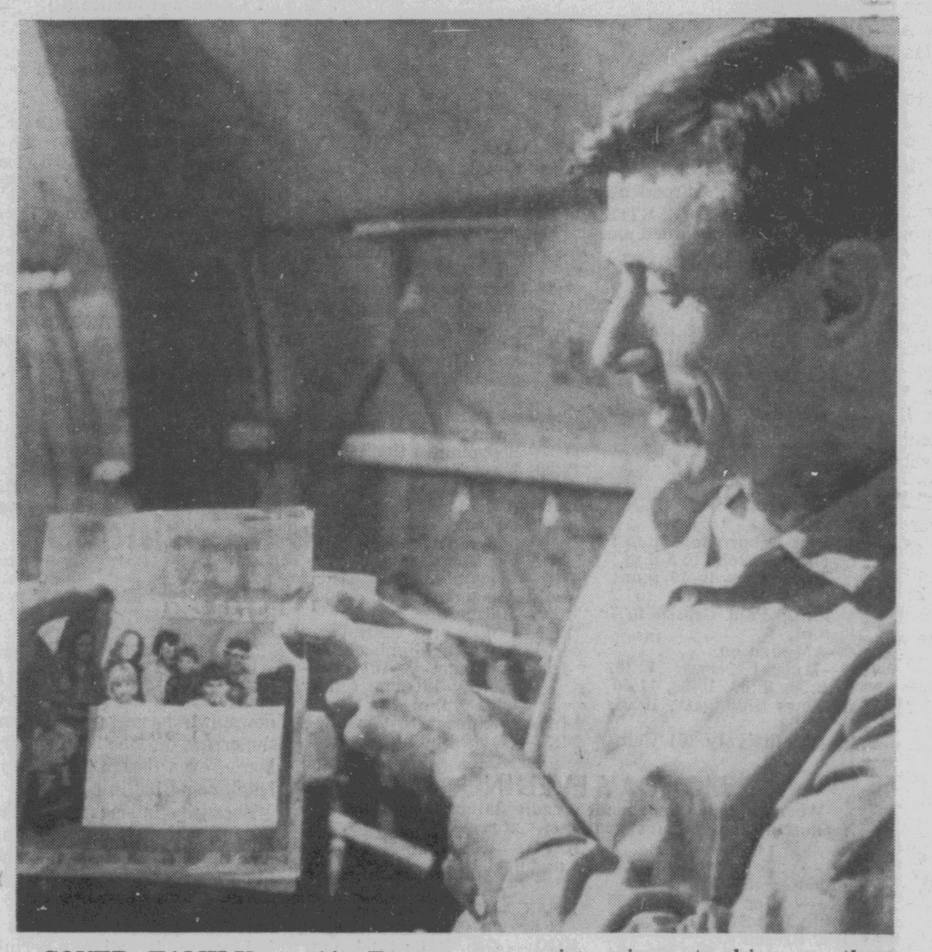

Returning Prisoners Warmly Welcomed

TEXAS WELCOME — T/Sgt. James R. Cook of Wheatridge, Colo., waved to a gathering at Sheppard Air Force Base in Wichita Falls, Tex., on his return to the U.S. after being a prisoner in North Vietnam since December of 1972. Welcomers stood in the cold and wet snow to welcome home Cook, who deplaned on a litter, and other returning POWs.

COVER FAMILY — Air Force Major Joseph Abbot Jr., of Salem, N.J., looked at a picture of his family on the cover of Time magazine given to him on the flight from Hanoi, where he was released yesterday after being held prisoner since April 30, 1967.

NURSE'S GREETING — Navy Lt. Cmdr. Joseph C. Plumb of Mission, Kan., got a welcoming kiss from flight nurse capt. Elizabeth Whitcomb while en route to Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines after his release in Hanoi as a prisoner of war.

HAPPY REUNION — This was the happy scene at Oak Knoll Naval Hospital in Oakland when Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez Jr., 35, was reunited with his family after his return to the U.S. Saturday. Alvarez, shot down over North Vietnam on Aug. 5, 1964, had been held prisoner longer than any other American serviceman. He is flanked by his parents, Soledad and Everett Alvarez Sr., and standing behind him are his two sisters, Madeleine and Delia.

49ers' Rookie Camp Breaks Up

Combined AP & UPI

REDWOOD CITY — The San Francisco 49er rookies broke camp yesterday after drills and three hours of tutelage by the coaching staff.

"This gives us a chance to think about position changes for them," coach Dick Nolan said. "We think Ed Beverly (Arizona State wide receiver) is a defensive back possibility, for instance."

Nolan also praised the slimness of his charges.

"This time none of them showed up way overweight, thinking they needed the extra pounds for the pros," he said.

Olympics

TRUCKEE — Nationalism, professionalism and commercialism were branded as curses of the Olympics during the weekend at a meeting of 13 past and present members of the U.S. Winter Olympic teams.

Rick Chafee, Johnson, Vt., captain of the U.S. team in 1972, criticized nationalism and "phony amateurism."

He accused the Soviet Union of using the Olympics to try to show the superiority of its lifestyle.

The meeting Saturday was called by Andrea Mead Lawrence who said, "The Olympic Games are suffering from a severe case of hypocrisy and disorientation with modern times."

Golf

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. — Sandra Palmer defeated Betty Burfeindt on the first hole of a sudden death playoff yesterday to capture first place and the $5,250 first prize money in the Pompano Beach Ladies Professional Golfers Association Ladies' Golf Classic.

Miss Palmer, of Fort Worth, Tex., sank a five-foot birdie putt on the first hole of the sudden death playoff to clinch the win.

Tennis

COPENHAGEN — Roger Taylor, an unseeded player from Great Britain, yesterday upset top seed Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 6-2, 6-3, 7-6 to win the singles final at the $50,000 Brown Label indoor tourney.

TORONTO — Rod Laver bested fellow Australian Roy Emerson 6-3, 6-4 yesterday to win the men's singles title for the second straight year at the $50,000 Rothman's International Indoor Tourney.

Basketball

Bowling

BALTIMORE — Dick Ritger of Hartford, Wis. yesterday edged Don McCune, of Munster, Ind., 225-222 in the finals of the $60,000 Fair Lanes Open to gain his 11th career tournament win.

Track-Field

MOSCOW — Alexandr Kornelyuk ran the men's 100-meter dash in 10.3 seconds for a world indoor record, and Nadezhda Besfamilnaya broke the women's indoor standard for the distance in 11.4 in a meet yesterday.

POCATELLO, Idaho — A Stanford University foursome yesterday dashed to a world record in the men's 880-yard relay race with a 1 minute 27.4 second timing and Pattie Johnson finished the high hurdles in 13.4 seconds for a new standard at the Sam Bennion Relay meet.

SAN DIEGO — Francis Larrieu of San Jose, Calif., scrambled home in world record time of 4:35.6 for the women's mile at the San Diego Indoor Games Saturday.

Pittemans, an Olympic 10,000 meter silver medallist, topped Australian Kerry O'Brien's previous 8:19.2 minute mark in the two-mile run with a clocking of 8:13.3.

On the way, he covered the 2,000 meters in five minutes flat and the 3,000 meters in 7:39.2 minutes for new indoor bests.

The old 2,000 and 3,000 meter bests stood at 5:04.4 and 7:45.8, respectively.

WARRIORS, ATLANTA TOMORROW

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors return to action tomorrow night against the visiting Atlanta Hawks and Pete Maravich.

The Warriors dropped their third game in three nights Saturday when they lost to the Boston Celtics 110-106.

John Havlicek scored eight points in a final quarter surge to carry the Celtics to the victory. He finished the night with 33 points while Nate Thurmond was high for the Warriors with 29.

The Warriors are now 1-2 against Boston. If it's any consolation, the Los Angeles Lakers, leading the National Basketball Association Pacific Division, are 0-3 against the Celtics.

Raveling likens the Bruins to a computer in that "you punch out 'win' and that's what they do."

Although he played just a short time, Walton scored 29 points and grabbed 18 rebounds in the Bruins' 66th straight victory. He hit all nine of his field goal attempts in the first half.

The Bruins, who have won eight of the last nine National Collegiate Athletic Association championships, play at Oregon Thursday and Oregon State Saturday.

Southern California's Trojans, the only club with much chance of beating UCLA out of the conference crown, dropped two games behind when they were upset by Washington 73-70.

In other Pacific Eight games, California's Bears shaded Oregon State 79-77 and Oregon came from behind twice and trimmed Stanford 76-69.

Cal benefited from two goaltending calls against Oregon State in the last 70 seconds. Vance Schram, making his first start at guard, was Cal's high scorer with 18 but the go-ahead field goal and the last free throw were the work of Carl Meier.

Hockey Teams Win 1, Lose 3

The Peewees defeated San Francisco, 5-2 for the only win among Marin teams competing in the Northern California Amateur Hockey League.

Marin Bantams lost to S.F., 3-1, the Marin Midgets lost to Stockton, 8-0, and the Marin Squirts lost to Berkeley, 4-3.

Sonoma Wins, Loses

TURLOCK — Sonoma State College opened its 1973 baseball season with a 1-0 victory over Stanislaus State in the first game of a non-league double header here Saturday. The Cossacks dropped the nightcap, 3-1.

Third-ranked Long Beach State, which has made the Pacific Coast Athletic Association race an exercise in futility for its opponents, thumped the Pacific Tigers 85-64 for its 63rd straight home triumph. All-America Ed Ratleff led the way with 24 points.

In other PCAA games, San Diego State got by San Jose State 76-73 and UC-Santa Barbara edged Los Angeles State 96-94. San Diego had five players in double figures as Clarence Allen hit 24 points for Santa Barbara while Raymond Lewis got 38 for Los Angeles.

San Francisco held on its onegame lead in the West Coast Athletic Association by beating Seattle 100-85 while second-place Santa Clara thumped St. Mary's 100-74.

Kevin Restani scored 30 points for the Dons and Mike Steward got 22 for Santa Clara, which hit on 54.2 per cent of its shots.

In other WCAC games, Nevada-Reno downed Pepperdine 101-93 and Loyola-Los Angeles defeated Nevada-Las Vegas 81-76. Nevada-Reno's win came despite a 56-point performance by William "Bird" Averitt of Pepperdine. Luther Philyaw got 20 points for Loyola.

Dart Throwing: Marinite Loses

Karen Hibbs, Hamilton Air Force Base housewife, lost in her bid to become the state women's dart throwing champion Saturday in Venice, Los Angeles County.

Mrs. Hibbs, whose husband, Marvin, is a senior master sergeant at Hamilton, won her first match with the southern California champion, Ladonna Hemple, but lost the next two to her.

Mrs. Hibbs arrived back in Marin County last night with her runnerup trophy. "Next year I will try to do better," she declared.

Host Marin Tars Throttle De Anza In Basketball

By LEW CODDINGTON

College of Marin held De Anza College scoreless for the final seven minutes Saturday night to earn a 47-42 victory in a rough, ragged and tense basketball game officiated by only one man.

The victory gave the Tars a 10-1 Camino Norte Conference record and let them keep their one-game lead over West Valley College (9-2), which they will face in Campbell Wednesday in a title showdown. West Valley defeated Skyline College Saturday, 87-74. The Tars are 23-3 overall and ranked fifth in the state.

The triumph in Kentfield virtually killed the championship hopes of De Anza (7-4), but the Dons from Cupertino did not succumb without a fight. They led much of the way, and were tied at 42-42 when Marin coach John Panagakis called time with 6:58 left.

Immediately afterward, forward Joe Casteel hit a turnaround jump shot from just to the left of the foul lane to give Marin the lead, and the Tars retreated into a 1-2-2 zone defense.

Later, Casteel made a free throw and guard Joe DeMaestri drove for a basket. Meanwhile the zone made De Anza miss five shots and turn the ball over five times.

The game's lone official was Cas Munoz, who explained his partner was originally scheduled to be Hal Nelson, who died last month of a heart attack. Munoz blamed a mixup in scheduling by the officials' association for failure to produce a replacement.

"I had to let 'em bump," said Munoz, "and try to kiss (catch) the cheaters." He called only eight personal fouls on Marin and seven on De Anza, despite some rough play which was obvious to the crowd of 800.

"I never call anything unless I see it," Munoz continued, "and I had a problem getting screened out. Basketball is a game of angles. I missed a few, but I think I missed 'em even."

An irritated Panagakis vowed after the contest to "call the officials' association tomorrow morning. This is an unfortunate situation for a crucial game." He also said several competent officials were in the stands as spectators, but De Anza coach Tony Nunes refused to agree to let any of them be pressed into service.

Marin guard Len Smith sat on the bench the entire game — the penalty, Panagakis said, for being late to practice Friday. Jim Forni started in his place and played virtually all the way, and Steve Pieper appeared briefly.

Panagakis kept Smith on the bench even though DeMaestri contracted his fourth personal foul with about 11 minutes left.

"You have to keep the firepower in there in a close game," the coach explained. DeMaestri justified the move by scoring four of Marin's last nine points to finish with 12 for the evening.

Forward Wil Garner also scored 12, while Casteel tallied nine, grabbed a team-high 13 rebounds and made several steals. Casteel also held De Anza guard Mitch Plaat scoreless in the final seven minutes after Platt had netted 10 of his 16 points in the second half.

Marin made 21 of 51 shots for 41 per cent, while the Dons connected only 17 of 52 for a dark 32 per cent. De Anza scored only 13 points in the second half, the eighth time this year Marin has held a foe to 20 points or less in a half.

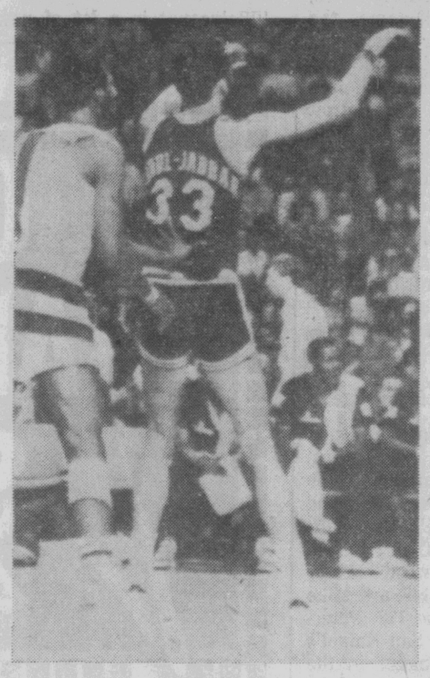

De Anza	29	13	—	42
Marin	26	21	—	47

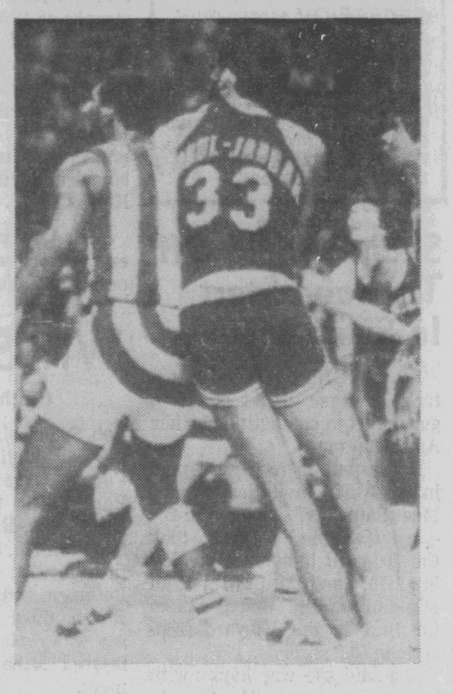

De Anza — Hoffman 2-4-8, Horner 2-1-5, Perry 2-0-4, Plaat 7-2-16, Rathbun 4-1-9. Totals: 17-8-42.

Marin — Garner 5-2-12, Casteel 4-1-9, Traub 4-0-8, Forni 3-0-6, DeMaestri 5-2-12. Totals: 21-5-47.

SHALL WE DANCE?

Baseball Has A Hush-Hush Tone

NEW YORK (UPI) — After a week of name-calling and insinuation, the baseball player-owner dispute has turned very hush-hush.

Both sides, which were scheduled to meet again today at 2:00 pm EST, refrained from making inflammatory statements or even progress announcements following rare back-to-back weekend meetings at the offices of Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, and John Gaherin, negotiator for the owners.

Miller, looking drawn, described Sunday's 2 ½-hour bargaining session as "an amiable, informal meeting" and Gaherin said "we are making every effort to resolve this dispute quickly."

Gaherin, trying to give away as little information as possible, noted however, that there has been "little progress" in settling the two major points of contention—the reserve clause and salary arbitration.

The fact that the owners and players were able to schedule the special weekend sessions and another one today probably speaks best for their intention to overcome the present impasse without a further delay in the opening of spring training camps. Already three camps have been kept closed because of the owners' insistence not to open without a new contract.

Miller said if the camps remain closed on March 1, he would begin "regional meetings with the players" starting Friday in Los Angeles, otherwise he would meet with the players at the training sites, "which would be more convenient." He said he had cancelled plans to call a mass meeting in New York with all players.

Sunday's session included National League president Chub Feeney, American League president Joe Cronin, St. Louis player representative Joe Torre and players' legal counsel Dick Moss, in addition to Miller and Gaherin.

Dining on cookies and coffee behind closed doors, they attempted with no apparent success to break any new ground.

"We want a three-year contract," one owner said last week. "If we delay the reserve clause issue for a year, what's to stop them from going on strike next year?"

Miller has contended that the owners' refusal to open spring training is essentially a "lockout maneuver, designed to put pressure on the players."

The cost of spring training is another item that weighs heavily on some owners' minds.

"It costs each club about $200,000 to open spring training," said one owner, "and what's to prevent them from calling a strike again. That would mean all the money would be down the drain."

The players have not taken a strike vote and Miller said no strike threats have been made.

PREP LEAGUE PLAY

Drake To Host Resurgent San Rafael '5' Wednesday

Nobody can accuse Drake High School of getting special favors from the schedule-maker as the Pirates seek to clinch the undisputed championship of Marin County Athletic League basketball.

The league-leaders (10-2), who have already assured themselves of a tie for the title, host resurgent San Rafael Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Other games Wednesday, moved back from Tuesday's normal scheduling date because today is a holiday (Washington's Birthday) in the school districts, find Marin Catholic meeting Tamalpais at College of Marin, 4 p.m., and San Marin visiting Terra Linda, 7 p.m.

Second-place Redwood (8-4) will visit Novato tomorrow at 4 p.m., and if the Giants win, they doubtlessly will journey en masse to San Anselmo Wednesday to root for San Rafael. A Bulldog victory over Drake would give Redwood a chance to earn the co-championship Friday in its season-ending clash with the Pirates.

San Rafael (6-6) is currently the hottest team in the league other than Drake itself, having won its last four games, three of them by 13 points or better. The Bulldogs have had some stretches where they have looked invincible, such as Wednesday, when they shot 83 per cent in the first half against Novato, and Friday, when they made 17 striaight free throws against Tamalpais.

San Rafael was cheered by a 24-point showing Friday by 6-foot-5 forward Guy Perry, a respected outside shooter whose shots weren't dropping earlier in the year.

Drake counters with Eddie Joe Chavez, the 6-0 forward who established the MCAL seasonal high of 32 points Friday against Novato in only three quarters of action.

Drake has won seven league games in a row, the first of the string being a heart-stopping 63-61 triumph over the Bulldogs Jan. 23.

Redwood, a team composed largely of juniors and sophomores with one exceptional senior in Mike Connor, has won three of its last four after an 81-60 loss to Drake. Center Darrell Elder, a 6-6 junior, muscled his way for 28 points and 20 rebounds in a victory over San Marin Friday.

Novato (5-7) has only a two-point victory over San Marin to show for its last seven games of effort, after once leading the league at 4-1.

Marin Catholic (6-6) was a contender until losing to Drake and Redwood back-to-back, and also fell to Terra Linda Friday. Tamalpais (4-8), with three of its victories in the second half of the season, was surging until running into San Rafael Friday.

San Marin (4-8) has lost five straight, three of them by a combined nine points, and now must fight to avoid the cellar. Terra Linda (5-7) was in similar danger until beating Marin Catholic Friday to end a four-game losing streak.

Dejected Baker Gives Way To Petty In Daytona Race

"Oh no," exclaimed Baker. "Dammit, No."

Baker's anguish showed after he led 157 laps of the 200-lap race only to watch his hopes evaporate when his engine blew just 15 miles from the finish Sunday.

Petty, NASCAR's all-time champion, admitted Baker had the "strongest" car. But when asked if he could have beaten Baker in a race to the finish, Petty replied, "That's just one question I will never have to worry about."

Baker, who started on the pole in his Harry Hyde-prepared Dodge, with Cale Yarborough for nearly 390 miles while Petty stayed comfortably in third place in his Dodge.

Suddenly Yarborough's Chevrolet belched fire going into the first turn and the Timmonsville, S.C., charger was out with a blown engine. When the green flag fell and racing resumed, Petty was on Baker's bumper with 100 miles to go.

The battle continued for the next 85 miles until Baker's hopes vanished in a cloud of smoke on the back stretch while he was running three seconds behind Petty but easily making up the difference.

With Baker out of the race, Petty took the flag two-laps ahead of Bobby Isaac in a Ford, with Dick Brooks another lap back in a Dodge. Defending champion A.J. Foyt finished fourth in Chevrolet, with Hershel McGriff fifth in a Plymouth.

Concerning his unprecedented fourth Daytona 500 victory, which earned him $34,100, Petty said, "It's something to win it one time. I guess it's the thrill of a lifetime. To win it four times is just unbelievable."

Petty averaged 157.205 miles per hour with the speed slowed four times for 30 laps by caution flags. The first 13 laps were run under the caution while they dried off the track from a morning rain.

Yarborough, returning to NASCAR after two years on the USAC circuit, also thought he had the race won until his engine blew.

"I could get around Baker," he said. "I had a good shot at it. Baker knew there was somebody behind him."

The only serious accident involved country music singer Marty Robbins who crashed his Dodge on the 69th lap when he nudged Vic Parsons' Mercury on the front stretch.

Robbins' car slammed into the wall and skidded some 1,000 feet along the concrete before sliding into the infield. Darrell Waltrip, driving a Mercury,

'Rabbit' Wins Williams Golf

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — On the pro golf tour the loneliest man of all is the Monday morning "rabbit," usually a youngster trying to win a spot in that week's tournament.

It's a role Bob Dickson, a proud but patient man from Tulsa, Okla., has been playing for more than three years. He never liked it, even one bit, but he kept on plugging along, sometimes with limited success.

Last Monday, when the former U.S. and British amateur champion from Oklahoma came to San Diego to see if he could win a piece in the $170,000 Andy Williams event, he brought along his wife because he said he had a feeling.

DICKSON

Sunday, after seven consecutive days of golf, including the qualifying round and two rounds of pro-am play, Dickson was like a man reborn. He had won the Williams Open and along with it a $34,000 check to help pay some back bills and automatic berths in the Masters, the Tournament of Champtions and the Pacific Golfers Association Championship., not to mention this week's Jackie Gleason-Inverary Classic at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., an event which carries a winner's prize of $52,000.

Dickson's victory should prove a good lesson to all those other youngsters trying to win fame and fortune on the PGA tour, because it was one of patience and perseverance as well as good play. He got it by shooting a 10-under par 278, three shots better than Bruce Crampton, Phil Rodgers, Billy Casper and Grier Jones.

CRAMPTON

The 6-foot-3 schclarly looking Dickson shot a closing round 72 in a head to head duel with Crampton, the man who had won two other tourney titles this year and already was closing in on the $100,000 money winning plateau after only seven events in 1973.

Dickson played well, and with some measure of confidence, but he never would have won had not Crampton, the steel-nerved Australian who knows what it feels like to be a Monday morning "rabbit," had not fallen apart on the final four holes and finished with a 76.

Crampton started the final round a shot ahead of Dickson and Jones and was still ahead by a shot after the 13th hole. But Dickson sank a 15 foot birdie putt on the 14th to drawn even and said that was when he felt he could win it.

PUTTING WOES

Dickson passed in the rest of the way but Cramptonn who had putted so superbly in earlier rounds of 67-70-68, suddenly couldn't find the hole and he bogied 15, 16 and 17 to fall three shots back.

The $11,602 check boosted Crampton's 1973 earnings to $75,000, tops on the tour. For Dickson, who won only $17,501 last year and only $4,314 this year, it was like money from home on a rainy day.

Tommy Jacobs, playing his best golf in many years, shot a final round 65—best of the tournament which drew a record 81,000 fans—to finish in a tie with Miller Barber, Dave Eichelberger and Hale Irwin at six under 282. Each won $5,291.

Doug Sanders and Chuck Courtney were next at 283 and Gene Littler, defending champion Paul Harney, Dick Lotz, rod Curl and Andy North were at 284. Lee Trevino, still not playing well, finished far down the line at 291, three over par.

Wrestler Loberg Wins In Richmond

Big, strong, rugged Jon Loberg won first place in the unlimited division Saturday at the North Coast Section Division I wrestling meet at Kennedy High School, Richmond.

The 230-pound Loberg helped Terra Linda High gain seventh place, the school scoring 49½ points compared to winning Mission San Jose's 85 points. Loberg pinned three opponents and won a 1-0 decision in his final match.

In all, nine Marin County wrestlers advanced to the North Coast Section finals next Saturday at Tennyson High in Hayward. Four of the nine are Terra Linda wrestlers. The Terra Lindans were Ron Losk, second in the 194-pound division, winning one of his matches 24-2, Reggie Grant, fifth in the 136-pound class, and

WINLESS IN 15 GAMES

Defense Falters As Seals Bow To Kings

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden Seals had better start dishing it out as well as taking it.

Sunday's 4-2 Los Angeles win over the Seals was the same old story.

The Seals deadlocked 2-2 Friday night with the Detroit Red Wings and that was the first time in 15 games they put the puck goalward more than were fired at them.

While the Seals concentrated on killing penalties Sunday, the Kings were putting the puck in the net.

The win moved the Kings into a tie for fifth place with Atlanta in the West Division of the National Hockey League. The eighth place Seals remained winless in 13 games, including three ties.

Bill Lesuk and Frank St. Marseille each scored twice to pace the Los Angeles attack. Lesuk scored in the first and final periods while St. Marseille twice broke a tie, getting his ninth of the season in the middle period and his tenth in the last.

UCLA Coach Wooden Upset Over Play

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Nobody, but nobody, worries like a winning coach, even a coach who is figuring on retiring and has won just about everything.

For example, consider John Wooden of the UCLA bruins who now have a 9-0 record in the Pacific-Eight with five games to go and who dumped Washington State 96-64 on Saturday.

Despite winning by 32 points with All-America center Bill Walton in action for less than 30 minutes, Wooden was upset.

"We were ragged and we didn't play with any real sharpness," Wooden declared. "We're in danger of getting too assured, bordering on being complacent."

Now listen to George Raveling, the Washington State coach, and his opinion of the Bruins: "I feel they are the best college team that ever

CITY GOLF: MRS. BAILEY IS MEDALIST

Mrs. Bailey shot the round at Harding Park, and it included birdies at the seventh, 12th, and 16th holes. Match play will start March 11.

Marin Nine Wins Two, Loses One

The College of Marin baseball team won two out of three games Saturday in the Chabot Invitational Tournament, in Hayward, beating Skyline College of San Bruno, 4-2, and San Joaquin Delta of Stockton, 5-1, before losing in the championship game to Chabot, 11-0.

The Tars (2-2) got only one hit in the title game against Chabot's Ron Snyder.

Earlier, the Tars' pitching of right-handers Tom Olson and Don Bianchini carried the Marinites to the finals in the double-elimination tourney. In Olson's victory against Skyline, Bianchini led the attack with a home run and a double good for two runs in the four-run fifth inning. The Tars' Dom Pomilia walked, singled and tripled while driving in two runs and scored two more against San Joaquin.

Douglas F. Woods of San Rafael, owner of Sausalito Cellars, said business was an instant success, but the floods were too much. "I was flooded six times in about five months, and the last time I had three feet of water in the store," said Woods. He has applied for a diasater loan, and the future of the Cellars is uncertain.

Woods has another store called Save Center Liquors in Richmond, which he has operated for about four years.

Coffee Etc. features coffee, gourmet sandwiches, coffee beans from all major coffee producers in the world, coffee makers and grinders.

"I also plan about three more stores in the Bay Area in the near future," said DeBow. He has been in the coffee importing business for 30 years.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Treasury Bills Provide Safety

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have $40,000 from the sale of property which I wish to invest temporarily. I must have absolute security. A good rate of return is also desirable. I have been contemplating U.S. Treasury bills. Is this a proper choice for me? How do I buy them without having to pay a large fee? — S.D.

A. Your proposal to purchase Treasury bills makes excellent sense in view of their safety and the generous return currently available on them. At the present time these short-term debt obligations are being sold to yield 5.67 per cent on three-month maturities and 5.85 per cent on six-month issues. Interest is paid in advance since the bills are sold at discount from face value, the minimum being $10,000.

Although many commercial banks will handle such transactions, there is usually a small handling charge going in and out, which in effect reduces the interest return on the bills. Bond dealers and brokers also will purchase T-bills for customers, again for a fee.

There is no fee for purchases made directly through your nearest Federal Reserve Bank or branch office. A telephone call or letter should produce the necessary forms and information required for purchase of these securities.

Individuals buying through the Federal Reserve must submit what is called a "noncompetitive tender offer." A completed tender form or letter with pertinent information must be accompanied by a certified check made out to the Federal Reserve Bank of the particular district in which you live. The tender must be in the bank's hands by 1:30 p.m. on Monday and an allotment notice is mailed to you on Tuesday.

The security and a check for the discount will be sent to you registered mail on Thursday.

Because T-bills are "payable to the bearer on demand" they should be kept in a safe deposit box. The bill, upon maturity, may be deposited for credit to your checking or savings account.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Casualty Or Theft Loss May Be Deductible From Income

If you had a casualty or theft loss, you may be able to deduct part of it on your tax return.

Only the casualty loss in excess of the insurance reimbursement and in excess of $100 per loss is deductible on your federal income tax return.

Apparently, many people have been making the decuction and putting the net amount down on the tax return and also a good many people have been putting the net amount of the loss down on the tax return without making the adjustment for insurance reimbursement or making the adjustment for the $100 deduction.

In order to make processing the tax return easier and to eliminate a good deal of needless correspondence between the Internal Revenue Service and the taxpayer, the new tax form provides a separate entry on Schedule A, Form 1040, lines 26 to 30 for deducting such losses.

In other words, you may have something that cost you $100 that had a fair market value of $1,000 at the time of the loss and your actual loss may be $1,000 the fair market value, but you can only deduct your cost basis of $100, less $100, or zero.

The primary difficulty in determining casualty losses is to prove the amount of the loss.

In some cases, it is fairly easy to determine the fair market value of the loss. If you bought a new car that cost you $5,000 and later it was destroyed, then it would appear that your loss is $5,000.

However, you have to determine the fair market value of the car and there are books that list this, although you may have some disagreements about the condition of the car.

One of the biggest problems in this area is the valuation of trees that are destroyed by storms, fire or other causes.

Tree valuations have been a matter of much contention for many years. However, in 1970, the International Shade Tree Conference, Incorporated, published a booklet "Shade Tree Evaluation", which gives formulas for the evaluation for practically every tree known to man and in every region of this country.

This book is authoritative and is recognized as the basis for evaluating trees. It is available for $3.00 per copy from: International Shade Tree Conference, Inc. Post Office Box 71, Urbana, Ill. 61801.

Also, a good source of information is the Internal Revenue Service Publication "Your Federal Income Tax 1972 Edition". It is sold by the Internal Revenue Service and will answer many of your questions.

If this book does not answer your question, then you should consult your attorney or accountant for clarification of the very complex tax rules.

Sonoma State Whips Chapman

By PAUL DWORIN

Sonoma State College exploded for a 101-66 victory over non-league opponent Chapman College Saturday, and in the process, the Cossacks assured themselves of their first winning basketball team.

The win in Rohnert Park upped the Cossacks' overall season record to 14-8 in a 26-game season, and kept their home record perfect at 9-0 mark.

However, Sonoma will not savor the victory long, for it is tied with Chico State College for first place in a tight Far Western Conference race at 7-2.

The Cossacks, who visit Hayward and San Francisco State colleges this weekend, must win all their remaining conference games to clinch at least a tie for the league crown.

The game against Chapman was close for the first three minutes, with the Cossacks in the lead, 8-6, at 17:10 of the first half, Sonoma then scored 10 straight points to break open the game.

Tom Fitchie scored 16 first-half points, and Bill Belander, Steve Tiedeman and Ron Johnson added 10 each to give the Cossacks a 50-34 halftime lead.

Then, Sonoma put in 16-consecutive points to open the second half for a 66-34 lead. The Cossacks kept up their scoring pace throughout the half, building up leads as large as 39 points.

Everyone got into the scoring act for the Cossacks, who broke the 100-point mark for the first time this season on a Dan Heien lay-up, even one player who is scholastically ineligible for FWC games.

Fitchie led with 21 points, Tiedeman added 20, Belander put in 14 after sitting out most of the second half because of sickness, and the league ineligible, Al Martinson, reached his high point game of the year with 12, 10 of them coming in the last eight minutes.

In the junior varsity preliminary game, Sonoma beat San Francisco City College, 83-71. The Cossacks were led by Bill Stephens, who put in 21 points, and Mark Jasper with 16.

PREP CAGE ACTION

St. Vincent Visits Tomales Tomorrow

St. Vincent High School of Petaluma, which is the only school in Southern Sonoma County still in contention for a league basketball title, travels outside the county tomorrow night to play an 8 o'clock North Central League II game against the revitalized Tomales Braves.

In other local high school action tomorrow night at 7 o'clock, Petaluma visits the North Bay League leading Vallejo Apaches, and Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park finishes its Sonoma County League season against Cardinal Newman in Santa Rosa.

St. Vincent is 6-1 in league, one game behind Point Arena, and Tomales is in a fourth place tie with Calistoga at 3-5, but records usually do not mean much when these two traditional rivals play.

In their last meeting the Mustangs beat Tomales, 70-59, but since then the Braves have come on strong, winning three of their last five games.

Petaluma, which has averaged 17 wins pwer season for the last six years, has already lost 17 this season and is in a three-way tie for last place in the NBL with a 3-9 mark, eight games behind Vallejo.

The Apaches, 11-1, have already clinched one berth in the Top of the Bay Classic to be held next month at Sonoma State College in Rohnert Park. They beat the Trojans, 70-55, in the first round of league play.

Rancho Cotate will be ending its most frustrating season in its short history tomorrow night against the Cardinals. At the beginning of the year, Coach Mike Francis felt that his cougar squad might go for the SCL championship, but now they are tied for fifth place with Piner of Santa Rosa at 4-6.

Cardinal Newman has clinched its second consectuive title with a 9-1 record, with one of those wins a 50-44 victory over the Cougars in the first round of SCL play.

NBA ROUNDUP

76ers Discover Winning Ways

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Philadelphia 76ers have discovered winning—and they like the feeling.

The 76ers, the laughing stock of the National Basketball Association this season, suddenly have turned around. After dropping 48 of their first 52 games and putting together losing streaks of 15 and 20 games. the 76ers turned tiger this week. First they knocked off the rugged Milwaukee Bucks, followed that by upending the Detroit Pistons and after a Saturday night loss in New York, rebounded Sunday to wallop the Knicks 114-98.

With new coach Kevin Loughery experimenting with new combinations and defenses, Philadelphia took an early lead and held on all the way. Tom Van Arsdale was the key man in the 76er attack, scoring 29 points, while Leroy Ellis added 24 points and 20 rebounds and Fred Carter contributed 23 points. Walt Frazier led the Knicks with 25.

"We've put in a lot of new things, especially on defense," said Loughery, who took over for Roy Rubin after the team could manage only a 4-48 mark. "We have a lot of new guys and they aren't used to playing together. It's going to take time but I'm confident this club can win. That's why I took the job."

In other NBA action Sunday, Boston nipped Seattle 106-105, Atlanta defeated Los Angeles 99-92, Baltimore stopped Milwaukee 96-93, Chicago whipped Houston 110-99, Detroit manhandled Kansas City-Omaha 144-100, Cleveland crushed Buffalo 122-98 and Portland shaded Phoenix 119-118.

Pete Maravich scored 31 points and Lou Hudson hit 27 to lead Atlanta over the Lakers.

Archie Clark scored 25 points, including a pair of crucial free throws with five seconds left as the Bullets beat Milwaukee in a nationally televised game.

Chet Walker had 23 points and Bob Love 21 as the Bulls surged past Houston and Detroit, with Bob Lanier hitting 25 points, broke a four-game losing streak by tying the biggest victory margin in their history as they crushed the Kings.

Austin Carr had 26 points and Len Wilkens 23 as Cleveland tied a club season victory mark by beating Buffalo and Geoff Petrie had 23 points and Lloyd Neal 22 as Portland edged the Suns.

49ers' Rookie Camp Breaks Up

Combined AP & UPI

REDWOOD CITY — The San Francisco 49er rookies broke camp yesterday after drills and three hours of tutelage by the coaching staff.

"This gives us a chance to think about position changes for them," coach Dick Nolan said. "We think Ed Beverly (Arizona State wide receiver) is a defensive back possibility, for instance."

Nolan also praised the slimness of his charges.

"This time none of them showed up way overweight, thinking they needed the extra pounds for the pros," he said.

Olympics

TRUCKEE — Nationalism, professionalism and commercialism were branded as curses of the Olympics during the weekend at a meeting of 13 past and present members of the U.S. Winter Olympic teams.

Rick Chafee, Johnson, Vt., captain of the U.S. team in 1972, criticized nationalism and "phony amateurism."

He accused the Soviet Union of using the Olympics to try to show the superiority of its lifestyle.

The meeting Saturday was called by Andrea Mead Lawrence who said, "The Olympic Games are suffering from a severe case of hypocrisy and disorientation with modern times."

Golf

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. — Sandra Palmer defeated Betty Burfeindt on the first hole of a sudden death playoff yesterday to capture first place and the $5,250 first prize money in the Pompano Beach Ladies Professional Golfers Association Ladies' Golf Classic.

Miss Palmer, of Fort Worth, Tex., sank a five-foot birdie putt on the first hole of the sudden death playoff to clinch the win.

Tennis

COPENHAGEN — Roger Taylor, an unseeded player from Great Britain, yesterday upset top seed Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 6-2, 6-3, 7-6 to win the singles final at the $50,000 Brown Label indoor tourney.

TORONTO — Rod Laver bested fellow Australian Roy Emerson 6-3, 6-4 yesterday to win the men's singles title for the second straight year at the $50,000 Rothman's International Indoor Tourney.

Basketball

Bowling

BALTIMORE — Dick Ritger of Hartford, Wis. yesterday edged Don McCune, of Munster, Ind., 225-222 in the finals of the $60,000 Fair Lanes Open to gain his 11th career tournament win.

Track-Field

MOSCOW — Alexandr Kornelyuk ran the men's 100-meter dash in 10.3 seconds for a world indoor record, and Nadezhda Besfamilnaya broke the women's indoor standard for the distance in 11.4 in a meet yesterday.

POCATELLO, Idaho — A Stanford University foursome yesterday dashed to a world record in the men's 880-yard relay race with a 1 minute 27.4 second timing and Pattie Johnson finished the high hurdles in 13.4 seconds for a new standard at the Sam Bennion Relay meet.

SAN DIEGO — Francis Larrieu of San Jose, Calif., scrambled home in world record time of 4:35.6 for the women's mile at the San Diego Indoor Games Saturday.

Pittemans, an Olympic 10,000 meter silver medallist, topped Australian Kerry O'Brien's previous 8:19.2 minute mark in the two-mile run with a clocking of 8:13.3.

On the way, he covered the 2,000 meters in five minutes flat and the 3,000 meters in 7:39.2 minutes for new indoor bests.

The old 2,000 and 3,000 meter bests stood at 5:04.4 and 7:45.8, respectively.

WARRIORS, ATLANTA TOMORROW

The Warriors dropped their third game in three nights Saturday when they lost to the Boston Celtics 110-106.

John Havlicek scored eight points in a final quarter surge to carry the Celtics to the victory. He finished the night with 33 points while Nate Thurmond was high for the Warriors with 29.

The Warriors are now 1-2 against Boston. If it's any consolation, the Los Angeles Lakers, leading the National Basketball Association Pacific Division, are 0-3 against the Celtics.

Dart Throwing: Marinite Loses

Karen Hibbs, Hamilton Air Force Base housewife, lost in her bid to become the state women's dart throwing champion Saturday in Venice, Los Angeles County.

Mrs. Hibbs, whose husband, Marvin, is a senior master sergeant at Hamilton, won her first match with the southern California champion, Ladonna Hemple, but lost the next two to her.

Mrs. Hibbs arrived back in Marin County last night with her runnerup trophy. "Next year I will try to do better," she declared.

played the game ... they just have so much overall balance."

Raveling likens the Bruins to a computer in that "you punch out 'win' and that's what they do."

Although he played just a short time, Walton scored 29 points and grabbed 18 rebounds in the Bruins' 66th straight victory. He hit all nine of his field goal attempts in the first half.

The Bruins, who have won eight of the last nine National Collegiate Athletic Association championships, play at Oregon Thursday and Oregon State Saturday.

Southern California's Trojans, the only club with much chance of beating UCLA out of the conference crown, dropped two games behind when they were upset by Washington 73-70.

In other Pacific Eight games, California's Bears shaded Oregon State 79-77 and Oregon came from behind twice and trimmed Stanford 76-69.

Cal benefited from two goaltending calls against Oregon State in the last 70 seconds. Vance Schram, making his first start at guard, was Cal's high scorer with 18 but the go-ahead field goal and the last free throw were the work of Carl Meier.

Oregon overcame 10-point leads twice against Stanford's Cardinals, the last time with just 10 minutes remaining. Doug Little pumped in seven long field goals that time but the deciding points came on two layups by freshman Ron Lee.

Third-ranked Long Beach State, which has made the Pacific Coast Athletic Association race an exercise in futility for its opponents, thumped the Pacific Tigers 85-64 for its 63rd straight home triumph. All-America Ed Ratleff led the way with 24 points.

In other PCAA games, San Diego State got by San Jose State 76-73 and UC-Santa Barbara edged Los Angeles State 96-94. San Diego had five players in double figures as Clarence Allen hit 24 points for Santa Barbara while Raymond Lewis got 38 for Los Angeles.

San Francisco held on its onegame lead in the West Coast Athletic Association by beating Seattle 100-85 while second-place Santa Clara thumped St. Mary's 100-74.

Kevin Restani scored 30 points for the Dons and Mike Steward got 22 for Santa Clara, which hit on 54.2 per cent of its shots.

In other WCAC games, Nevada-Reno downed Pepperdine 101-93 and Loyola-Los Angeles defeated Nevada-Las Vegas 81-76. Nevada-Reno's win came despite a 56-point performance by William "Bird" Averitt of Pepperdine. Luther Philyaw got 20 points for Loyola.

Hockey Teams Win 1, Lose 3

The Peewees defeated San Francisco, 5-2 for the only win among Marin teams competing in the Northern California Amateur Hockey League.

Marin Bantams lost to S.F., 3-1, the Marin Midgets lost to Stockton, 8-0, and the Marin Squirts lost to Berkeley, 4-3.

Sonoma Wins, Loses

TURLOCK — Sonoma State College opened its 1973 baseball season with a 1-0 victory over Stanislaus State in the first game of a non-league double header here Saturday. The Cossacks dropped the nightcap, 3-1.

Bank Of America Will Build New Branch Outlet In Tiburon

Bank of America will have a new branch bank in Tiburon this year at the corner of Tiburon Boulevard and Beach Road, just south of Safeway Store, across the street from the Boardwalk.

Tiburon developer Fred G. Zelinsky will build the new building, with Willard D. Rand of San Francisco as architect. The new bank, to replace the existing branch at 10 Marin Street, will be a one-story building with a mezzanine.

HOME SAVINGS and Loan Association also plans to have a new building in the same area, just north of Safeway Store. Developer Zelinsky said it will be a year before the Home Savings building will be ready for use.

Zelinsky Hayden

RICHARD HAYDEN of Kentfield, former manager of the Sausalito Cellars gourmet liquor and wine shop, has joined Custom Package Stores Inc. of San Rafael, operator of the Bourbon Shops of Marin.

John W. Gay, general manager and executive vice president of Custom Package Stores, said Hayden will serve as relief manager, succeeding Glen Elfman of Fairfax, who was promoted to manager of the Bourbon Shop at 5641 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera.

Custom Package Stores now has six Bourbon Shops in Marin County, with the seventh planned on the Miracle Mile in San Anselmo, opposite United Markets.

SAUSALITO CELLARS, which opened in August of 1972 at 2951 Bridgeway in Sausalito, closed after a series of floods culminating in the deluge of Jan. 12.

Douglas F. Woods of San Rafael, owner of Sausalito Cellars, said business was an instant success, but the floods were too much. "I was flooded six times in about five months, and the last time I had three feet of water in the store," said Woods. He has applied for a diasater loan, and the future of the Cellars is uncertain.

Woods has another store called Save Center Liquors in Richmond, which he has operated for about four years.

COFFEE ETC. at Northgate Mall, which specializes in coffees from 14 different countries, will open another branch in Napa about the first of April.

This will be the third Coffee Etc. shop for owner Fred Debow of Terra Linda, who opened his first at Northgate Mall in October of 1965. His second shop was established three and one-half years ago at Coddingtown Center in Santa Rosa.

"I also plan about three more stores in the Bay Area in the near future," said DeBow. He has been in the coffee importing business for 30 years.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Casualty Or Theft Loss May Be Deductible From Income

If you had a casualty or theft loss, you may be able to deduct part of it on your tax return.

Only the casualty loss in excess of the insurance reimbursement and in excess of $100 per loss is deductible on your federal income tax return.

Apparently, many people have been making the decuction and putting the net amount down on the tax return and also a good many people have been putting the net amount of the loss down on the tax return without making the adjustment for insurance reimbursement or making the adjustment for the $100 deduction.

In order to make processing the tax return easier and to eliminate a good deal of needless correspondence between the Internal Revenue Service and the taxpayer, the new tax form provides a separate entry on Schedule A, Form 1040, lines 26 to 30 for deducting such losses.

In other words, you may have something that cost you $100 that had a fair market value of $1,000 at the time of the loss and your actual loss may be $1,000 the fair market value, but you can only deduct your cost basis of $100, less $100, or zero.

The primary difficulty in determining casualty losses is to prove the amount of the loss.

In some cases, it is fairly easy to determine the fair market value of the loss. If you bought a new car that cost you $5,000 and later it was destroyed, then it would appear that your loss is $5,000.

However, you have to determine the fair market value of the car and there are books that list this, although you may have some disagreements about the condition of the car.

One of the biggest problems in this area is the valuation of trees that are destroyed by storms, fire or other causes.

Tree valuations have been a matter of much contention for many years. However, in 1970, the International Shade Tree Conference, Incorporated, published a booklet "Shade Tree Evaluation", which gives formulas for the evaluation for practically every tree known to man and in every region of this country.

This book is authoritative and is recognized as the basis for evaluating trees. It is available for $3.00 per copy from: International Shade Tree Conference, Inc. Post Office Box 71, Urbana, Ill. 61801.

Also, a good source of information is the Internal Revenue Service Publication "Your Federal Income Tax 1972 Edition". It is sold by the Internal Revenue Service and will answer many of your questions.

If this book does not answer ycur question, then you should consult your attorney or accountant for clarification of the very complex tax rules.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have $40,000 from the sale of property which I wish to invest temporarily. I must have absolute security. A good rate of return is also desirable. I have been contemplating U.S. Treasury bills. Is this a proper choice for me? How do I buy them without having to pay a large fee? — S.D.

A. Your proposal to purchase Treasury bills makes excellent sense in view of their safety and the generous return currently available on them. At the present time these short-term-debt obligations are being sold to yield 5.67 per cent on three-month maturities and 5.85 per cent on six-month issues. Interest is paid in advance since the bills are sold at discount from face value, the minimum being $10,000.

Although many commercial banks will handle such transactions, there is usually a small handling charge going in and out, which in effect reduces the interest return on the bills. Bond dealers and brokers also will purchase T-bills for customers, again for a fee.

There is no fee for purchases made directly through your nearest Federal Reserve Bank or branch office. A telephone call or letter should produce the necessary forms and information required for purchase of these securities.

Individuals buying through the Federal Reserve must submit what is called a "noncompetitive tender offer." A completed tender form or letter with pertinent information must be accompanied by a certified check made out to the Federal Reserve Bank of the particular district in which you live. The tender must be in the bank's hands by 1:30 p.m. on Monday and an allotment notice is mailed to you on Tuesday.

The security and a check for the discount will be sent to you registered mail on Thursday.

Because T-bills are "payable to the bearer on demand" they should be kept in a safe deposit box. The bill, upon maturity, may be deposited for credit to your checking or savings account.
